SOUTH POLE RACE NEAR A FINISH

The New York Times Will Receive First Stories of Both Scott and Amundsen.

HAS EXCLUSIVE RIGHTS HERE

London Expecting Daily to Hear That the Antarctic Mystery Has Been Solved.

A CLOSE CONTEST CERTAIN

Who'll Win?—Sir Ernest Shackleton Thinks Norwegian Will Be First, Despite Englishman's Long Experience.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—News of the discovery of the south pole is expected to reach London at any moment, and already the newspapers are beginning to discuss the chances of the rival expeditions of Capt. Roald Amundsen and Capt. R. N. Scott.

Incidentally it may be said that THE NEW YORK TIMES has concluded arrangements whereby it secures exclusive rights for the United States to the first narratives of both explorers. Each will cable a full account of his success or failure from his first landing place on the return journey from the Antarctic.

The Westminster Gazette has a timely article by a man experienced in polar matters, who says:

"At any moment one of the southernmost cable stations may spread over the world the message that the second of the great polar mysteries has been solved and that an explorer has succeeded in doing in the Antarctic what Admiral Peary did and Dr. Cook said he did in the Farthest North.

"In the midst of all uncertainty all that we know practically certain is that the great race, which is surely the most remarkable that has ever been run, is by this time lost and won.

"Who was the winner only a cablegram from Stewart Island or Tasmania, to which it is expected Amundsen will steer the Fram, can tell us, but if Amundsen made the earlier start and the earlier return, the two expected messages should not be far apart.

"The Fram has the longer journey to make, and the Terra Nova is the faster vessel, so that what we are awaiting may actually be the result of a race to give the news of the result of the greater race that preceded it."

Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous Antarctic explorer, when interviewed on the subject yesterday, favored the chances of the Norwegian.

"Of course Capt. Scott has great experience," he said, "but then, you know, the Norwegians can live on the smell of a bone. On the other hand, Capt. Scott's equipment is splendid, and that is a great point in his favor. The two parties must meet somewhere on the journey. Whichever party loses in the race will join hands and come back with the winners. If they should both meet at the pole, it will be a race to see who sends the first news. Amundsen's ship is slower, but Scott has a party to pick up at Cape Adair."

A Copenhagen dispatch says that the Geographical Society at Christiania held a meeting to discuss when Amundsen might be expected back from the expedition to the south pole. All the members agreed that no news of the expedition could reasonably be expected before March.

It was generally held that Amundsen and party reached the ice barrier long ago, but they were unable to advance, owing to the ice being much thicker than it was last Winter.

It is also believed that they have better chances than Capt. Scott, the Norwegian explorers having taken dogs with them, as these animals can stand the cold better than the horses which accompany the Scott expedition.

The great international polar race between Capt. Robert F. Scott, R. N., at the head of a British expedition, and Capt. Roald Amundsen, who leads a party of Norwegians, is in a sense the result of Peary's great exploit. Just at the time that the American was capturing the north pole Sir Ernest Shackleton was getting within a hundred miles or so of the south pole. England was aroused by the achievements of both pioneers, and made up its mind that if the Stars and Stripes flew at the Farthest North the Union Jack should wave from the Farthest South. So a fund was raised in London and Capt. Scott was sent on his way.

Meanwhile, Capt. Roald Amundsen, who had gained Arctic honors of the first rank by discovering the Northwest Passage, to accomplish which Sir John Franklin lost his life, had been fitting out in Norway an expedition with the avowed intention of reaching the Bering Straits by Cape Horn and then drifting across the polar basin to make observations of the polar ice. He admitted that he might do a little work in the Antarctic in passing, but no one supposed he had any intention of making a dash for the South Pole.

Capt. Scott left England in June, 1910. He had with him sixty men, twenty Siberian ponies of the breed which had stood Shackleton in such good stead, thirty dogs, and two motor sledges. He had also his own wide experience with Antarctic conditions.

In 1901 in command of the Discovery, a ship built specially for such service, he had ventured into the Ross Sea and for more than 400 miles had skirted the great ice barrier, discovering a new land to the east. The next year he had landed, and with a sledging party had made his

GEM THEFT IN MAIDEN LANE.

Robbers Blow Open Safe and Get $14,500 Worth of Jewels.

For the first time in years thieves have gone below the "Dead Line" and robbed a Maiden Lane jeweler of $14,500. Emanuel Rose, whose place of business is at 49 Maiden Lane, was the victim. He discovered yesterday that $14,500 worth of diamonds had been taken from his place.

The burglary occurred sometime between 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when Mr. Rose closed for over the holiday, and yesterday morning. The robbery was discovered when the place was opened for business then. It was discovered that the burglars had entered the shop with pass keys and had blown open the safe from which they took everything except a few papers of value to none but Mr. Rose.

It was Mr. Rose himself who discovered the robbery. He is usually at his place of business at least as early as his first clerk, and yesterday opened the office himself. He saw instantly that some one had been in the place since closing time on Wednesday. He noticed first that the heavy cloth coverings had been removed from the showcases, and presently discovered that these had been used as blankets to deaden the sound of the explosion when the safe was blown open. The floor of the office was littered with papers and book which had been taken from the safe, and there were also many trays in which had been gems and pieces of jewelry. Many of the cases were found on the floor, but there was not a trace of a gem.

Mr. Rose notified the police, and detectives, examining the safe, found that it had been drilled at the top and bottom, and then the door blown out.

There is a watchman in the building, and he recalled letting in no one except some scrubwomen. It is believed that the men were in the building when it was closed on Wednesday. How they got out without being discovered is not known.

TURNS TO MEET A BULLET.

Frank Barnard Fights Robber on Lonely Bronx Bridge.

Frank Barnard of 75 Central Park West, who is connected with the Church E. Gates Lumber Company of Oak Point, the Bronx, was on his way home about 9:30 o'clock last night when he heard some one following him through a lonely section approaching the Leggett Avenue bridge of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. Barnard turned around intending to accost the man when there was the report of a revolver and a bullet struck the young man in the mouth.

Barnard started toward his assailant, who sprang to meet him. The men clinched and fought for several moments on the footpath of the bridge. Barnard carried a suitcase in which he is accustomed to carry the payroll of the lumber yard. He would not say last night whether he had money in the suitcase when he was attacked.

The young man and the highwayman fought for several minutes, Barnard holding his own with the robber, who finally broke loose and fled. Barnard followed him for 100 yards or so, and then, feeling weak from his wound, he abandoned the pursuit and made his way to a shanty of the railroad, where employes helped him to the lumber yard, and there called an ambulance from Lebanon Hospital.

Barnard refused to let Dr. Goldsmith attend him, however, and at his request he was sent in a taxicab to St. Luke's Hospital. The police of the Morrisania station searched the neighborhood for Barnard's assailant, but found no trace of him.

KIDNAPPED THE WRONG BOY.

Was Not the Preacher's Son—Townsmen Tear Off Father's Beard.

Special to The New York Times.

SYCAMORE, Ill., Feb. 23.—Disguised with a false beard and accompanied by two detectives, the Rev. Joseph M. Cormack of the Rock River District of the Methodist Church, has succeeded in arousing indignation among the people of Sycamore by attempts to kidnap his child from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marshall, its grandparents and wealthy residents of this place.

Mr. Cormack formerly preached at Shirland. His wife died several years ago, leaving a young son, who was placed in the care of the Marshalls. When the child was 5 years old Cormack kidnapped him from school and took him to Wisconsin. The case was carried to the courts and the child was returned to the grandparents.

On Saturday night the Rev. Mr. Cormack arrived and registered at the hotel as George Smith. He was accompanied by two men who afterward said they were detectives. The kidnapping plan might have succeeded had not the men mistaken another boy staying at the Marshall home for the Cormack lad. They had got the boy into a carriage and were driving away when they found out their error.

The townspeople soon afterward recognized the minister and tore off his false whiskers. The boy is being closely guarded, and the minister and his companions have been warned to leave town.

Joseph Seal Finds Daughter Pulling Rope at Wife's Direction.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Joseph Seal, a machinist, told Magistrate Boyle to-day that his wife had endeavored to force their 13-year-old daughter to aid her in committing suicide.

Seal and his wife separated several weeks ago. Last night Seal went to the house to see his children. He found two of them outside the house. They told him their mother had put them out because she wanted to kill herself.

Seal found his wife with a rope around her neck and Dorothy, the daughter, holding the other end of the rope. The mother was threatening the child with death if she did not pull the rope as the mother directed.

The father took the rope from the girl's hand and caused the woman's arrest. Magistrate Boyle sent her to jail for thirty days.

DR. DOTY LEAVES QUARANTINE

Moves His Effects from the Cottage He Occupied for Sixteen Years.

Dr. Alvah H. Doty, who during his 16 years of service as Health Officer of the Port of New York occupied the cottage at Quarantine with his family, loaded all his household effets into two large furniture vans yesterday, and vacated the residence, which will now be occupied by Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell and his family. Dr. O'Connell at present lives at 190 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, but is expected to take up his residence at the Quarantine in a day or so.

Dr. O'Connell assumed charge of the Quarantine Station yesterday, and was about all day, but as yet there has been no change in the corps of physicians at the station.

GARY'S OWN BILL FOR FEDERAL LICENSE

Steel Chairman Sends to the Senate His Idea of Controlling the Trusts.

NATIONAL BOARD OF CONTROL

To Stop Cut-Throat Competition as Well as Prevent Combinations Restraining Trade—Could Fix Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation has prepared and sent to the Senate Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce a bill elaborating in detail his suggestions for the control of inter-State industrial corporations. The committee is now engaged in an extensive investigation into the subject, and when Mr. Gary testified before it the committee requested him to embody his views in the form of a proposed statute. In this form Mr. Gary has modified some of his proposals to meet suggestions of committee members, and his bill comes as an effort to harmonize his wishes with the wishes of Senator Cummins, the member of the committee most actively presenting views of his own.

Like Mr. Cummins, Mr. Gary advocates the establishment of a board to supervise the great industrial corporations, to be known as the Corporation Commission. He has embodied in his bill a suggestion he got from Mr. Cummins that this commission should have authority not only to prevent combinations in restraint of trade, but to estop such practices as cut-throat competition that tends to create the conditions from which combinations in restraint of trade subsequently arise. Though the issue of a license by the commission was always a prerequisite of Mr. Gary's plan for inter-State business on a large scale, it is an interesting fact that this is one of the suggestions of Senator John Sharp Williams, a Democrat from Mississippi, though the Gary bill goes further into the subject of supervision than does Mr. Williams's plan.

President Would Name Them.

The commission shall consist of three men appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. They shall draw annual salaries of $10,000 a year, and their orders shall be subject to review by the Court of Commerce or any Federal district court. They shall have jurisdiction over all Inter-State Corporations, other than common carriers, having a capitalization or proposed capitalization of $10,000,000 or more, though smaller corporations by conforming to the requirements may take out "certificates of license" and become thereafter subject to the terms of the bill. None of the corporations referred to by the bill shall do a banking business.

In one important particular Mr. Gary's bill goes even beyond the suggestions of most of the radical members of the Senate. This is in authorizing the proposed Corporation Commission to fix a maximum price on commodities sold by the corporation in question. Senator Cummins, who is the leader of the progressives in the matter of trust control, has repeatedly stated in committee that he considers such a grant of power to the commission unconstitutional. Considerable surprise has been occasioned by Mr. Gary, a member of the Steel Trust, going further in this regard than the progressive Senator.

What the Bill Proposes.

Some of the important sections proposed by Mr. Gary are in part as follows:

"Section 8—No corporation licensed hereunder and whose business constitutes, according to the estimate of the commission, more than 50 per cent. of the total business of the same character in the United States shall purchase the property and business of any other corporation or person engaged in a similar competitive business in the United States unless the said purchasing corporation shall first apply to the Corporation Commission, stating the nature of the business so to be purchased, the price to be paid therefor, and such other facts as may be required by the commission. It shall thereupon be the duty of the Corporation Commission to inquire whether the said facts are true, and whether the purchase of said property would tend to create a monopoly in the purchasing corporation or to unduly restrain trade and commerce among the States and with foreign nations in violation of any law of Congress, and if, in the opinion of the commission, such purchase would tend to create a monopoly in the purchasing corporation or to unduly restrain trade and commerce as aforesaid, then the commission shall refuse permission to purchase said property and business, and any purchase, notwithstanding said refusal, shall subject the said corporation to a forfeiture of its license as hereinafter provided.

Calls for Prompt Reports.

"Section 9.—Every corporation licensed pursuant to this act shall file in the Bureau of Corporations within sixty days after the first day of January a report on the condition of said corporation at the close of business on the preceding thirty-first day of December. The Corporation Commission shall also have power to call for special reports from any particular corporation whenever, in its judgment, the same shall be necessary in order to secure a full and complete knowledge of the condition of said corporation. In addition to such reports, every corporation organized under the act shall report to the Corporation Commission within ten days after declaring any dividend the amount of such dividend and the class or classes of stock on which it is payable.

"Every corporation which shall fail to make and transmit any report required by this section shall be subject to a penalty of $100 for each day after the period therein mentioned that it continues in default in the filing of such report.

"Section 11.—In case any corporation licensed under this act shall enter into any contract or combination or engage in any conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, or shall monopolize or attempt to monopolize any part thereof, or shall engage in any oppressive methods of competition for the purpose of obtaining a monopoly of said inter-State commerce contrary to the provisions of the act of July 2, 1890, entitled 'An Act to Protect Trade and Commerce Against Unlawful Restraints and Monopolies,' its license may be forfeited, or the said corporation may be enjoined from the continuance of such acts, as hereafter more particularly provided.

Could Call Witnesses.

"Section 13. The said commission shall have the same power of inquiry over commerce conferred upon the Bureau of Corporations under the act creating the Department of Commerce and Labor, and may avail itself of all the information

CABINET CAMPAIGN TO HELP TAFT WIN

President Determined to Use All His Forces in His Effort to Get Renomination.

COLONEL'S BACKERS HOPEFUL

Though Many Progressives Openly Admit That His Columbus Speech Has Weakened His Chances.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Developments of the day among Republican politicians make it clear that the fight for the nomination at the Chicago Convention next June will soon get into the rough-and-tumble stage, where somebody will be liable to be hurt almost every day. Among the supporters of President Taft in the Senate and House of Representatives there is a distinct desire to have the President mix it up roughly right away with the Sagamore Hill statesman. The opinion prevails among the Republican politicians in Congress that the more vigor the President puts into his pre-convention campaign the better it will be for him.

In his fight the President will have the united support of his Cabinet. It was announced to-day that Secretary Stimson, on whose behalf Col. Roosevelt made his whirlwind campaign in New York State in 1910, will speak for President Taft at Chicago on March 5. Other members of the Cabinet have already taken the stump and it is expected that, before very long, every Cabinet member who is available will be actively engaged in the most acrimonious contest that has distracted the Republican Party since the great Blaine campaign of 1884.

It is clearly recognized on all sides that there is no longer any possibility of avoiding a red-hot conflict. Col. Roosevelt's "charter of Democracy" speech at Columbus has so emphasized the difference between the two elements of Republicans that there is now no possibility of escaping the issue. The Colonel's purpose is to force the Republican Party into the adoption of a progressive platform along the lines he lays down. His Columbus speech is regarded as a square announcement that the Taft Administration is not a recognized custodian of the Roosevelt policies, and nothing is expected of him now except the announcement that he will cheerfully climb on the platform that he outlined at Columbus and lead the fight himself.

But it is evident from every point of consideration that Col. Roosevelt has weakened himself as a candidate by his Columbus speech. There was a time not long ago when it was felt even by regular Republicans friendly to the President that it would be possible for both elements of the party to unite in the support of Col. Roosevelt in case he should be named at Chicago. He was, of course, satisfactory to the progressives, but at the same time it was felt that his long record as a faithful supporter of the party organization would entitle him to and would justify the support of the regulars if he should be the nominee. But the Columbus speech has greatly changed that feeling. It has not only dampened the ardor of the less radical progressives, it has clearly determined many of the old line Republican leaders that they cannot under any circumstances follow him as a nominee.

The character of the fight that will be made upon the President is already shown in the desperate effort of some of the progressive newspapers to distort some remarks of Mr. Taft in his Lincoln's birthday speech in New York City, when he made a frank declaration that he dared to say that not all the people were fitted for self-government. There has been a persistent effort on the part of a number of progressive newspapers to distort this into a declaration that all the people are not fitted for self-government. It requires, of course, only a casual reading of the two sentences to note their vital differences, and the Taft managers here are pointing out the way in which what the President actually said is deliberately distorted by his opponents as a positive proof of the unscrupulous lengths to which some of the anti-Taft men are willing to go.

At the Roosevelt headquarters here an air of confident expectancy obtains. It is pointed out that the real campaign for the election of delegates to the Chicago Convention who will vote for the nomination of Col. Roosevelt has not yet started, and the assertion is made that when it does get under way the figures in the Roosevelt column will very soon be satisfactorily comparable with those in the Taft column.

The Taft people, however, go on almost daily collecting additional delegates. Every day brings numbers of telegrams to the White House or to the Taft headquarters announcing new indorsements of the President by county or district conventions. There is a line of activity in behalf of the President which is making itself felt all over the country.

There is no disposition, however, to discount unduly the potentiality of Col. Roosevelt as a candidate, and the Taft managers realize that vigilance and activity are necessary on their part. The President himself is taking more of a hand in the matter than he has heretofore. He had at dinner at the White House to-night the Republican members of Congress from Michigan. Former Representatives Denby and Diekema were also present.

It is understood that there was a general discussion of the situation in Michigan, with particular reference to the selection of a Taft leader for that State. Gov. Osborn of Michigan is at the head of the Roosevelt forces there, and is making a red-hot fight for the election of Roosevelt delegates to the Chicago Convention. There was a good deal of disaffection in that State among Republican farmers owing to the Canadian reciprocity proposition. But the Taft managers are, nevertheless, confident that they will be able to obtain a solid delegation for the President.

There is not entire agreement among the Taft men as to the wisdom of the President himself forcing the fight on Col. Roosevelt's speech. There is some inclination to believe that that speech is its own best antidote and that it would be fully as effective as an argument for the renomination of President Taft if left entirely alone. This is not the general view, however, and the expectation is that the fight will be made very vigorously.

Leroy T. Vernon, Washington correspondent for The Chicago News, was appointed chief of the Publicity Bureau of the Taft headquarters to-day. His paper has given him a four months' leave of absence. The announcement was made following a conference between Mr. Vernon, secretary to the President Hilles, and Representative William B. McKinley, manager of the Taft Bureau. An active publicity campaign will begin at once.

CONFESSES KILLING BABIES BY POISON

Winifred Ankers, Woman of All Work in Brooklyn Infants' Hospital, Put Oxalic Acid in Milk.

WANTED REVENGE ON NURSES

Didn't Mean to Kill the Little Ones, She Moans, but Only to Make Nurses Work Hard—Thought Insane.

Breaking down under the constant fire of questions by detectives, Winifred Ankers, the young woman of all work in the Infants' Hospital of the Brooklyn Nursery at 404 Herkimer Street, confessed last night that it was she who had put oxalic acid in the milk of the babies and caused the death of eight of them in that institution since Sunday. The young woman clasped her own baby as she told the group of detectives, who have been watching her incessantly, with tears running down her face, that she had poisoned the milk, and moaned time and again, "I didn't mean to kill them." It was all done, she said, in revenge for fancied wrongs.

Just how near she came to wiping out every patient in the hospital, and there are thirty infants in the wards, the authorities learned from the girl's own lips for the first time. She was engaged in putting the acid in the milk when somewhere down the hall a door slammed and she fancied someone was coming. That alone saved the lives of the other infants for she had intended to put acid in every one of the forty or more milk bottles in the kitchen ice box.

At 9:30 P. M. Acting Capt. Coughlin of the Brooklyn Bureau and Lieuts. McKurdy, Thompson, and Connors were taking a turn at the endless inquiry. McKurdy, who has been watching the suspected woman constantly since the discovery of the crime, repeated many questions, but she protested her innocence until her mother love was touched, and then the confession was wrung from her pallid lips. The baby has been her lodestone toward a better life, and upon him she lavished a wealth of affection.

McKurdy had noticed this love for her child and her refusal to be separated from him.

"We know you put the poison in the milk," he said, "and we are going to arrest you now and take the baby away from you."

In a flash the woman leaped from her chair, white of face and with flashing eyes.

"I will kill you if you separate me from my baby," she cried with outstretched arms leaping forward.

She was restrained and suddenly the fire died out of her eyes and she wilted so that she had to be supported.

"Don't take my baby," she pleaded, and then she excitedly said, "I will tell you all about it. I did put the oxalic acid in the babies' milk, but I did not intend to kill them. Indeed I didn't."

Then she began the recital of her crime. Time after time she was shaken with sobs, and the police had to wait for her to continue.

Lives Saved by Interruption.

"On last Saturday night I went into the kitchen. It was nearly midnight and just after the milk had been made up for the babies' food. The place was deserted and no one saw me enter the place. I walked quietly to the icebox and just inside were the thirty or more bottles all ready for feeding time. I took the bottle of oxalic acid and then pulled the absorbent cotton out of a bottle and poured some of the acid in. Then I took the stopper out of another bottle and put in the acid. I think I did this to ten or twelve bottles. I had my hand on another stopper when I heard a noise down the hall, as though a door had been opened or shut, and I was afraid to do anything more. I put the icebox top down and, holding the bottle of acid tightly in my hand and concealing it by my dress, I walked out and went to my room."

She was asked whether it had not been her intention to put the poison in every one of the bottles, and a storm of sobs shook her as she confessed that she had so intended, and that all that prevented her from poisoning every baby in the place was the fancy that some one was coming.

"God knows I did not want to kill them, and I did not think the acid would have that effect," she continued. "I wanted to get square with some of the nurses and the people in this place. They have not acted right and they have not treated me and the baby right. I simply wanted to make the babies ill so that the nurses and the others would have plenty of work to do. I wanted to see them working hard. They have snubbed me and have talked about me, and I wanted to get square on them. I had nothing against the babies, and, indeed, I did not want them to die."

After saying this she almost collapsed. "You won't take my baby away?" she cried in a frenzy.

After hearing her confession, the detectives sent for Assistant District Attorney Warbasse. When he came the woman was told of her rights and that what she said could be used against her.

"I know that," she said in tears, "but I have always known that the truth must come out sooner or later."

Miss Ankers was placed under arrest. Because of her condition and the fact that she is nursing a very young baby it was deemed best not to take her to the police station, but to keep her under surveillance at the hospital.

Ever since the coming of the police into the case, and since suspicion pointed to her as the poisoner, she has been under surveillance, and a uniformed policeman from the Schenectady Avenue Station has stood at her door. Precautions were taken last night to prevent her doing harm either to herself or the baby. This morning she will be brought into the Gates Avenue Police Court and arraigned on a charge of homicide.

It is believed that the young woman is insane, and she will be examined by alienists. Dr. W. H. Aten of 100 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, an alienist, who is one of the consulting physicians of the hospital, was to have examined Miss Ankers to-day, for the authorities had already suspected that she was mentally deranged.

Late last night when the Assistant District Attorney left the hospital he said Winifred Ankers had signed her confession. He was asked if the confession could be seen. His reply was that he would see, and he entered the hospital where he held a conference with Dr. Rodney Fiske, the chief of staff, and Dr. Herbert C. Allen, the house surgeon. When he came out again the Assistant District Attorney said the confession could not be seen.

The Baby Poisoner.

Winifred Ankers is about 24 years old. She is of medium height, with just enough flesh to save her from being classed as thin. Her features are regular, her face is colorless, and her straw-colored hair is parted in the middle and brought down

600-MILE SUBMARINE TRIP.

Newest Craft to Make It from Newport to Norfolk.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 23.—The newest submarines of the navy, E 1, commanded by Lieut. Clarence L. Hinkamp, are at the torpedo station receiving torpedoes and are being prepared for their run of six hundred miles to Norfolk, Va., to join the third submarine division. They are the first submarines to be fitted with wireless apparatus, which have a receiving and sending radius of twenty miles. They are also the first to be fitted with fuel oil engines.

The boats start Sunday or Monday through Long Island Sound to the New York Navy Yard for provisions, and thence through the Delaware breakwater. On the run from Boston the boats made 18½ on the surface at full speed and 11 knots submerged.

GIRL DANCES TO HER DEATH.

Heart Fails After Finishing a Night's Programme of Twenty Numbers.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., Feb. 23.—"Please play a few more dances," pleaded Catherine Jarchone, eighteen years old, to the leader of the orchestra at a dance on the east side early this morning. "The ball has passed too quickly. I hardly know I've been dancing at all."

Miss Jarchone had danced the twenty or more dances on the regular programme, but seemed as fresh as when she started. The musicians would not accede to her request. The young woman went to her home and asked her mother to allow her to sleep until noon. Mrs. Jarchone went to the girl's room at noon and called her, but there was no response. She was dead.

A physician said the young woman's heart had been affected by excessive dancing.

$10,000 GEMS IN SUIT CASE.

Philadelphia Police Find Stolen Jewelry and a Confessed Burglar.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—The police found a dress suit case this afternoon containing about $10,000 worth of stolen jewelry in a house at Fifteenth and Brown Streets, where it had been left by Frank Gallagher, a prisoner in Moyamensing, awaiting trial on a charge of shooting a man.

Gallagher was identified this morning by several residents of Germantown, who declared that they saw him in their neighborhood just before their homes had been broken into. Gallagher admitted that he was the man and said he had left the suit case in the care of a blind uncle.

The police have arrested Albert Mayer and charged him with being a member of the burglar's gang.

HELPLESS IN TRAIN'S PATH.

Watchman's Lantern Lit Just in Time to Stop Train Son Switched.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Feb. 23.—While Peter Bintzer, 60 years old, was pinned to a railroad track by a huge piece of ice, his son, a night operator at Perkasie, gave an express the open track, being ignorant of his father's danger, but as the train bore down upon his helpless parent, the latter managed to relight his lantern and flag the train.

The father is a watchman employed by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway. In the Perkasie tunnel he had been in the habit of cutting the ice from the walls when no train was due to pass over the tracks. He entered the tunnel just after midnight and worked at the ice until after 2 o'clock. He had reached the entrance of the tunnel to return to his watch house when a cake of ice weighing several hundred pounds fell from the ceiling, crushing him to the tracks.

A lantern which he carried was dashed to the ground and the flame extinguished. Alone in the darkness, he fought desperately to free himself, but could not move. As the time for the 3:20 train drew near, to which his son had given a clear way, the man renewed his struggles, moving his body slightly until he was able to grasp the lantern. Then started another fight to get a match from his pocket. Finally he was successful, lighting the red lantern and placing it on the track as a warning just in time to flag the train. He was lifted from the tracks by the train crew and carried to his home in Perkasie, where he is suffering from serious internal injuries.

SALOON KEEPERS LIABLE.

Proprietors in Illinois Pay Damages for Robberies in Their Places.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 23.—If a man becomes intoxicated in a saloon, and afterward is robbed, the saloon keeper who sold him drinks and the owner of the property on which the saloon is situated are liable to the victim, not only for the amount he lost, but also for heavy damages, according to a decision of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The case in which this judgment was handed down was that of John Wiesguth against P. J. Dwyer and John Stack in East St. Louis. The suit was brought by Wiesguth's wife, Mrs. Sylvia Wiesguth. Dwyer was a saloon keeper and Stack owns the building in which his saloon was located.

It was stated that Wiesguth, an employe of the Illinois Central Railroad, received his monthly pay check of $85. He owed a bar bill of $6 to Dwyer, and went to his place to pay it. He remained in the place and bought drinks until he was drunk, and when he returned home his money was gone. Mrs. Wiesguth was given $3,000 damages.

DOG FRIGHTENS BELMONTS.

Family of August, Jr., Delays Trip for Pasteur Treatment.

It became known yesterday in Islip, L. I., where the junior August Belmonts have a fine Winter home, that the reason the family did not sail for Europe in January, as their plans had been announced, was because treatment by the Pasteur method was considered necessary for the Belmont children.

A mad dog scare upset the neighborhood of Islip a few weeks ago, about the time the Belmonts had planned to go South, prior to a European trip. One of the Belmont dogs, which had been allowed great liberty with the children, was noticed as behaving queerly, and, circumstances considered, a veterinarian advised that the animal be shot. Fearing that the dog might have scratched one of the youngsters, Mr. Belmont as a precautionary measure, had them all treated by the Pasteur method, the doctors having been called from New York.

The treatment was continued for fifteen days. Not only were the three children, August 3d, 6 years old; Bessie, 3 years old, and Alice, 18 months old, subjected to the treatment, but both Mr. and Mrs. Belmont were objects of the doctors' precautions.

BRANDT DECISION TO BE APPEALED

Carmody and Whitman Agree on Step After Dix Had Threatened Action.

GOVERNOR STANDS FIRM

Again Rejects Pardon Plea and Regrets Blocking of His Inquiry by Gerard's Decision.

BAIL FOR THE PRISONER

Likely to be Granted To-day—Brandt Accused in Affidavit by a Former Employer.

Attorney General Carmody, after a four-hour consultation with District Attorney Whitman, announced last night at the Hotel Belmont that he would take an appeal from the decision of Supreme Court Justice Gerard sustaining the writ of habeas corpus which brought Foulke E. Brandt, the former servant of Mortimer L. Schiff, from Clinton prison, where he was serving a thirty-year term for burglary at the Schiff home.

The appeal will be taken immediately after Mirabeau L. Towns, counsel for Brandt, presents the formal order to Justice Gerard for signature, and Mr. Towns declared last night that he would present that order this morning. This step will leave the way clear for an immediate review of Justice Gerard's decision by the Appellate Division, and the case, if necessary, will go from the Appellate Division to the Court of Appeals.

The whole procedure, with the specific understanding that there shall be no delay, is not expected to take more than a month, and the prisoner, in the meantime, standing in the eyes of the law as one accused but never tried, will be admitted to bail, probably to-day. District Attorney Whitman has stated that he will ask for $5,000 bail on the two indictments against Brandt, $2,500 on each charge.

The decision of the Attorney General, which coincides exactly with that of the District Attorney, came as a surprise in view of the statements from Albany earlier in the day that he did not agree with Gov. Dix, who demanded that an appeal be taken. Mr. Carmody, when asked to give a more extended statement of his position last night, suggested that District Attorney Whitman do the talking.

"Whatever he says is all right," he said. "We agree on everything."

Their Explanation of the Appeal.

This is the joint statement which Mr. Whitman then issued:

> We are agreed that Foulke E. Brandt's indictment was illegal. We are agreed that his conviction was illegal. And, these things being true, we are agreed that his sentence was consequently also illegal.
>
> We feel, however, that there is a serious question of law at issue which should be passed upon by the highest court in the State as to whether the writ of habeas corpus is a proper remedy in this case.
>
> It is clearly the duty of the District Attorney—and the Attorney General agrees with me in this—to defend the judgments of the Courts of General Sessions if they can be defended.
>
> And so we both feel that it is the duty of the State to appeal from this decision in order that the highest courts may pass upon this most important issue. The principles underlying the writ of habeas corpus are also very important, and they, too, shall be interpreted as applying to this case.
>
> The order, however, not yet having been formally entered, no appeal can be taken until it is entered. The appeal will be taken immediately after it is entered, the District Attorney acting in harmony with the Attorney General, who, in accordance with the regular procedure in such cases, moves the appeal through his office.

When asked whether either or both of the officials had been in consultation with Justice Gerard during the evening they said that they had not.

While the appeal is pending Mr. Whitman says he will call Brandt before the Grand Jury. This move, he says, will be made with the full permission and authorization of Attorney General Carmody.

The Delay on the Gerard Order.

It had been generally expected that Justice Gerard's decision would be filed yesterday. When it was learned, however, that Mirabeau L. Towns had gone to Albany in the prisoner's behalf, it was rumored that no order would be presented to Justice Gerard for many days in order to give the Governor as much time as possible in which to change his mind about extending Executive clemency. The order once having been entered, of course, the Governor, under the Constitution, would no longer have the power to pardon Brandt.

Then came the news from Albany that the Governor had absolutely refused to pardon; that he resented the suggestion sent to him by District Attorney Whitman on Thursday and concurred in by Justice Gerard himself to the effect that the order for the decision would be purposely deferred so as to give the Governor a chance to act. It would be "an insult to the court to dishonorably take advantage of a technical opportunity to exercise a jurisdiction which has actually been swept away by a decision," the Governor said.

"I am not holding up the entry of the order," said Justice Gerard last night. "The order must first be presented to me before I can sign it, and that move must come from the prisoner's counsel. I wouldn't have to sign the decision even by next Christmas. I have simply rendered an opinion. If I saw fit to do so I could add to the opinion or detract from it up to the moment that it is formally filed. Gov. Dix can pardon Brandt, of course, until it is filed."

Asked whether he had received any personal message from the Governor protesting against his action in the case, he said that he had not. He also denied the rumor that he would soon go to Albany to confer with the Governor on the Brandt case.

Towns Weeps for Dix.

Mirabeau L. Towns on his return from Albany last night said that he had made an appointment to see Gov. Dix to urge on him the advisability of sending a message to the Legislature recommending an investigation for the purpose of ascertaining whether "justice is purchaseable" and the courts in this city can be unduly influenced.

"I didn't go to Albany to get a pardon for Brandt for he is already free, but I wanted to save the Governor from himself. What I wanted above all things was to have him send a message to the Legislature recommending an investigation with a view of ascertaining whether justice can be purchased and the courts can be 'reached' in this city.

"I didn't see the Governor, but I did see his legal adviser, Mr. Van Santvoord. The Governor, after promising to see me, had become panic-stricken. He let Mr. Van Santvoord take messages from and to me, and the sum and substance of it was that the Governor sent word that his conscience would not permit him to pardon Brandt. I sent word to him that if this was the case he had better get rid of his conscience, the sooner the better."

The Governor as his final answer sent out to Mr. Towns a copy of the statement which appears in THE TIMES's Albany dispatches this morning, in which he criticizes Justice Gerard and declares anew that he cannot interfere in the Brandt case owing to the Gerard decision.

"The tears trickled down my face when I read that statement," said Mr. Towns. "The Governor seems to have gone out of his way to attack the righteous Judge who to-day is the idol of the people because of the evidence he has given of character independence and that he cannot be reached.

"I left when I had become convinced that the Governor was determined to commit political hari-kari and create not only a State and National issue in the next campaign, but, what is worse, a new race issue."

A. J. KULL ACCUSES BRANDT.

Former Employer Says Prisoner Robbed Him and Confessed.

De Lancey Nicoll, of counsel for Mortimer L. Schiff, made public yesterday an affidavit signed by Alfred J. Kull of Far Hills, N. J., in which Mr. Kull accuses Brandt of larceny and forgery. This Mr. Kull is the one mentioned in Police Lieutenant Woolridge's report as one of the employers of Brandt. In the affidavit are mentioned several other persons whose names also appeared in the Woolridge report, all former employers of Brandt, and the affidavit, it is said, will go far to establish the fact that the Woolridge report was not as false as has been charged. This report, coming so close on the heels of the unearthed record of Brandt in Philadelphia is expected to have weight in any report to Gov. Dix which counsel for Mr. Schiff may present.

The affidavit was obtained from Mr. Kull on Feb. 20, and was sworn to in the presence of a Justice of the Peace. This is the statement issued by Mr. Nicoll:

Alfred J. Kull of Far Hills, N. J., who is temporarily in North Carolina on business, was seen on Tuesday, Feb. 20, 1912, and signed a statement, of which the following is a copy:

Alfred J. Kull, over 21 years of age, a citizen of the United States, residing at Far Hills, State of New Jersey, U. S. A., deposes and says that during the Summer of 1904, in the month of July (?) I employed a young man by the name of Folke Engelbrecht Brandt, as an office man, and gave him charge of my accounts, in which capacity he had charge of my bank account in the Bernardsville National Bank, and in his work made up my payrolls, as well as keeping all books of account, in which capacity I found him quite proficient, until about the month of October I found my bank account overdrawn. Upon visiting the bank I was informed by Mr. Kissel, an officer of the bank, that my young man, Brandt, had been having some checks cashed. Trying to discover what checks and what sums said Brandt may have had, to be cashed, I found several check stubs missing from my check books. Upon further looking, I discovered seven fictitious names on my payroll, placed there by said Brandt for the purpose of his appropriating said payroll money. I made this discovery by changing my habit of paying by check as previously to paying in cash.

The amount thus taken by Brandt without my consent or knowledge and confessed to by said Brandt in the presence of one Gustav Carper, was between $1,000 and $1,200; exact amount I could never determine.

The very last week of his being in my employ he, Brandt, took from my mail a check drawn to my order by Frederic Cromwell for about $400, (said check being a matter of record, as I made an affidavit in a suit between said Cromwell and Dr. Woodbury.)

This check of Cromwell's said Brandt negotiated with Dr. Woodbury and obtained the money thereon. He [Brandt] represented himself to the doctor as being me and had an operation on his nose. This transaction with the Cromwell check was without my knowledge or consent, and, furthermore, I never enjoyed one cent of the proceeds of said transaction.

Said Folke Engelbrecht Brandt is same party who had previous to being in my employ was in the employ of Ledyard Blair and afterward with Mr. Hoffman of New York, also with a Mr. Williams in Stonington, Conn., also in the employ of Mortimer Schiff.

Dated at Cooleemee, N. C., Feb. 20, 1912.

ALFRED J. KULL.

O. L. Casey-J. P. Davie Company, Jerusalem, T. W. P., North Carolina.

Kull also stated that immediately after the discovery of Brandt's peculations he [Kull] went to New York to try to locate Brandt. He was informed by a person acquainted with Brandt that he was "dressed to kill," wearing diamonds and carrying a cane, and that he was stopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel with a woman. Kull visited the hotel only to find that Brandt had paid his bill and departed. Mr. Kull finally located Brandt, who made a full confession of his forgeries and thefts.

Ask for Whitman's Report.

Mr. Nicoll said yesterday that he was still trying to get access to or obtain a copy of the report which District Attorney Whitman sent to Gov. Dix regarding the Brandt investigation. Access to this report was virtually promised Mr. Schiff's lawyers at the close of the afternoon hearing before Commissioner Richard L. Hand last Tuesday, but was later refused. When Mr. Nicoll asked Mr. Whitman for the report, Mr. Whitman referred him to Commissioner Hand, stating that he did not feel free to furnish a copy of the report without authority either from Mr. Hand or from Gov. Dix.

Alton B. Parker, joining with Mr. Nicoll, sent last night this letter to Commissioner Hand relative to the missing report which is said to contain the reason which Brandt stated for desiring executive clemency:

Feb. 23, 1912.

The Hon. Richard L. Hand, The Berkeley, Ninth Street and Fifth Avenue, New York.

Dear Sir: By reference to Pages 8 and 9 of the stenographer's minutes of the hearing before you last Tuesday, it will be found that the Attorney General put in evidence, among other papers, the "Report of District Attorney Whitman to the Governor." An application to-day was made in our behalf to Judge Whitman for a copy of this report, and he informs us that he does not feel free to furnish us with a copy without authority from you or from the Governor.

We assume that it is your intention that all counsel who were heard will have access to all of the evidence submitted, and we, therefore, beg to request that you signify to the District Attorney your willingness that we should have a copy of the report in question. We are sending a copy of this letter to the District Attorney.

Yours very truly.
ALTON B. PARKER,
DE LANCEY NICOLL.

Commissioner Hand was asked last night whether he would grant Mr. Nicoll's request. He said he had not received any letter from either Mr. Nicoll or ex-Judge Parker.

"In any event," he added, "I have no such report in my possession. I can't discuss it."

The Grand Jury investigation before District Attorney Whitman was continued yesterday. The only witness called was John Hanley, who for the last ten years has been a Deputy Warden in the Tombs. He was asked about the missing lawyers' book covering the period from Jan. 1 to April 7, 1907. He told the District Attorney that he had looked high and low for it, and that he had not been able to find it. All the books covering the periods before and after Brandt's stay in the Tombs were found, and were on exhibition in the District Attorney's office yesterday. One of these books begins with April 8, 1907, only a few days after Brandt's conviction on his plea of guilty.

Mr. Whitman also had a talk with Warden Fallon of the Tombs, but having occupied his present place for only a year and a half he was able to give no information about the missing book.

Mr. Whitman found the Tombs day or visiting book, however, and this shows that on March 21, 1907, the day before Brandt was indicted, two alienists, Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald and Dr. William Mabon, head of the Manhattan State Hospital on Riker's Island, visited Brandt and examined him. The visit is significant, it was said, because these same alienists had previously examined Brandt in Mr. Schiff's office on March 11, 1907, the day on which Brandt was arrested. It is understood that Mr. Whitman will try to ascertain why this second examination was necessary.

Brandt was visited yesterday by Robert M. Moore, his personal counsel, in response to a telegram. Mr. Moore said that Brandt was broken up over the delay in the legal proceedings. Mr. Moore also intimated that there was considerable ill feeling among the various lawyers working in Brandt's behalf, and there was a lack of harmony, which he feared might work to the prisoner's detriment.

DIX DEMANDED AN APPEAL.

Was Planning to Force Action if Carmody Decided Against It.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Gov. Dix strongly intimated to-night that he might find means of compelling Attorney General Carmody to take an appeal from the decision of Justice Gerard, sustaining the writ of habeas corpus in the case of Foulke E. Brandt, the former servant of Mortimer L. Schiff, who on his own plea of guilty was sentenced to serve thirty years in State's prison for burglary in the Schiff home in March, 1907.

Gov. Dix and Attorney General Carmody were widely apart to-day in their attitude as to what should be done in the Brandt case. Mr. Carmody, before leaving for New York this afternoon, authorized a rather belligerent statement in which he declared that in his future line of action he would submit to dictation from no quarter.

Dix Explains His Attitude.

Gov. Dix issued the following statement to-night:

It has been stated in the public press that I acted under a misapprehension in yesterday deciding and announcing that the decision of the Supreme Court in the habeas corpus case has, for the time being, completely tied up further proceedings before Mr. Commissioner Hand. It has been stated that because the order in the habeas corpus proceedings has not yet actually been entered, the conviction of Brandt has accordingly not yet been formally and legally set aside, and that the Government accordingly is still authorized to exercise clemency.

I have received a telegram from District Attorney Whitman to the above effect, and I am informed that Justice Gerard announces that he has not yet handed down his decision, of which only a transcript has been made public, and that he will delay entering an order in the case to give me time to grant pardon to Brandt.

My decision, as announced yesterday, was made absolutely with no misunderstanding or misapprehension on my part of the exact status of the proceedings. I was fully aware of the fact that the final order in the habeas corpus proceedings had not been entered, and accordingly that technically I still had full jurisdiction in the matter of executive clemency. But I was also aware of the fact that the decision of the Supreme Court had been announced and made public, and that supposedly the final order would, in the ordinary course, have been entered yesterday but for the fact that yesterday was a public holiday. I naturally and properly assumed that it would be so entered to-day.

The moral effect of the decision of Justice Gerard, as made public by him, was precisely the same as if the formal order had actually been signed and entered. I accepted his published decision, upon which I assumed, and had a right to assume, he would base a formal order, as a declaration of the Supreme Court that Brandt was not legally a convict and that his conviction should be set aside and was set aside.

Hopes Inquiry Will Go On.

The hearing before Commissioner Hand had been duly adjourned until next Tuesday. The questions submitted by me to the Commissioner for full investigation and ascertainment of facts had by no means been fully investigated and ascertained. On the contrary, without my knowledge or approval, the inquiry had been halted at a vital point. For that fact I am not responsible. Nor am I responsible for the fact that its continuance is now suspended; but, as I hope, only temporarily so.

For such suspension the decision of the Supreme Court is alone responsible, for the reason that the moral effect of the Supreme Court decision was to make my warrant of inquiry, for the time being, null and void. I had not the slightest reason to suppose or suspect that a formal order, based upon the announced decision, would not be promptly entered. When the Supreme Court announces its decision by giving a complete transcript to the public press, I consider that its decision has been made; and the fact that there still remains the actual filing of a formal order to make the decision legally effective, does not in the slightest degree change the moral effect of the formal announcement of the court.

The court has enunciated with great emphasis the existence of a personal right of which Brandt is now being deprived. To accept the suggestion that entry of the final order giving legal effect to such personal right is deliberately withheld upon the chance that the executive might dishonorably take advantage of a technical opportunity to exercise a jurisdiction which has actually been swept away by the decision, would be an insult to the court which the executive has sworn to uphold, and for which he entertains a profound respect.

JOHN A. DIX.

Dix Sure of His Ground.

Gov. Dix has spent days of thought and wakeful nights over the Brandt case, and the strain has begun to tell on him. This afternoon, though, as he emerged from his private office to meet the newspaper correspondents in the executive chamber, he was actually smiling and seemed perfectly serene.

Before the statement was given to the press the Governor was asked if his attitude on the Brandt case had changed.

"It has not," said the Governor with great emphasis. "I stand as firm as the rock of Gibraltar on my statement of yesterday and every step I have taken in this case."

"Will the decision of Justice Gerard be appealed?"

"Attorney General Carmody has told me in the most emphatic terms that he would appeal this case if it should turn out that the Gerard decision was adverse to the State," said Gov. Dix.

"Will you compel the Attorney General to take an appeal in case he should not do so of his own accord?" the Governor was asked.

"That is being looked up," was the Governor's reply.

It was apparent to-day that the Governor felt more certain of his ground and better satisfied that the position he has taken is correct than at any prior time since the application of Brandt for executive clemency was submitted to him. The Governor is now prepared to force the issue.

Attorney General Carmody, before leaving for New York to-day, said that the bringing of an appeal rested entirely with his office, and not with the District Attorney in New York County or with the Governor.

"The whole case is in the hands of the Attorney General's office," said Mr. Carmody, "and will be conducted by that office without dictation from any source. I regret very much that there should appear to be differences between the Governor and myself. I have the greatest respect for the Governor's judgment and character, and feel that in the end there will be no disagreement between us. Ultimately the Governor will be on the side of justice, liberty, and law."

Mirabeau L. Towns, counsel for Brandt, came to the Capitol this afternoon to confer with Seymour Van Santvoord, the Governor's legal adviser. It is known that Mr. Towns came to urge the Governor to take advantage of his opportunity to exercise Executive clemency before the order of Justice Gerard is filed. The request was turned down. This is looked upon here as an odd mission, in view of the fact that the habeas corpus proceedings, which were decided in favor of Brandt, were brought by Mr. Towns.

"From my point of view," said Mr. Van Santvoord, "the mission of Mr. Towns to me was not important. It resulted in nothing. Mr. Towns said it was unfortunate that he had not got here before the Governor had issued his statement, but I told him that it would have made no difference had he come before it was made. I should prefer that any statement made regarding our little talk should come from Mr. Towns himself."

"I came to Albany," said Mr. Towns, "for the purpose of making a statement to the Governor in regard to the Brandt case. I saw Mr. Van Santvoord and placed the matter before him. When I arrived I found that the Governor had already issued a statement concerning his position in the case. I deeply regret that the Governor issued that statement before I had an opportunity to talk to him about the case."

SWEDISH SOCIETIES ACT.

Commend the Efforts Made in Brandt's Behalf.

The United Swedish Societies took up the Brandt case at its regular meeting in the Teutonia Assembly Rooms, Third Avenue and Sixteenth Street, last night, and adopted resolutions commending the work of the press, District Attorney Whitman, and Attorney General Carmody.

About ninety delegates were present, forty-five organizations being represented. President Charles K. Johansen was in the chair and the case was discussed vigorously in Swedish for more than an hour. Many of the speakers declared the societies had been deceived five years ago when the matter was considered by them.

It was related that at this time Brandt had appealed to the editor of The Swedish North Star, and the editor, Mr. Johansen, made an appointment with Judge Rosalsky, spent an entire session on the bench with the Judge, and was much impressed by the mercy which he exercised. At the close of the session Mr. Johansen was taken to the Judge's quarters and there saw checks which Brandt was said to have forged, and letters from various sources telling of crimes committed or attempted by Brandt.

Mr. Johansen reported all this to the societies at the next meeting, and also said that Judge Rosalsky had told him that Brandt had been treated leniently and should have been sentenced to prison for life instead of thirty years. Mr. Johansen reported that the evidence seemed convincing, and the societies decided to drop the affair.

Last night's resolution reversed that action and declared that "we strongly and freely express our appreciation of the effective and wonderful campaign that has been inaugurated for holding the Republic's greatest fort—equality before the law."

APE ENTERTAINS ON ST. PAUL

Mrs. Archibald Roberts Loses Some Hair to Playful Chimpanzee.

The American liner St. Paul from Southampton arrived yesterday twenty-four hours late, after having passed through a severe gale which commenced on Wednesday night. According to Capt. Passow the seas swept the decks fore and aft and the passengers were confined to their cabins for forty-eight hours.

Three sailors, who were standing on the boat deck under the bridge on Thursday afternoon, were caught by a big sea and swept aft. They just missed going over the tafrail by being jammed against the harness casks and the after steering house. As it was the three men were severely bruised.

The work of the sailors was made more difficult by the ice and snow which covered the decks.

When the St. Paul arrived at her slip Capt. Passow found that it was full of thick ice, which caused a delay in docking.

Some of the first-cabin passengers went down to the steerage on Wednesday to see a chimpanzee, which was being brought over by one of the passengers. It was said that the simian could use a typewriter, play checkers, and manipulate the deaf and dumb alphabet.

Among the visitors to the chimpanzee was Mrs. Archibald E. Roberts, a niece of the late E. H. Harriman, who held out her hand to the ape while one of the crew, who said he had been in the East African slave trade, said, "Razzim jeejee boye." Whatever this meant, the chimpanzee seized Mrs. Roberts's fur hat and took a few handfuls of hair at the same time. Nothing could be done to call the simian off until the sailor used another phrase, "Lazzim-um-ibbedan-jeejee boye," and the chimpanzee became perfectly calm.

KILLS HERSELF AND CHILD.

Gas Tube Under Bed Clothes—Baby Lies Unharmed on Floor.

A sister, Mrs. Harry Liebermann of 336 Bristol Street, going to visit Mrs. Louis Brauman of 318 Bristol Street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, found the front door locked, and getting no response to her knocks, got a neighbor to break it in. They found Mrs. Brauman and her two-year-old daughter, Lillian, dead in bed. On the floor lay Fannie, fourteen months old, unharmed. A tube from a gas stove ran from the gas jet underneath the bed clothes.

Brauman, a mechanic, was called from his work. He was broken hearted. The police heard that he and his wife had quarreled and that the woman's body was covered with bruises. The latter proved to be untrue. Brauman said he could not imagine why his wife should have taken her life, and insisted that her death must have been accidental.

way south for 380 miles, winning the then furthest south record. In 1903 he traveled another 300 miles over the antarctic snows and brought his expedition back without mishap. He is now 43 years old and is recognized as having all the qualities of a leader of men.

His actual exploring party was intended to consist of 25 men, and they landed at McMurdo Sound with nearly all the ponies, horses, and motor equipment. A smaller party of six men under Lieut. Pennel was detached to King Edward VII. Land, the land that Scott himself had discovered to the eastward of the main land, but the object of their expedition was not to be a dash for the Pole, but to extend the knowledge of the country as far as possible to the East and South.

Capt. Amundsen's party is far smaller and much less thoroughly equipped. It consists of only sixteen men. It has had, however, a long start over Capt. Scott. The exact date of Amundsen's entrance into the antarctic field is not known, but from the scanty information that he has sent out it appears that with eight men and sixteen dogs and provisions for two years, he landed at the Bay of Whales eight months ahead of Scott's arrival in the antarctic. Since then nothing has been heard of him.

Capt. Scott made his headquarters at McMurdo Sound for the Winter of 1910, which corresponded to the Summer in these latitudes of last year. He met with a serious misfortune on landing, as one of his two motor sleighs, on which he depended for making rapid progress till the great Beardmore glacier was reached, sank as it was being conveyed over the broken ice to the shore.

Though no word has been received of his party for months, it is assumed that Capt. Scott sent forward in January last year a party to the foot of the glacier to lay down a depot of supplies. It would then return and rest in Winter quarters. Last October, it is believed, the real advance began. It was to consist, according to the plan drawn up beforehand, of sixteen men with the full equipment of ponies, dogs, and sleighs. As it progressed parties would be sent back according to the plan Peary followed in his north pole dash. Thus, as the provisions were consumed the number of mouths to be fed would be reduced as far as possible. The provisions were to be carried on sledges, the men traveling afoot on skis.

It is thought that both Amundsen and Scott were bound to follow to a great extent the same course. There was some criticism to the effect that the Norwegian had disregarded the ethics of polar exploration in starting his expedition from what had been considered Scott's sphere of discovery. Both parties would be forced to ascend the great Beadmore glacier, and their routes would converge so that when they reached the great plateau at its summit their paths to the pole would be practically identical.

So far as Shackleton ascertained, and he attained the plateau, there is no obstruction after it has been gained. The parties would steer by compass, and it is possible that one party has met the other, and that they may either have combined their forces or decided that since the flag of one nation has already been put at the pole it is useless for the other party to persevere.

In addition to the British and Norwegian parties, the Japanese and Germans have joined in the race to the south pole. The Japanese hunter, Lieut. Shirase, had his eye on the Bay of Whales, and from that point planned to start with only four men. Lieut. Filchner of the German Navy, however, decided to make his attempt from the other side of the antarctic continent. He intended to take up Winter quarters in Weddell Land, and, if possible, push his way entirely across the continent and come out on the other side of the Great Barrier.

WANT OUR TROOPS SENT TO JUAREZ

El Paso Mayor Tells Stimson That Disorders There Need Our Intervention.

GEN. OROZCO JOINS REBELS

Washington Hears Report That He and Gen. Trevino Have Deserted Madero.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The situation in Mexico, while not suggesting an immediate mobilization of United States troops, is, from all accounts received at the War Department, approaching the point where this Government will again consider the advisability of a sharp movement to protect our country along the border. There is no mistaking the present temper of the Administration. The United States troops will surely cross the boundary the next time we have to act in connection with the unrest in Mexico. It may be accepted, as coming from the highest authority, that this step is already decided on. It only remains for sufficient disorders to occur to produce the situation that demands a decisive movement of American troops, not only to the border, but across it wherever American property and the lives of Americans are menaced. Such points are El Paso and Douglas.

A delegation of citizens of El Paso had a conference this afternoon with Secretary Stimson and Major Gen. Wood, Chief of Staff, in regard to the situation at Juarez. The delegation consisted of C. E. Kelly, Mayor of El Paso; W. Cooley, J. A. Happer, and H. S. Potter, manager of the street railway system running through both towns.

Mayor Kelly told Secretary Stimson that the condition of things at El Paso was unbearable.

"The two places," he said, "are practically one city. In Juarez there is a population of 14,000, in El Paso 45,000. To all intents and purposes they form one people and one municipality, only they are in different jurisdictions—one in the United States and the other in Mexico.

"Juarez is absolutely destitute of any form of government. Lawlessness and disorder rule there. We cannot go over and keep order and the citizens will not do it themselves. Robberies and hold-ups are the regular thing night and day. Every American doing business over there has been stripped of his property and practically run out.

"I do not want to excite feeling anywhere in this country or in Mexico. But our people are in danger. More trouble is surely coming if all reports from the interior of Mexico are true, and they come from men we can trust. I am afraid every time our street cars go over the line that some affray may happen. If the town is again besieged nothing the city or State authorities can do will prevent bullets coming over the line, and our citizens being shot as so many were last year.

"We have the inborn right to defend ourselves and men cannot forever be made to respect international etiquette while their wives and children are being shot down in violation of all law. We must have protection."

The delegation took occasion to express a protest against the reduction of the cavalry force of the United States as proposed by the Democratic majority of the House.

"If ever we need cavalry," said Mr. Potter, "God knows it is right now. We have seen the Congressmen from our State and told them what we think of the idea of cutting down the army at this time and we hope it will have some effect."

The War Department received a dispatch from citizens of Laredo, Texas, today protesting against the reduction of the cavalry arm in view of the impending need of troops on the border.

Orozco Joining the Rebels?

In a dispatch from a Government official on the border it was reported that Gen. Geronimo Trevino, in Chihuahua, had turned to the aid of the insurrectos and that Gen. Orozco was joining him. The dispatch read:

"Have reliable information that Gen. Orozco will join the revolutionary forces of Gen. Geronimo Trevino and has agreed to accept provisional Presidency of Mexico."

The dispatch, which speaks of "the revolutionary forces of Gen. Trevino," is the first indication that the stanch old Federal General, who stood by Diaz when his reign was tottering and was later accepted by Madero, had turned to the insurrectos.

The Mexican Embassy has no advices and no official there cared to make a comment. The State Department has received no confirmation of the dispatch and was inclined to treat it as a rumor.

A coalition between Gens. Orozco and Trevino is looked upon here as fraught with great consequences. Gen. Trevino was last reported in Monterey, in control of the military in the northeastern part of Mexico, while Orozco was operating in the northwestern part. These two Generals, hitherto controlling practically all Federal troops in the northern half of the country, might, it is believed, completely cut off the north from the south, isolating Mexico City and its immediate vicinity from connection with the United States.

The rather ambiguous wording of the last sentence of the dispatch regarding the provisional Presidency was interpreted among Latin-Americans here in two ways. The majority declared it was intended to mean that Gen. Trevino rather than Orozco had agreed to accept the provisional Presidency.

Officials of the War Department are awaiting confirmation of the reported defection of Orozco with the keenest interest. It was expressed in a brief telegram from Col. Steever at El Paso, in which he stated that "it is reported" that Madero's one time right hand man and the leading General in his army during the revolution, had decided to quit his cause and to head 1,400 revolutionaries who were reported to be marching on Chihuahua.

While such an attitude on the part of Orozco, accompanied by a growth of the rebellion, would perhaps justify an increase of the American troops on the frontier, it was pointed out that, on the other hand, his assumption of the leadership would really diminish the cause for international friction. As Madero severely enforced discipline among his revolutionary troops and protected foreigners and their property, it is expected that Orozco will do the same, and thereby the safety of Americans would be more assured.

HASLETT CASE GOES OVER.

Another Alienist to Examine the Wealthy Brooklyn Recluse.

The proceedings which were opened before Judge Fawcett in the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, to determine whether Samuel E. Haslett, the wealthy recluse of 138 Remsen Street, was competent to manage his estate, were adjourned until Monday. S. Stamwood Menken, counsel for Mrs. Eleanor Haslett Samuel, of New Dorp, Staten Island, the relative of Haslett who brought the proceedings to have him adjudged incompetent, agreed to an adjournment after a conference with John B. Lord, attorney for Mr. Haslett.

At the same time it was announced that Charles F. Murphy, Transfer Tax Appraiser, also Republican leader of the Tenth Assembly District, was appointed as guardian of the person of Mr. Haslett, pending the outcome of these proceedings. Mr. Murphy succeeded Marcus B. Campbell, Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Kings County, who was appointed by the same court a few days ago. Mr. Campbell asked to be relieved.

The question of Mr. Haslett's sanity is still occupying the attention of those interested in the litigation started by Mrs. Samuel. The report of the alienists who declared Mr. Haslett to be in an advanced stage of senile dementia is not satisfactory to Mr. Lord, who holds a power of attorney signed by Mr. Haslett, and dated five days earlier than that obtained by ex-Senator Gardner.

Mr. Lord announced last night that another alienist has been asked by a relative of the recluse to make an examination.

Speaking about Mr. Haslett's condition Mr. Lord expressed himself as very pleased with it yesterday. Dr. H. B. Minton declared that the recluse was much improved. While he would not assert that his patient was mentally unsound, he declared Mr. Haslett was in no mental condition to make a will.

BLACKMAILER GOES TO JAIL.

Judge Gives Vitusky's Wife $25, Then Sentences Her Husband.

Charles Vitusky of 312 Henry Street, believed to be the head of the gang which has been poisoning horses on the east side, and who was convicted of attempted extortion last week, was sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory by Judge Foster in General Sessions yesterday.

At the time he was convicted the jury asked Judge Foster to show extreme clemency to the prisoner, and yesterday the probation officer reported that Vitusky's wife and children were in destitute circumstances. Judge Foster gave them $25 after he had sentenced the prisoner.

Vitusky was convicted of demanding $500 from Louis Blumenthal of 202 Henry Street, and threatening to "blow his head off" if the money was not forthcoming. Shortly after this threat was made Blumenthal's home was demolished by a bomb, and on the day before the trial Blumenthal was shot and killed, his murderers escaping.

Human Chain Saves Drowning Man.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Feb. 23.—Arnold Hopperstead and Guy Oosterhouse, high school students, and Lloyd Cochrane, an instructor at the high school, were climbing over the heavy ice on Lake Michigan yesterday when Cochrane slipped and fell into the water. It was impossible to maintain a footing on the slippery ice, and as the struggling man was about to go down his companions reached him by one hanging on to the other's feet and throwing one end of a sweater to him.

All the requirements, obligations, liabilities, and immunities imposed in relation to testimony before the Inter-State Commerce Commission shall apply to all persons who may be subpoenaed to testify as witnesses or to produce documentary evidence in pursuance of the authority conferred by this act.

"Section 14. The said commission shall have authority by its order to require any corporation licensed hereunder to desist from any violation of this act or of the act of July 2, 1890, entitled 'An act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies,' and may institute proceedings in any District Court of the United States or in the Court of Commerce for the forfeiture of license of said corporation, or to enjoin the corporation from such violation, and said courts are hereby given jurisdiction upon the institution of any such proceedings, either to grant an injunction to decree the forfeiture of a license or to make such other decree as justice and equity may require.

"Section 16. Any corporation licensed hereunder may apply to the commission at any time for a determination as to whether or not any proposed action of such licensee would unduly restrain trade or commerce or create a monopoly, and the commission shall thereupon investigate and make an order allowing or prohibiting such proposed action, and any action taken by any corporation pursuant to such order shall be lawful, but such order, as to its future operation, shall be subject to revocation upon notice. In connection with any order allowing such proposed action and as a condition of granting the same, the commission may fix the maximum prices of any products with reference to which the order is made, if in the judgment of the commission the fixing of such prices shall be necessary to prevent a monopoly or an undue restraint of trade or commerce; and the prices so fixed shall govern the said licensee so long as the order is in force."

Ask Stimson for Ainsworth Records.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The House to-day called upon Secretary of War Stimson for all correspondence and letters bearing upon the charges of insubordination for which Adjt. Gen. Ainsworth recently was relieved from duty in the War Department. The resolution, by Representative Watkins of Louisiana, Democrat, was passed without opposition.

CONFESSES KILLING BABIES BY POISON

on each side so as to cover her ears. Her mouth, which runs in a sharp straight line, gives her a rather severe look which is partly dispelled when she talks. Her eyes are blue.

Suspicion fell upon her first because she bought the oxalic acid which she told Miss Louise Howard, the head nurse, she wanted to clean the operating tables and the sinks. She was employed about the place to do the rougher sort of work and the acid was needed in this work. Another thing that attracted police attention to her were the stories told of her quick temper and dissatisfaction with her treatment in the hospital. She would go into fits of temper and declare that "every hand was against her." This feeling, it is said, grew until she became possessed with the idea that she and her child were being looked down upon and that every one in the hospital was unfriendly to her and talked about her when she was not about. They were two-faced, she said.

It was only a few days ago, the police were told, that she was overheard crooning to her baby. Something had offended her, and she said to the baby in her arms: "Never mind, it will be all right. It will soon be over. I will give you a dose and take one myself, and so end it all."

When she was first questioned about the deaths in the hospital she was not inclined to answer, but after several questions she burst out, wildly:

"It is a shame to put this burden on my shouders. I have had enough sorrow to bear. I know nothing of this awful thing. I bought the acid, it is true, but I bought it on Miss Howard's instructions. I could not have placed it in the milk, as it is not my duty to make up the food."

Evidence of Unsound Mind.

Coroner's Physician Charles Wuest said yesterday as he was leaving the hospital, while Winifred Ankers was still being questioned, that he was convinced from what witnesses had said that she was insane. There were many incidents related to support this conclusion. She forgets where she puts things, he said, and she forgets doing things. Now, when one forgets, say a telephone number while walking across the room to the telephone, that simply shows a poor memory, but when one forgets completely that he has telephoned that is certainly a sign of mental disorder.

"Those in the hospital tell how she has had lapses of memory time and again. It was only on Saturday that she was reported to have said: 'Well, how did I come to do that?' She had put the oatmeal in the bread box. There are more instances of the same kind."

When questioned by the police on Thursday, Miss Ankers was excited, but not unduly so, and she appeared to be ashamed of the position in which she was placed and the suspicion that was directed toward her. Again and again she repeated that she would not commit such an awful crime.

"Why do you try to fasten this awful thing on me?" she cried. "God knows I did not do it."

She admitted that she was quick of temper and that she had done things in a moment of passion that were wrong, but never anything bad. She admitted that she thought some persons in the hospital "two faced," and she just as freely admitted that she had thought of giving baby and herself a "dose," but she did not mean it.

There were some who said that she had said that she would take her life if it were not for her baby.

"He is all the world to me," she said, "and his coming has made a new woman of me."

The supplies for making what is called modified milk were kept in the dietery kitchen, which is in charge of Miss Antoinette Heitz. In the make of this milk limewater and the fat of milk were used. The milk was kept in the kitchen, and large quantities of the limewater were kept on hand. This limewater, except for about a gallon, was kept in the supply room. The gallon bottle was kept in the kitchen closet.

Miss Ankers bought the oxalic acid to be used in cleaning, it is said at her suggestion to Miss Howard, the head nurse. Upon returning to the hospital Miss Ankers divided the acid into two equal parts. One part she gave to Miss Howard, and the other she kept. When the police got Miss Ankers's bottle 75 per cent. of the acid was gone. This the woman explained was because she had used it in cleaning about the place.

The feeding mixture is made up of formulas to suit each individual case, and when it is mixed it is placed in bottles. The food for each baby is made up for the day, and the bottle put in metal carriers and placed in the ice box. There was no particular guard kept to prevent these bottles from being tampered with.

Her Life a Sordid One.

In investigating the case the police were deterred in taking action because the chemical analysis of the organs of the dead children has not yet been made. Their work was directed toward examinations in the hospital to determine how the poison was introduced into the modified milk, and who would have either the inclination or the opportunity for committing the crime. While they were examining the different nurses, doctors, and employes of the hospital, others were looking up the antecedents of the young woman. In this they were assisted by Miss Ankers herself, who frankly told the story of her life, and there is reason to believe that she has told the truth. She came to the hospital a city charge, and she was assigned to work around the place so she could be near and nurse her baby. Those at the hospital were influenced by her story that she wanted to live a good life. It is not probable that she would have remained there much longer, for she was so wrought up over fancied wrongs and what she construed to be the unfriendly attitude of those in the place, that she was making arrangements, she had announced, to go into the country.

The story of her life is a sordid and rather pathetic one. Her name was Gerber. She was legally adopted as an infant by a woman named Ankers and took the name of her foster-mother. Five years ago, when the girl was 19 years old, Mrs. Ankers died, and the girl, just reaching womanhood, was left with $100 to fight the world. She spent the money without a thought of the morrow, and for a time struggled to get along. Then she took the easiest way, and her steps downward were well defined. She at last reached the poorer tenements.

Hr child was born in the Cumberland Street Hospital about ten months ago. She was discharged from the hospital with her baby and went to the Wayside Rest, where she was taken in, and told her story.

"The coming of the baby was a great blessing to me," she said. "It has made a new woman of me, and I want to live for her." So she came with her child to the Infants' Hospital.

Case Baffling at First.

It was on Sunday that the first of the poisoning cases developed in the hospital. This child, Catherine Moore, one month and twenty-one days old, was in a different ward from where the other deaths occurred, but when it was found that she was ill she was moved into that ward, and every death that occurred in the hospital was in this particular ward. The first theory on which the police worked was that the oxalic acid had been mixed with the lime water used in preparing the modified milk for the entire hospital. When, however, it was learned that only the infants in a certain ward were stricken, the police proceeded on the theory that the poison must have been introduced directly into the individual feeding bottles. This was the case.

The second child died very early Monday morning, and there were three more deaths that day. On Tuesday two more died, one on Wednesday, and the eighth late Thursday evening, while the police and Coroner were investigating.

Coroner's Physician Charles Wuest completed late yesterday afternoon an autopsy upon the body of two-months-old Rachel Liebowitz, the eighth baby to die. That autopsy, he said, confirmed the belief that the baby was poisoned and the conclusion was inevitable that the other seven, who had the same symptoms, died from the same poison. He would not say it was oxalic acid that was the agent of death, but simply that some irritant poison had caused death.

There were no additional deaths in the institution since the investigation began, and the four children suffering from poison were reported to have a good chance for life. The hospital is practically in the hands of the police, and there is a special watch kept on the food and drug supplies. Precautions have been taken to guard the dietary kitchen, and access to it is not free.

The stomachs and other organs taken from the dead infants are still in the possession of Dr. Wuest. The appropriation for the Coroner's office does not cover the making of chemical analyses, and Coroner Glidden notified District Attorney James C. Cropsey of this fact, and he ordered that it be done and paid for out of the District Attorney's fund.

Confession Came Unexpectedly.

The solution of the poison mystery was halted yesterday because both the Coroner and the police could proceed no further until the chemists who were to make the analyses of the organs taken from the bodies of the babies had reported and the confession of the Ankers woman came just at a time when the police expected at least a week of inactivity awaiting the Coroner's report.

"We have no money for making the analyses," said Coroner Gillen yesterday, "but they will be made. It may be many days before the reports will be made that can be used in court. We must proceed carefully and all this takes time."

The question of paying for the analyses occasioned much official worriment for there is no appropriation to meet such an expense, and the Coroner reported to District Attorney Cropsey that the case for that reason had come to a standstill.

Poison was officially reported yesterday in the Coroner's office as the cause of death. One of the babies, Adele Leppo, was buried yesterday morning in Washington Cemetery, Flatbush. The death certificate states that death was due to poison, possibly homicide.

The hospital was the object of much curiosity yesterday, and at times groups of persons gathered in front of the building. Mrs. F. H. Boyd of 1,111 Dean Street, Brooklyn, Chairman of the Hospital Committee, took charge inside the building.

District Attorney Cropsey is much interested in the case for he is one of the Advisory Committee of the Infant Hospital. The hospital building was completed and dedicated in 1900, and one of those who assisted in getting the necessary funds and helped to make possible the hospital addition to the nursery was Mr. Cropsey. In the annual report of that year is this:

"We are deeply grateful to Mr. James Cropsey and his committee who have devoted both their time and energy in the supervision of its building."

The nursery is under the direction of fifty-five women managers, and the hospital under a committee of nine of these managers, of whom Mrs. Boyd is the Chairman. The latter explained yesterday that the hospital is not dependent upon the city for support. It is like the nursery for the poor, and if possible those who place babies in its care pay $8 a month. The city places in its care destitute children, and pays only for such patients.

FORGER GETS TWELVE YEARS.

Charles Carlesi Raised a $25 Check to $3,200 and Had It Passed.

Judge Rosalsky sentenced Charles Carlesi, the "King of Forgers," to twelve years in Sing Sing yesterday in General Sessions. A few hours before he imposed the sentence he received a letter threatening to blow up the Criminal Court Building if he sentenced the prisoner, who obtained more than $500,000 through his forgeries. Immediately after receiving the letter Judge Rosalsky turned it over to the Italian Detective Bureau of Police Headquarters.

Carlesi was arrested with Isidore Weiss and Isaac Schutzberger on election night. The police had been trying to fasten some of his crimes upon him for five years. He was convicted of raising a check, originally made out for $25 by the Fiss, Doerr & Carroll Company, to $3,200, which he is said to have had Weiss deposit in an uptown bank for him, afterward withdrawing the cash and closing his account. The check itself was not tampered with in any way, but was photographed, then an electrotype was made by the gang, and this in turn was touched up to the proper shade by an artist who used a camel's hair brush. It is believed that all of Carlesi's forgeries were done in the same way, and that besides being the head of the gang of forgers Carlesi was also the director of the many bomb outrages of last Fall.

KNOX OFF ON TOUR; TO VISIT COLOMBIA

President Restrepo Invites Him and Notifies Minister Ospina of His Recall.

FIRST STOP TO BE AT COLON

To Outline the Purpose of His Visit in a Speech at Panama—Start Delayed Five Hours.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A few hours before Secretary of State Knox sailed from Key West, Fla., on the armored cruiser Washington for his visit to the Latin-American republics bordering the Caribbean Sea, our Minister at Bogota, Mr. Dubois, telegraphed the State Department to-day that the Colombian Government would be pleased to have Mr. Knox visit Cartegena, and Señor Ospina, the Colombian Minister, received word from his Government that he had actually been recalled. To-night the Colombian Legation was closed and the Minister declined to be seen.

Particulars with regard to the official steps taken by Mr. Dubois and the manner of the responses by the Colombian Foreign Office are wanting. Nor does the State Department attempt to explain the long interval between the dispatch of Mr. Dubois, on the 13th inst., informing Colombia of the intended tour of the American Secretary of State to Latin-America and his possible visit to Cartagena, and the final reply announced to-day.

There is no appearance of responsibility on part of the Restrepo Government with the "inopportune" suggestion of Minister Ospina that Mr. Knox would not be welcome at this time in his country. Evidently the Colombians have decided that discretion is the better part, and they would do well to keep in line to learn what the approaching tour of the American Secretary of State means, and possibly to derive from it, if practicable, some degree of assurance that their claim for indemnity for the loss of Panama may yet find some door opened for its consideration.

Mr. Knox was informed to-day of the reply of the Colombian Government, and will, it is said here, at once accept the situation and place Cartagena on his itinerary. Indeed, it is the belief entertained by some that he will all the more now be disposed to go to Colombia, and that he will not be indisposed to discuss with the members of the Colombian Government some possible adjustment of a question which manifestly will survive the present policy of ignoring every demand for its consideration either by diplomacy or arbitration.

"The messages that have been received," said Huntington Wilson, Acting Secretary of State, to-day, "from the various representatives of the countries of the Caribbean Sea region in pursuance of instructions from their Governments in response to the announced intention of Secretary Knox to visit those countries, are characterized by the uniform warmth of their tone of appreciative welcome. The cordiality expressed is distinguished only in the phraseology employed by the different Governments. All see in the proposed visit an evidence of friendship and the opportunity for better acquaintance and the establishment of more intimate relations with the United States. They regard the visit as a significant and friendly demonstration and as a distinction and courtesy of which they are proud and by which they express themselves as honored. Assurances are given by all that every effort will be made to make the visit of Mr. Knox a most happy one."

Special to The New York Times.

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 23.—Secretary of State Knox sailed this afternoon from this port on the armored cruiser Washington as a messenger of peace from the United States to our Latin-American neighbors along the Caribbean Sea.

Just before sailing Secretary Knox announced that he had changed the plans for his itinerary and would proceed direct to Colon instead of stopping at Port Antonio and Kingston, Jamaica. From Colon he will proceed to Panama, where at a reception he will deliver what may be anticipated as the keynote speech of the trip, setting forth what was in the minds of the Administration officials when the itinerary was planned.

Secretary Knox was late in getting away, as his train from Palm Beach did not reach here until 2:30 o'clock, almost five hours behind time.

In the Secretary's party were Mrs. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Knox, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Knox, Jr., and Messrs. Coombs and Doyle, his official aids. They were met at the railway station by Rear Admiral Youngs, Capt. Wiltze of the Marine Corps, Dr. Short, Lieut. Swanson, George W. Allen, Collector of Customs, and Señor Antonio D. Carrasco, Cuban Consul. They were taken to the Washington on a navy tug.

When the Secretary came on board a salute of nineteen guns was fired in his honor. This is significant of the importance attached to Mr. Knox's mission by President Taft and the State Department. Ordinarily this salute is given to Cabinet officers only when they leave ship, but, acting upon special orders, it will be accorded Mr. Knox whenever he embarks or disembarks in a foreign port, and also upon his departure from the ship in American ports.

The Secretary was received on the quarterdeck by Capt. Richard M. Hughes, while the ship band played "The Bluejackets' March." The Secretary of State has no flag of his own; consequently the National ensign was broke out at the fore when he came on board. All the officers of the cruiser, the entire marine detachment, and the band were paraded in Mr. Knox's honor. As the marines presented arms four ruffles and four flourishes were sounded by drummers and buglers.

These ceremonies over, Mr. Knox's party was escorted below and the voyage begun.

The cruiser Washington carries nearly one thousand men, the largest crew now on any American warship. The quarters on the flagship, temporarily vacated by Admiral Fiske, with the adjoining suite of the Captain, have been specially refurnished for the Secretary of State. The whole after part of the gun deck has been set aside for the use of the Knox party. Here there will be frequent receptions to Government officials upon whom the Secretary will have called to pay his respects.

EXPECT ROOSEVELT TO STIR BAY STATE

Colonel's Supporters Say To-day's Trip to Boston Will Have Important Results.

AWAITING MONDAY'S SIGNAL

To Start Campaign for Roosevelt's Nomination Under Full Power—Busy Day at The Outlook Office.

From the moment that Col. Roosevelt arrived at The Outlook office in the morning until he left, late in the afternoon, after another conference with Amos Pinchot, there was something doing every minute yesterday. The whole attitude of the Colonel was that of a man who sees ahead of him a long, hard fight.

Supporters of Col. Roosevelt expressed the opinion freely yesterday that, while he insists that his visit to Massachusetts, on which he starts this morning, is to be purely a social one, there will be important developments before his return next Wednesday. It is expected that the Colonel will set the ball rolling in that State and leave behind him a well-organized movement for his nomination. He said yesterday that he had made no engagements to speak, but it is known that he has received many invitations and that pressure will be brought to bear to have him deliver an address or two, after his reply to the letter signed by eight Governors is made public on Monday.

Flavor was lent to this belief by the fact that he had a long conference yesterday with William L. Ward of Westchester, National Committeeman from New York. The question of opening Roosevelt headquarters in this city immediately after the Colonel's declaration that he will accept was discussed. The headquarters, it was said, will be in the Metropolitan Building.

Mr. Ward evaded the reporters yesterday, and, although he is openly working for the Colonel, along with several other members of the Old Guard, he made it evident that he did not want to discuss the situation until the Colonel has officially "come out in the open." After that, however, it is said there will be no more quibbling.

William Halpin, Republican leader of the Seventh Assembly District, another of the Colonel's visitors, consented to talk a few moments as he left The Outlook office. He was plainly enthusiastic.

"That was a great speech," he said, referring to the Colonel's declaration of principles at Columbus, Ohio, on Wednesday, "and it's not so radical. He advocates the recall only according to the Massachusetts system, and the recall of decisions doesn't amount to so much more when you analyze it."

The arrival of Controller William A. Prendergast at The Outlook office aroused some interest yesterday. He had come, he said, "just to pay a visit" and to take luncheon with the Colonel at the National Arts Club, in Gramercy Square.

"But," he added, "that was a great speech."

It was suggested to the Controller that the speech might be termed radical, and he replied:

"It's a radical age."

In fact, there were none who heard the Controller who were left very much in doubt where his sympathies lie.

About the only question concerning the Colonel's reply to the Chicago letter which is perplexing any of his friends is just how strong he will make that reply. It is generally believed that he will make it very evident that, while not seeking the nomination, he is not afraid to fight for the principles he advocates, even in the face of the danger of being defeated at the convention.

It is also said that the question of financing the Colonel's campaign for the nomination has been discussed at some length at the conferences in The Outlook office, and the funds will not be lacking.

Commissioner of Police O'Meara of Boston was one of the guests of Col. Roosevelt at luncheon yesterday, and another of his visitors was Congressman George Curry of New Mexico, who, before New Mexico was a State, was made a Governor of the Territory by the Colonel. He insisted that his visit was "purely personal."

Not a word could be obtained from Col. Roosevelt yesterday about the "hat in the ring" story, and the interview has now been pretty generally accepted as authentic.

About fifty members of the Australian Military League, in charge of Lieut J. J. Simmons, who are paying a visit to the city, dropped in on Col. Roosevelt late yesterday morning, and he found time to talk to them for a few minutes.

"I want to say that it gives me great pleasure to meet you," he said. "I have naturally taken a peculiar interest in the great Commonwealth of the South Seas, where you are building up a democracy essentially like ours. The best of terms must always exist between the United States and Australia. I know of nothing that I have appreciated more than the invitation extended by Australia to our fleet."

When Col. Roosevelt started for the home of J. West Roosevelt after 5 o'clock he said he wouldn't see any one and was going to spend a quiet evening with his family. He leaves for Boston, the first stop on his invasion of Massachusetts, at 10 o'clock this morning.

SPEECH PLEASED BRYAN.

But Nebraskan Disagrees with Roosevelt on Trust Question.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Feb. 23.—William Jennings Bryan in an interview here to-day said:

"Roosevelt delivered the strongest speech he has ever made, at the Ohio Constitutional Convention on Wednesday. I am not surprised that it has put the standpatters in a panic.

"I do not agree with all of the arguments that Mr. Roosevelt advances, but his address was very progressive along most of the points discussed. He does not touch upon all the public questions, but he does take up a number of fundamental ones and I think he is right in the main."

Asked on what points he differs with Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Bryan said:

"I have not time to take up in detail Mr. Roosevelt's speech. One of the weakest of his weak points, however, is his discussion of the trust question. I dissent from him entirely on the subject of the regulation of a monopoly. A monopoly cannot be safely regulated; it must be prevented. The prevention of monopoly does not mean the prevention of large business enterprises, it simply means the drawing of the line beyond which the control of production shall not go.

"Mr. Roosevelt had seven and a half years in which to test the ability of the Government to control monopolies. The result was that we had more monopolies at the close of his Administration than at the beginning, and one of them, the Steel Trust, used a panic to force him to consent to the swallowing of its largest rival.

"Another weak point is Roosevelt's seeming advocacy of the appointment of Judges for life, with recall by the Legislature. I prefer the election of Judges, and favor the recall by the people as well as by the Legislature.

"But while I mention these objections, and there are some others, I am very glad indeed that Mr. Roosevelt has thrown his great influence on the side of popular election of Senators and in favor of the initative and referendum."

In concluding his address he said:

"I am satisfied that some one else can poll more votes than myself, but I am ready to enter upon a campaign in behalf of true democracy with even more vigor than that with which I have fought at any time on my own behalf."

CALLS COLONEL A DEMAGOGUE.

His Policies Would Lead to National Disaster, Says Judge Speer.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 23.—Before a large gathering of business men at the twenty-sixth annual dinner of the Worcester Builders' Exchange to-night Judge W. H. Speer of New Jersey said that Theodore Roosevelt was the arch demagogue of American politics, and one whose principles, if carried out, would lead to a National disaster. Of the Colonel's Columbus speech, in which he advocated the recall of the Judges' decisions, Mr. Speer said:

"Mr. Roosevelt opens his speech by declaring: 'I believe in a true democracy. With Lincoln I hold that this country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing Government they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it.'

"This is a most remarkable declaration, but after reading Mr. Roosevelt's speech, one cannot help denying both that he believes in a pure democracy, and that he stands with Lincoln, for he conclusively establishes by his speech that he does neither. A pure democracy is the antithesis of representative government.

"Another point Mr. Roosevelt makes in his speech is that the people should be permitted to settle by popular vote, after due deliberation and discussion, but finally without appeal, what the proper construction of any constitutional point is. He further said that instead of letting the Judges decide, if there must be a decision, by a close majority, then let the people step in and let it be their majority that decides. This plan, taken with the initiative and referendum, would be the end of our Government, the death knell of our prosperity."

TO MEET THE PROGRESSIVES.

Roosevelt Will Hold Conferences in Boston and May Go On to Concord.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—The activities of Col. Roosevelt in and about Boston during the next five days will begin to-morrow evening with a dinner of the Porcellian Club at Harvard and will probably conclude with the meeting of the Harvard Overseers in this city Wednesday morning.

Col. Roosevelt is expected here to-morrow afternoon, and during the first few days will be the guest of Judge Robert Grant in Bay State Road.

Later he will be the guest of Speaker Grafton D. Cushing of the House, at 20 Chestnut Street. Judge Grant was a classmate of Col. Roosevelt at Harvard, while Speaker Cushing has been a friend of the Roosevelt family for many years.

It was reported here to-day that Col. Roosevelt might extend his New England trip so as to include a visit to Gov. Bass at Concord, N. H., one of the leaders of the progressive movement in that State.

Many conferences will be held between Col. Roosevelt and progressive Republicans of Massachusetts. Several of the leaders here say that the opportunity will be seized to organize the movement in New England more thoroughly.

SAY TAFT IS GAINING IN OHIO.

His Managers Think Roosevelt's Speech Killed Colonel's Chances.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 23.—Taft's managers and other politicians declare that the little chance Roosevelt had of obtaining Presidential delegates from Ohio has gone since the ex-President's address before the Constitutional Convention. Scores of telegrams have gone to President Taft from Ohio congratulating him on Roosevelt's address. Lewis C. Laylin, Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee, and Taft's personal manager in Ohio, said to-day:

"Roosevelt's address does not represent the sentiments of the Republicans of Ohio. Taft sentiment in Ohio is stronger to-day than it was a week ago. The Republicans of his native State recognize more than ever before that the achievements of President Taft's administration represent the best expressions of progressive Republicanism the country has yet experienced, and there is no doubt that Ohio will declare for him at the primaries and give him enthusiastic support at the National Convention."

Taft's advisers in Ohio are urging him to denounce Walter F. Brown, manager of the Roosevelt movement, when Taft speaks in Toledo. They declare that Brown, who owes his position as State Chairman to Taft, deserted the President and assumed charge of the Roosevelt movement for the only reason that Taft refused to appoint Brown's friend, ex-Attorney General Grant V. Denman, to a Federal judgeship.

CUDAHY FOR TAFT.

Two Terms of Him Better Than Three of Roosevelt, Says Chicago Packer.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 23.—"Two terms of Taft would be of far greater benefit to the United States than three terms of Roosevelt," said Edward Cudahy of Chicago, packing company President, who is a visitor to Atlanta to-day.

"Business men would be satisfied with either Taft or Harmon as President," he continued. "In politics I am a Democrat, but have never voted for Bryan for President. I came from Omaha and was his neighbor long enough to know him.

"This country is in good condition, crops are bountiful, and business at present is fairly good, with every indication of betterment. Despite the fact that a great National election is pending, I expect that 1912 will be a prosperous year.

"There will be a greater confidence among larger business interests of the country and more development, however, when the Sherman Anti-Trust act is properly amended so that investors and industrial captains know just what to expect. At present it is vague and indefinite."

WORKING TO AVERT STRIKE.

Premier Asquith Makes Proposals to Both Miners and Mine Owners.

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 24.—The Chronicle, the Government organ, confirms the report this morning that Premier Asquith, on behalf of the Government, has submitted important proposals to the mine owners and the miners' committee, requesting them to discuss these and reply by Tuesday. The nature of the proposals is kept a secret.

The Morning Leader believes the Ministers are directing their efforts to obtaining an agreement on the line of least resistance, namely, a minimum wage and a minimum output, and says it hopes for much from the fact that Premier Asquith, Mr. Lloyd-George, and Sir Edward Grey are bending their efforts in favor of peace.

The general opinion of the morning newspapers is that the attitude of the miners in Wales is the most threatening thing against a solution of the difficulty, and that the only hope lies in endeavoring to obtain a settlement of the controversy in the English coal fields on the basis of a minimum wage, leaving the Welsh miners to strike alone.

Nat Goodwin's Big Whisky Order.

Nat Goodwin, the actor, according to papers filed against him in the City Court yesterday, not only orders whisky to the extent of $750 worth at a time, but, according to the complaint, thinks that he has discharged his debt by paying $400 for the entire delivery. George A. Poggi & Co., liquor dealers of Liverpool, England, declare that they shipped to Mr. Goodwin's California bungalow on the occasion of his last wedding liquors to the value of $750. The principal items of the shipment were some hogsheads of old Scotch. The answer has not yet been filed.

ECONOMY FOR NAVY UNWISE, SAYS TAFT

Time Not Yet Come to Cut Appropriations for Fleet, He Tells Navy League.

FOR TWO MORE BATTLESHIPS

Till War Is Abolished, He Says, We Will Lack Foresight If We Curtail Our Navy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—President Taft, speaking at the peace meeting of the Navy League here to-day, declared the time had not come for this country to be economical at the expense of an adequate naval establishment, expressed the hope that the present Congress would authorize the construction of two battleships, and said that he would gladly sign a bill that carried such an authorization.

"In order to keep up with other nations, I don't think two battleships are too many," said the President. "I am partly responsible for the Government, and I am entirely willing to meet that responsibility by signing a bill for two battleships."

Rear Admiral Wainwright, U. S. N., retired; Representative Swager Sherley of Kentucky, and Charles Francis Adams of Boston were other speakers at this meeting, the last of the seventh annual convention of the league. Secretary Meyer accompanied President Taft.

"I am in favor of a good strong navy that would enable this Nation to maintain its position and make our reasonable demands on other countries respected," said the President. "I don't think the time has come to economize in respect to the navy. The navy is expensive; but so is the army; so is war; and the expense of the three is a good reason for the abolition of war if there were none other. But until war is abolished we should meet the situation, and we should be lacking in foresight and common sense unless we did.

"I sincerely hope that this Congress will give us two battleships. Other vessels may be necessary, but battleships are the basis of a navy.

"The Panama Canal is being built for two reasons. One is to furnish an avenue of commerce for the world; the other so that the East and West coasts of our country shall be brought nearer. At present the logic of the situation would require us to have two navies. The Panama Canal will double the efficiency of the navy and then we may consider economy."

Admiral Wainwright told the delegates that the war with Spain would never have occurred if the United States had possessed one or two more battleships in 1898.

Representative Sherley urged that the league insist that a programme of naval construction be presented to Congress. He suggested the formation of a board composed of army and navy officers and representatives of the executive departments, to draft such a programme that would be consistent and changed only when the board advanced good reasons.

A resolution was adopted in favor of free, or at least preferential, tolls for American coastwise shipping passing through the Panama Canal.

Representative William Sulzer of New York addressed the convention on the restoration of the merchant marine.

GERMAN BLOW TO WRIGHTS.

Patent Office Invalidates Basis of Invention, but Appeal Is Allowed.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The German Patent Office yesterday invalidated the basic feature of the German Wright patents in regard to the simultaneous action of the rudder and wing flexing.

The suit, which has been in progress a long time, was brought by five German firms. The court upheld two specific forms of patent, combining the steering and flexing, but disallowed the general claim. The judgment is open to appeal to the Imperial Court at Leipsic.

The Wright brothers have brought suit in this and several other countries against aviators, whom they asserted were making use of their patents in their flying machines. The particular idea which they have declared is their own is the affixing of flexible tips to the planes, by which the airman is enabled to maintain his balance in the varying currents of the air. This they have contended is basic and is necessarily used in all successful aeroplanes.

In bringing these suits, however, the Wrights have protested that they had no intention of forming an airship trust. They have not molested in any way, they say, those who are interested only in advancing the art of aviation, but they have tried to collect royalties from those who have made use of their inventions to make money.

In this way last August they sued practically all the aviators taking part in the Chicago meet, and when the case comes before the United States District Court it is expected to settle definitely the status of the Wright inventions in this country.

At Paris in April last the Third Civil Tribunal upheld the Wrights in principle, but refused to make an arbitrary finding on account of the youth of the art of flying. A commission of three experts was appointed to decide whether any other discoveries in aviation had been made which would deprive the Wrights of the claim of priority.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, Feb. 23.—The Wright brothers believe that the action of the German Patent Office is the result of an address, made several years ago, in which improvements on the inventions to promote flight were mentioned before patents were granted.

These patents have been granted in France, the United States, and England, but German law at the time the patents were asked for provided that these were invalid if public mention had been made of the inventions.

WIRELESS NEWS FOR ISLANDS

Church Attendance Expected to Increase on Magdalen Group.

GEORGETOWN, P. E. I., Feb. 23.—The 4,000 inhabitants of the Magdalen Islands, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, who are shut off from communication with the mainland for six months of the year, are to receive the news of the world by wireless at the expense of the Canadian Government.

Arrangements have been completed by the Postmaster General to have 1,000 words of the best news sent each week-end to the islanders. The service will begin immediately.

The weekly messages will be delivered to the Protestant ministers and Catholic priests, to be read to their respective congregations at the close of the Sunday services. It is expected that this move will increase church attendance.

REAL SEA TRAGEDY IN THE ERNE'S LOSS

Not a Mutiny, Though, Say the Survivors; Captain Deserted Them.

LAST BOAT WAS MISSING

And They Clung for Days to Wave-Swept Derelict Helpless and Starving — No News of Fugitives.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 23.—The authorities here have taken no overt action against the survivors of the steamship Erne, who were rescued from their shipwrecked craft and brought to this port by the British steamship Cuban. A report came to this city from America that it was suspected there had been a mutiny on board and that the Captain, T. A. Fickett; his wife, the second mate, Cushing, and R. G. Hay of Portland, Me., a passenger, who were not among those rescued, had been murdered.

The survivors tell a dramatic story of the wreck and are willing to talk freely of all that occurred. They adhere to their first statement that the Captain and the three others disappeared one night, during the worst of the storm, in a lifeboat.

So far as has been made known here, the authorities have not been requested to investigate the report of the murder and mutiny and have not taken account of the statements made by Oscar A. Fickett of Bangor, Me., a cousin of the Captain, that the Captain would never have deserted the ship, and that he and the first mate, who was rescued but died before he reached Liverpool, had a quarrel and a knock-down fight before the ship sailed over the fact that the mate had taken a quantity of liquor on board against the Captain's order.

The rescued sailors, now in the Sailors' Home here, who include Samuel J. Mack of Boston and Andrew Allen of Bangor, Me., indignantly repudiate the suggestion of a mutiny and murder as accounting for the mysterious disappearance of Capt. Fickett and the others. Mack says he will investigate the reports on his arrival in America, whither he sails to-morrow, according to arrangements made by the United States Consul in Liverpool.

The story of the wreck of the Erne is thrilling in itself, and also presents some extraordinary features in the annals of the sea. She was a full-rigged iron ship, bound from Boston to Buenos Aires with a cargo of lumber.

Details of the wreck and subsequent rescue of nine members of the crew by the Leyland liner Cuban were obtained by the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES in the course of an interview with several survivors.

The Erne left Boston Feb. 1, carrying a large quantity of lumber, including a heavy deck cargo. She was under the command of Capt. T. A. Fickett of Bangor, who was accompanied by Mrs. Fickett and a crew of nineteen men, including an American, Robert Hay, who was a passenger, but was working his passage.

Struck by a Terrible Storm.

Fine weather with moderate winds were experienced the first two days, but on Saturday, Feb. 3, when the ship was 700 miles from port, the wind freshened and set in as a heavy gale from the northwest, accompanied by a high, broken sea, during which the vessel labored and strained heavily and shipped a large amount of water fore and aft.

All hands were called out, and the vessel was snugged down to three lower topsails, but the gale increased to a hurricane. Terrific waves made a clean sweep over the vessel, carrying everything movable overboard.

Her position was exceedingly perilous, when, about noon, the hurricane being at its height, the vessel suddenly broached to and took one huge broadside, the sea almost ingulfing her, and carrying away the whole rail amidships, the main rigging, and the lashings of the deck load. Before anything could be done, another sea swept through the broken rail and carried a large part of the deckload overboard.

Twelve seamen who were in the fore part of the vessel were entirely cut off from communication with the after part, as it meant certain death to try to pass across the deck. The ship would not steer, and fell into the trough of the sea.

At this time Capt. and Mrs. Fickett, the second officer, Mr. Cushing; the passenger, Mr. Hay, four seamen, and a boy were aft, while forward were Chief Officer Elliott and the remainder of the men.

It was plainly seen by all aboard that the vessel was rapidly settling down. Mrs. Fickett's suffering from seasickness, fear, want of dry clothing, and food was very acute. Capt. Fickett made her as comfortable as possible in the saloon, but while she was lying down an enormous wave swept through the compartment, carrying her bodily through a large plate-glass partition. With the help of Hay Capt. Fickett carried his wife in a state of collapse to the chartroom.

Boat and Captain Disappear.

All the boats with one exception had been smashed, and this one was in its place until between 3 and 4 o'clock, when it was missed by the boy, who had gone to his room to try to find dry clothes. The chartroom was still standing, but Capt. Fickett, his wife, the second officer, and Hay were missing, and it is the opinion of the survivors that they must have taken to the boat, leaving the rest of the crew to their fate.

Nothing further has been heard of them, and it is conjectured that the boat must have capsized in the heavy sea which was running and the occupants drowned.

Those left aboard had a terrible experience, some taking refuge on the jibboom, while others lashed themselves to the rigging. Out of seven on the jibboom only two survived, slipping one by one into the sea through exhaustion, while one became demented and leaped into the sea.

Nothing but the skeleton of the vessel was standing, as all the woodwork was broken to splinters.

Nine survivors were lashed to the fore rigging and jibboom from Monday night until Wednesday morning, when, the weather having moderated somewhat, they worked aft to the poop. No ships were sighted from the time the ship was dismasted and distress signals were set until early in the morning of Thursday, Feb. 8, when the Cuban, bound from New Orleans to Liverpool, came in sight, a lifeboat was lowered, and rescued the survivors, who were in an emaciated and pitiable condition, having been without food and water since Monday morning.

STEAMER DELPHINE CRIPPLED.

Part of Crew Reach Havre, but Captain and Others Stayed Aboard.

HAVRE, Feb. 23.—The British steamer Buxton, which left Gulfport Jan. 11, arrived here to-day and landed part of the crew of the Italian steamer Delphine, which left New Orleans Jan. 23 for Genoa. The Delphine was spoken on Feb. 9 230 miles north of the Azores, and reported her propeller was broken. The Italian steamer was in good order, but seventeen of the crew left the vessel, the Captain with several others remaining on board.

The Delphine, which was unable to proceed under her own steam, when the Buxton left her, had a month's provisions on board.

OLIVE MAY TO WED A LORD.

American Actress Is Engaged to Marquis of Anglesea's Heir.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The engagement is announced of Lord Victor William Paget, brother and heir presumptive to the Marquess of Anglesea, to Miss Olive May, a popular Gaiety girl.

Lord Victor William Paget is 23 years old, having been born on May 17, 1889. His home is at Beaudesert Park, Rugby. He is heir presumptive to the sixth Marquis of Anglesea, whose necestry goes back to the first Baron Paget, in 1549. The first Marquis of Anglesea was a Field Marshal in command of the cavalry at Waterloo. The present Marquis owns about 30,000 acres of land.

Olive May is a daughter of Gordon A. May, who served in the Federal army in the civil war, becoming a Lieutentn Colonel. She was born in Chicago, and received her training for the stage at a conservatory there. After a few seasons on the road she was engaged by Charles Frohman for the part of Suzanne in "The Butterflies." In 1899 she made a hit as Bonita in "Arizona," the part originated by Eleanor Robson. Her last appearance here was in "The Love Route." In July, 1904, she went into vaudeville with John W. Albaugh, Jr., making a tour of the country in Grant Stewart's sketch, "The Inspector from Kansas." In 1907 and 1908 she appeared in Channing Pollock's "The Secret Orchard." She was married in 1894 to Henry Guy Carleton, a playwright, from whom she obtained a divorce three years later. On July 9, 1907, she married Mr. Albaugh in Jersey City. He died on April 6, 1908.

WILL START AIRSHIP LINE.

Hamburg-American Said to Contemplate Aerial Service.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The Berlin correspondent of the Temps learns on good authority that the Hamburg-American Line will soon purchase a number of airships and organize an important aerial navigation service. The dirigible ships will be built at Wilhelmshaven.

The Hamburg-American Line is now the owner of the Zeppelin airship Schwaben, which in the Summer and Fall of 1911 made daily trips from Baden-Baden of some two hours' duration. The Schwaben made its first trip from Friedrichshaven on June 26, 1911, and on July 20 made the trip to Luzern and return with eight passengers.

An airship department has been made a regular part of the Hamburg-American Line organization with headquarters at 5 Sophienstrasse, Baden-Baden. The two-hour trips have been offered at the rate of $50 a passenger.

Count Zeppelin's airship the Deutschland, which made the first successful passenger-carrying flight, was built for the German Aerial Navigation Company.

Communication from Monte Christe, the Santo Domingan seaport, with other points on the island, has been suspended for several days, while the Santo Domingan revolution has been spreading rapidly along the frontier. The Province of Monte Christe is virtually under the control of the rebel forces. In a fight last Tuesday the Government troops are said to have lost forty killed and had many wounded.

PLOT MAKES FRANCE BUY ANCIENT HOUSE

Paris Is Laughing Over Clever Scheme Worked on the State by Le Mans Council.

RUMOR OF FOREIGN BUYER

Stories of Building Going to Vienna Stirred Archaeologists to Frenzy and Result Was Swiftly Reached.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—By raising a scare to the effect that the house of Queen Berengère was in danger of falling into the hands of either an American or an Austrian purchaser, the Municipal Council at Le Mans persuaded the State to purchase the building, and now everybody is laughing at the skillful manner in which the plot was engineered.

The house, which is one of the most interesting archaeological curiosities at Le Mans, was recently announced for sale by the owner, M. Singer, who asked a handsome price, but one which under the circumstances seemed quite justifiable, as the house would lend itself as a miniature museum on the lines of the Shakespeare House at Stratford, or Victor Hugo's in Paris, or, for want of a better fate, the facade of the house would be worth a considerable sum for reconstruction as part of an American millionaire's villa.

Rumor ran, however, that America had for once been outbid by Austria, and a week ago several archaeological societies, alarmed by the statement that the house was to be taken down and reconstructed in Vienna, at once organized a campaign.

Mr. Beaumetz, Under Secretary of Fine Arts, was appealed to, one or two anonymous and lavish donations were made, and the house was bought on behalf of the State. It is now known, however, that the $10,000 which was paid in behalf of the State represented the only bona fide bid that the former owner has received.

The whole affair was a Machiavellian conspiracy, in which the Municipal Council of Le Mans and the owner of the house both played their part with considerable ability. The Municipal Council was given an option to purchase, but was averse to paying the amount of money demanded. It was decided, however, that if the State could not be persuaded to buy the house, it should be obtained, nevertheless, by the municipality.

The success of the plot quite surpassed the expectations of the Municipal Council, and it is on this account that the secret has now leaked out.

CONTRACT LOSS HIT BELFAST

Inability to Repair Mauretania There Caused Harland & Wolff to Move.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—A Belfast dispatch says that Harland & Wolff's move to Liverpool was decided upon when the firm found itself unable to take over the contract offered them for the repair of the damaged Cunard liner Mauretania, owing to the danger of bringing the vessel up the Victoria Channel to the new graving dock at Belfast.

The new yard on the Mersey will be one of the most up-to-date and eventually one of the largest in the three kingdoms, and after the lapse of some time the firm may decide to build vessels up to 10,000 tons there, although at first the yard will be for repairs only.

Roman Populace Make Holiday After Deputies Pass Bill.

ROME, Feb. 23.—By a vote of 431 to 38 the Chamber of Deputies passed the bill for the annexation of Tripoli.

The large majority for the measure was greeted with enthusiastic cheering from the floor of the Chamber and the public in the gallery. Afterward the members who voted against annexation, including the Socialists, a few Republicans, and one Radical, Prince Gaetani, were roundly hissed. Only one member abstained from voting.

When the result became known outside the Chamber, enthusiasm prevailed everywhere and the populace began a celebration. Flags were hoisted throughout the city and shops were closed. Placards on their doors announced that business had been suspended "for national rejoicing." Clubs and residences were illuminated.

Two hundred thousand demonstrators gathered in the square before the Chamber of Deputies and called out Premier Giolitti. Afterward the immense throng, still, cheering wildly, proceeded to the palace, where King Victor Emmanuel, Queen Helena, and Crown Prince Humbert came out on a balcony. Their Majesties and the heir apparent were enthusiastically acclaimed.

WOMEN JEER LLOYD-GEORGE.

Suffragettes Call "Coward" as He Explains Cabinet Attitude.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was the chief speaker to-night at a meeting of the National Union of Woman's Suffrage Societies in Royal Albert Hall.

The demonstration was called to urge support for an amendment to the Government's Reform bill, providing for the granting of suffrage to women on the same lines that it is given to men. The Government is divided on the question, Premier Asquith and several members of his Cabinet being hostile to it, while Mr. Lloyd-George and other members of the Ministry favor it. The hall was packed with enthusiastic suffragettes, while on the platform were many members of Parliament representative of all the parties.

During his speech Mr. Lloyd-George was frequently interrupted with cries of "Traitor" and "Coward." He said woman suffrage had not been included in the Government bill, because the question was one on which no party had agreed, but that three-fourths of the Liberal members of the Cabinet would support an amendment to the bill, covering it. If suffrage for women was made a Government measure, the Chancellor added, both the Liberal party and the Cabinet would be "hopelessly shattered," but if it were introduced as an amendment to the reform bill, this would enable all its supporters, irrespective of party, to vote for it and a suffrage bill would be carried next year. Mr. Lloyd-George declared the referendum was not applicable to woman suffrage.

MAY BUY WATERLOO MUSEUM.

Writer in Graphic Appeals to English Pride to Save Battlefield Relics.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Only a short time remains for England to decide whether she or the United States shall become the possessor of the famous Waterloo Museum, says a writer in The Weekly Graphic who makes a special plea for its acquisition by the British nation.

An appeal is made to the nation to subscribe $52,500, which the owner is prepared to accept, although he asked for $125,000 twelve years ago, when the deal fell through because only $40,000 could be raised.

It has now become known that if England cannot afford the money, an American is willing to buy the collection, which includes the most authentic historic relics of England's greatest land victory.

At present the collection is preserved on the battlefield of Waterloo in the Cotton Museum, formed originally by a British Waterloo veteran, Sergt. Major Edward Cotton, who after the battle of Waterloo became the British official guide to the battlefield for thirty years, and acted as cicerone to every notability visiting Waterloo.

The Cotton Museum has always been a great attraction to visitors. The mementos include portraits, battle views, autographs, and personal relics from the battlefield, some blood-stained and others dented with blows and bullets; Napoleon's two silver spurs, and his field canteen service, stamped with the imperial crown.

BUSY ON MORGAN PURCHASE.

Treasury Official Is Classifying Great Hoentschel Collection.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Michael Nathan of the United States Treasury Department has been busy all the week at the residence of M. Höntschel classifying the latest purchases of J. Pierpont Morgan. During his stay here Mr. Nathan is at the Grand Hotel, where, however, he has given instructions to keep his name out of the usual list of visitors.

When interviewed by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, Mr. Nathan declined to discuss his business here, adding that there was nothing more to be said after all that had already been printed on the subject both in New York and London.

ART WORKS TO TOUR HERE.

German Museum Forms Collection to Visit American Cities.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The German Museum at Hagen, Westphalia, has organized a collection of German art works, which will be sent on a tour of the leading American cities next Summer.

Plans are already completed for displaying the collection in New York, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Chicago, and Indianapolis. It will contain specimons not only of the fine arts, such as painting and sculpture, but also of industrial arts of all kinds.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Sir George Chetwynd's collection of decorated furniture was sold at Christie's to-day.

A Louis XV. library table, 71 inches long and stamped "F. G.," brought $3,168.

Six Charles II. walnut wood chairs, carved with scroll and foliage, were sold for $1,098.

A Chippendale mirror, with a carved frame, surmounted by a pagoda-like ornament and a pendant of bells, brought $817.

At Sotheby's to-day a small picture of roses in a vase by Fantin Latour sold for $1,250.

CONGRATULATE HEATON.

Friends, Through Lord Mayor, Promise Warm Welcome to New Baronet.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Friends of Sir John Henniker Heaton met at the Mansion House to-day under the Chairmanship of the Lord Mayor to consider a proposal to arrange some celebration of the honor conferred upon him by the King, on his return from Australia. By desire of the meeting the Lord Mayor dispatched the following cablegram to Sir John:

"I have the happiness to inform you that at a meeting held at the Mansion House, I was asked to express the cordial congratulations of your many friends on the honor which has been graciously conferred upon you by his Majesty the King. Hearty welcome is being prepared for your return."

Foreign Office in Berlin Searches American's Work for Anti-German Expressions.

NO SECRET IN PRESENTATION

Letter of Commendation from American College President Led to Author's Meeting with the Kaiser.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The incident of Price Collier's presentation at the Kaiser's Court is now, as THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns, engaging the attention of the German Foreign Office.

No consequences are likely to ensue for Mr. Collier himself. The Court session is over and no privileges, even if any such action were contemplated, could now be withheld from him. What the Foreign Office is investigating, however, is how Mr. Collier came to be presented, that is to say, exactly what influence was brought to bear to get for him the privilege, so eagerly coveted by thousands of eminent Germans whose ambitions are never realized.

It appears that Mr. Collier's direct supporter was the Prussian Ministry of Education. The author of "England and the English" came to Berlin with warm personal introductions to Dr. von Trott zu Solz, Minister of Education, from a certain celebrated American university President, who enjoys a high reputation and has influential connections in Berlin.

It was on the strength of representations of that scholar that Mr. Collier was coming to Germany for the purpose of writing a book on the country that the Prussian Ministry of Education effected his presentation to the Kaiser.

The rôle which the American Embassy played was entirely secondary.

It is not beyond the range of possibility that the incident will have further developments. The Foreign Office is having "England and the English," wherein Mr. Collier's disparaging reference to Germany occurs, "read officially" before making any move in the matter.

WIRELESS FOR PORTUGAL.

Government Signs Contract with Marconi Company for System.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 24.—The London Times has the following dispatch from Lisbon:

"For some considerable time Portugal has been conducting negotiations with the Marconi Company and the German Wireless Telegraph Company for the establishment of a system of wireless telegraph.

The Government finally decided to give preference to the Marconi Company, and a contract was signed yesterday by the Minister of Public Works on behalf of the Government and by Marquis Solari, representative of the Marconi Company.

"Stations will be erected at Lisbon, Oporto, Sao Miguel in the Azores, at Funchal in Madeira, and at St. Vincent in the Cape Verde Islands.

"The conditions are very favorable to the Portuguese Government. The Marconi Company concedes easy terms of payment, and all installations are to be completed before the end of this year."

Pays For Itself and Benefits Everybody

Merchants

National Cash Registers benefit merchants by preventing mistakes, carelessness, and misunderstandings.

Mistakes cause loss, losses reduce profits and interfere with the growth of a business.

Nationals cause clerks to increase their sales and benefit the merchants by increased profits.

Clerks

National Cash Registers benefit clerks by enabling them to get credit for their efforts.

They enable clerks to prove their integrity and protect them from unpleasant disputes and unjust suspicion.

This helps the clerk to maintain that reputation which is so essential to his success.

Cashiers

National Cash Registers benefit cashiers because they remove temptation, relieve them of a mass of detail and prevent unjust suspicion.

They are protected from mistakes—their own and other people's. Nationals enable cashiers to check the cash quickly and go home on time.

Customers

National Cash Registers benefit customers because there is a guarantee of accuracy in dealing with merchants who use Nationals.

Customers like to deal in stores where discipline, system and order prevail.

The National Cash Register stands for these desirable things in any store.

Servants and Children

Servants and children benefit because they are taught accuracy and promptness in buying where a National Cash Register is used.

They are guaranteed exactly the same kind of treatment in a store where a National is used as the head of the family would get.

This is important, but not nearly so much so as the lessons of exactness and honesty which the National teaches.

We created the cash register industry.

We created the demand and after years of effort proved cash registers a business necessity.

There is 30 years of study and experience back of our product.

We developed the cash register business by studying the needs of merchants and building cash registers for all lines of business where money is handled and records kept.

The merit of our product has extended the cash register business to every civilized country in the world.

Improved organization, modern manufacturing buildings, improved machinery and trained employees have enabled us to meet the needs of over 1,000,000 merchants who are using National Cash Registers.

It will pay you to investigate how a National will benefit you.

Our facilities have always enabled us to guarantee to sell a better cash register for less money than any other concern in the world

GAMBLERS THE FOES THAT HOUND WALDO

From Them, Says James Creelman, Come All the Rumors That He Will Quit.

HAS MAYOR'S CONFIDENCE

Police Expect to Recover Public's Favor Soon with Arrests in Auto Hold-Up Cases.

Eight days have passed since the hold-up of the East River National Bank messengers in Trinity Place, in which the thieves got away with $25,000 in cash. The police insist that they will soon arrest the men responsible for that daring hold-up. The situation is the same in the case of Beckerman, the paymaster, who was held up and robbed of about $1,000, and of George W. Horth, the John Street jeweler, who was waylaid and robbed of diamonds worth about $10,000. In each case the robbers escaped in an automobile.

At Police Headquarters Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, who is in charge of these cases, said yesterday that progress was still being made, but he could not be pinned down to saying when he thought an arrest would be made.

Police Commissioner Waldo's statement at the dinner of the Police Lieutenants' Benevolent Association, Thursday, that he expected to be Police Commissioner for many months to come was taken by the rank and file to mean that all the talk about the Commissioner not having a sure hold on his place was entirely false, and that he and the Mayor were still the best of friends, and that Waldo had the Mayor's support in his administration of the Police Department.

On top of the Commissioner's statement that he was not to leave the department President James Creelman of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, who has been among those whose names have been mentioned as Waldo's successor, said that he had every reason to believe that Commissioner Waldo had the full confidence of Mayor Gaynor.

Praises Waldo's Work.

"It seems," said Mr. Creelman, "that a regular part of my official duty is to deny rumors that I am to be Police Commissioner. I had to deny these rumors at the time Mr. Cropsey left the Police Department and ever since. Recently my house has been called up several times by nearly all the newspapers in the city after midnight, with the request to be informed whether I had been appointed Police Commissioner or not.

"It is clear that this systematic circulation of false rumors is a part of a deliberate plan, and I can see no reason why anybody except professional gamblers and their criminal and political friends should have an interest in attempting to create the impression that Police Commissioner Waldo is to retire from the Police Department.

"I know that the Police Department, in carrying on its splendid work, has recently been seriously affecting the pocketbooks of these gentlemen. The Police Department has trodden on the edges of the political-criminal holy of holies.

"After thirty-five years of training as a journalist I am somewhat astonished that the fairness, keenness, and hard-headedness of newspaper proprietors and editors in New York have not recognized the nature of this situation. I would not accept the position of Police Commissioner if it had a salary of $50,000 a year attached to it. The Mayor knows this, and has known it ever since the time Mr. Cropsey retired from the Police Department.

"Let the newspaper proprietors and editors of the city trail down the sources of these attempts to shake the confidence of the police force in the Police Commissioner, and I think they will be surprised to find how badly they have been fooled by the criminal and political element; in fact, the gambling fraternity of New York. One has merely to recall the attempts of similar interests to blacken the name of Gov. Hughes when he was attempting to wipe out the curse of race-track gambling to understand the nature of the present foolish talk."

Henry R. Towne Defends Police.

Henry R. Towne, President of the Merchants' Association, issued on behalf of that association yesterday an "open letter" dealing with the present police situation. He says:

> Apparently by common consent the press of this city has of late given frequent and wide circulation to rumors of friction between the Mayor and the Police Commissioner, and between the latter and one of his assistants. The rumors referred to, and the actual facts, as I know from personal knowledge, are as follows:
>
> 1. That friction exists between the Mayor and the Commissioner. This is absolutely contrary to the facts.
>
> 2. That friction exists between the Commissioner and the Second Deputy Commissioner. This, also, is absolutely contrary to the facts.
>
> 3. That the Commissioner proposes to resign in order to return to the army. This is positively denied by the Commissioner, who points out that he can only be restored to the army by an act of Congress.
>
> 4. That the Commissioner has recently received a large inheritance. This is pure fiction, without foundation in fact.
>
> Collectively, these four false rumors have been coupled, more or less directly, with assertions or implications that the Commissioner would shortly be removed, or would soon resign, the point in every case being that the Commissioner "is going." In certain quarters the wish thus implied is father to the thought. The insistence and recurrence of these reports suggest a common source and motive. One such source suggests itself obviously. The gambling interests and their allies are suffering under a greater repression at present than for many years past, and would welcome any change of police administration, while in sympathy with them are certain members of the force who have been transferred "for the good of the service," and thus deprived of certain opportunities previously availed of.
>
> Whatever the source, the circulation of such rumors, if without foundation in fact, tends directly to the demoralization of the force, and the impairment of its efficiency. The publication of such rumors tends to discredit New York in the eyes of the country, unjustly and to its injury. Still worse, the publication of such rumors is an invitation to every crook in the country to come to New York as a "wide open" town.
>
> Another persistent report is that the Mayor has caused the members of the police force to be deprived of their nightsticks. This also is unqualifiedly untrue. Still another such report is that the Mayor has curbed the police in the making of arrests. The Mayor has issued no such order. He has clearly implied, however, that he would disapprove of arrests made without justification.
>
> In like manner the Commissioner has been condemned for abandoning the "line-up" at Headquarters, the fact being ignored that it had been demonstrated to be useless in results, and is a method not in use in London, Paris, or any other large city.

Continuing, Mr. Towne says that while the public takes note of startling crimes, especially if several occur together, it nevertheless has little knowledge of general conditions. He then cites comparative figures recently made public by Commissioner Waldo, which show a decrease of 30 per cent. in the total number of complaints for all classes of crime in favor of the last four months of 1911, compared with the first four months of that same year.

HELD UP NEAR BELLEVUE.

Another Hospital Employe Attacked —Thief Chase in Central Park.

Another Bellevue Hospital employe was held up and assaulted last night and robbed of what valuables he had on his person. As was the case in several other similar hold-ups recently reported to the police by the Bellevue authorities, the hold-up occurred within less than a block of the entrance to the hospital. Charles Ohm, one of the ward attendants, was the victim. He was on his way to the hospital when, at Twenty-sixth Street and First Avenue, two men stopped him. They beat him, stole his scarfpin, and took what money there was in his pockets.

Policeman Mohan came up in time to see the thieves run away. He pursued and caught John Kelly, who said he lived at 623 East Fifteenth Street. Ohm identified him as one of the men who had robbed him. Kelly was locked up, charged with grand larceny.

Two men who were caught after a long chase, a part of it through Central Park, several shots being fired by the police, were locked up in the East 100th Street Station, yesterday afternoon, charged with holding up and robbing Albert Hoffman, a wagon driver employed by George J. Schroeder, a wholesale liquor dealer of Columbus Avenue, between 102d and 103d Streets. Hoffman said that the men climbed on the wagon, pulled him off the seat, threw him into the body of the wagon and then took his wallet, containing $6. The prisoners said they were Owen Sullivan of 863 Columbus Avenue, and Dennis Feeley of 603 Amsterdam Avenue. Hoffman identified them as the men who had robbed him.

A few feet from the stairway leading to the downtown platform of the Fifty-third Street Station of the Third Avenue elevated road, two women were attacked by highwaymen shortly before midnight last night. A silver-mesh bag, containing $6, suspended by a braided cord from the arm of Miss Margaret Kilheny, a maid employed at the University Club, was torn from her grasp, and Miss Bessie McNamara, a maid employed at the same club, who accompanied her, was prevented from assisting her companion by a man who thrust himself between Miss Kilheny and the robber. The thief made his escape.

The man who, according to the young women, prevented them from seizing the robber, was held by them until the appearance of a policeman. He was taken to the police station, where he described himself as Harry Pappis, 22 years old, of 606 East Fourteenth Street. He was held by the police on the charge of being a suspicious person.

Held in Heavy Bail as Hold-Up Man.

Louis Perez of 221 West Fourteenth Street was held in $5,000 bail yesterday as one of the three men who last Wednesday held up and robbed August Crescent and Frank Dina of 148 Barrow Street of $18. Dina and Crescent are in St. Vincent's Hospital, recovering from gunshot wounds inflicted by the robbers. The police expect to arrest two other men shortly.

79 YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE.

Husband, 99, Says Sense of Humor Has Life-Giving Properties.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Shalek of 57 West Eleventh Street completed their seventy-ninth year of married life yesterday and received congratulations at a reception given by their daughter, Mrs. E. J. Myers of 322 West Seventy-eighth Street. Yesterday was the birthday of Mr. Shalek, as well as his wedding anniversary. He is 99 years old. Mrs. Shalek is nearly 97. Both are well and hearty, and feel sure of seeing considerable more than a century of life.

Mr. Shalek does not use his career to illustrate any of the golden texts. He says he has been drinking and smoking for more than three-quarters of a century. His experience has convinced him that tobacco and liquor in moderation are not injurious. A defeat at chess is the only event that has the power to disturb his peace of mind.

Mrs. Shalek is hale and vigorous, within four years of the hundred mark. She is quite as active, mentally and physically, as her husband, and still takes full charge of all her household affairs.

Mr. Shalek declares that good nature and a sense of humor are long life makers and have been the contributing spirit of his happy married life.

The couple came to this country from Austria in 1867. Mr. Shalek became a brewer. He retired thirty years ago with a comfortable fortune. He has two daughters living.

WOMAN OWNS WATER WORKS.

Mrs. Carr of New York Pays $600,000 for Santa Monica Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 23.—Mrs. Jessie Williamson Carr of New York, who has just purchased the De Longpre home at Holywood, admitted to-day that she is the woman who bought the holdings of the Santa Monica Land and Water Company, and whose identity has been secret.

Mrs. Carr says she was asked by local men to go into the deal with them; that they were not active and prompt enough to suit her, and that she therefore bought their options, arranged a separate deal, and took over the entire property.

Mrs. Carr paid $600,000 for the property. The land comprises 21,000 acres. The water plants of the company supply the towns of Sawtelle, Santa Monica, Ocean Park, and Venice, and it is reported that the receipts last year were $83,000.

ACTORS TO HELP SAILORS.

Charity Performance of Musical Comedy at the Waldorf in April.

"On the Wings of Love," a musical comedy, book by J. Stuart Blackton and lyrics by Alfred J. Doyle, will be given in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf on the evening of April 30, through the courtesy of Mr. Blackton, for the benefit of the Seamen's Christian Association.

The show has had two successful performances, one at the Knickerbocker Field Club of Brooklyn and another before the Atlantic Yacht Club.

The cast is made up of amateurs who belong to the Knickerbocker musical and dramatic company. Tickets may be bought at the Seamen's Christian Association, 399 West Street, or from Francis A. Weismann, 111 Broadway.

SUFFRAGISTS LAUGH AT SENATOR BAYNE

His Belief in Woman's Growing Intelligence Moves His Audience to Mirth.

LAUDS HER POLITICAL SKILL

Many Women Sign Slips Promising to March in the Big May Suffrage Parade.

Peals of feminine laughter interrupted State Senator Harold R. Bayne's speech at the legislative mass meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Party at the Broadway Theatre yesterday afternoon, and for the time being brought it to a standstill.

The Senator was figuratively patting the women on the back in a kindly, fatherly way in the matter of their growing intelligence, and the women were showing that they have what women are sometimes supposed to lack, a sense of humor.

"In time," said the Senator, "the average woman will have the intelligence of the average man." He expanded on this, but with the sentences broken off, at times, stopped entirely by the ripples of laughter which rolled through the audience.

"Of course, I am not referring to an intelligent audience like this," said the Senator, finally running up a surrender flag, but the audience only showed greater mirth.

Senator Bayne had been invited to come, not to make a speech, but to tell where he stood in regard to woman suffrage.

"I hope I am speaking favorably," he said at the outset, and on the whole he did, though he admitted having a more theoretical than actual belief in suffrage. He then offered congratulations to the suffrage leaders for their political acumen and skill.

"I am beginning to think they know the business," he said, "and I have been doubtful as to whether women could ever be politicians, but I don't think there is much doubt left."

The Senator said he thought he noticed that the women were getting a little discouraged and that they felt they might have to use other methods, the military methods. He told of some of the gatherings of women at Albany when the suffragists and anti-suffragists had presented their sides, and said he had remarked then to a fellow-legislator:

"My friend, the question is not—shall we give the votes to women, but can we possibly live without their help?"

He also spoke of the need of less commercialism, more idealism and devotion to public duty in politics, but he deplored women's lack of interest in public affairs.

State Senator Duhamel, Assemblyman Alfred J. Kennedy of Queens, Mrs. Ruth Litt, John S. Crosby, and Richard Bigelow of the Men's League for Woman Suffrage also spoke. There was a good attendance, and many women signed slips promising to march in the big May 4 suffrage parade.

CHALONER WILL APPEAL.

Telegram to His Counsel Says He Has Long Been a Martyr.

John Armstrong Chaloner, whose suit for the dismissal of Thomas T. Sherman as the committee of his person and property in this State was dismissed formally yesterday, in accordance with Judge Holt's ruling in the Federal District Court on Wednesday, has sent this telegram to his counsel:

> Delighted. Appeal is necessary. The greater the delay the greater the cost, the greater the outrage, the greater the object lesson to the public concerning need of reforming lunacy legislation. I have been a martyr so long to ignorant Judges and unjust laws that I am getting used to it. Assure my brilliant and learned counsel of my commendation of their conduct of the case.

In the proceedings before Judge Holt the question of Chaloner's sanity was excluded, the court merely considering whether the appointment of Mr. Sherman as a committee was in regular order. The court held that the Supreme Court of the State alone could revise its own findings on the mental condition of the plaintiff.

WON'T SELL TOWN TOPICS.

Col Mann Denies a Rumor That He Will Retire.

It was rumored yesterday that Col. William D. Mann was about to sell Town Topics and retire from newspaper work. When he was seen last night at his house, 809 West Seventy-second Street, Col. Mann said:

"I have been twenty-one years at the post of duty, and I hope I shall continue there for as many more. I do not know where the rumor originated, but you can say positively that I have no intention of retiring or selling Town Topics."

Thirty New Spring Styles in Men's STETSON HATS At $3.50

True, the man with conservative tastes can still find a conservative hat to suit him; while he who ever yields to the lure of "the latest" will find much to please him in this fine Stetson showing at this common-sense price—$3.50.

The Soft Hats show more tangible newness than the Derbies—and, by the way, this is going to be another great soft hat season. We illustrate one of the new styles —a bit higher in the crown, a bit tighter in the brim, and in a new tweed finish, although made of fur felt. The mottled ribbon—to match the body of the hat—is an attractive novelty. In colors to match a man's Spring suit—brown, tan, blue, olive, light gray and Oxford gray, as well as black.

Other Grades of Stetson Soft Hats up to $12
Other Grades of Stetson Derby Hats up to $10

Men's Spring Hats, Special at $2

Today a special offering of Derbies and Soft Hats in new models that were made to sell for more than the present price of $2.

Above the Average---These DRESS SHIRTS at $1.65

Shirts that will do justice to a well-fitting dress suit. From a shirtmaker who takes more care with his product than the average. In a correct model for evening dress, with wide bosoms and square-cornered cuffs of 2100-count linen. A note of elegance and luxury, in the body, which is of fine white corded madras, soft and comfortable.

Comparisons are odious, so we'll simply stand pat on these Shirts at their price—$1.65. Sizes 14 to 17½—various sleeve-lengths.

Some Knitted SCARFS at 50c

Accordion-weave effects in plain and shadow stripes. Scarfs that slip readily, and tie well under the fashionable turn-over collars of today. Of course, these are better-than-50c Scarfs, or we should have nothing to say about them. Main Floor

$3.25—The New Price on Some Good SHOES for Men

May we tell you a secret? We planned to sell these Shoes for $5, until we found some from another maker that offered even better value at that price. So we put these Shoes into stock at 3.95, and have sold hundreds of pairs of them this season to satisfied customers.

But we are hardly a minute ahead of the arrival of the Men's new Oxfords for Spring, and want to get these high Shoes out of the way first. So, today—$3.25 a Pair.

Six decidedly good-looking styles—gun-metal calf, tan Russia calf and patent leather, each in button and lace. A fair range of sizes in each style. Splendid Shoes for men who can be fitted—and that means most men.

Boys' and Girls' Toe-Ease Shoes

The best principles in shoe making applied to common sense, but stylish shoes for tender feet. Various leathers, $1.50 to $4 a pair, according to size. Second Floor

About 7000 Pairs of Men's Silk Socks at 38c a Pair

Lisle thread tops and soles, for better service, and all the rest of the Socks is pure silk. Black and a variety of colors, in solid and two-toned effects. Silk Socks, with all their dressiness of appearance, for the price of lisle or cotton. 50c would be a fair price to pay for them—but here are plenty of them at 38c a pair.

CRAM AGAINST RIGGS.

Wants to Oppose Service Board Nominee's Confirmation Before Committee

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—Senator Robert F. Wagner, Tammany's spokesman in the upper house, said to-day that J. Sargeant Cram, a member of the Public Service Commission of the First District, had asked Chairman James J. Frawley of the Finance Committee for a hearing on the question of confirming the nomination of Edward G. Riggs to be Public Service Commissioner to succeed William McCarroll. Mr. Cram is said to have asked permission to present reasons why Mr. Riggs's nomination should not be confirmed.

The report was also current that Mr. Cram had informed Gov. Dix that he would resign from the commission if Mr. Riggs was made a member. Mr. Cram was appointed to the commission in place of Edward M. Bassett, following the fight on the United States Senatorship in which Mr. Cram's hostility to William F. Sheehan, the Tammany candidate, led to a break in the relations between Leader Charles F. Murphy and Mr. Cram.

It is the belief in Albany that the question of Mr. Riggs's confirmation will involve the traction interests as well as politics. The nomination will be considered by the Finance Committee next week, but it is not believed that the question of confirmation will come before the Senate before March.

As the case stands to-day there is little prospect of favorable action on the nominations of Mr. Riggs and Herbert P. Bissell, who was named for Public Service Commissioner in the Second District. It is said that all the Democrats will oppose Mr. Bissell except Senators Burd and Loomis of Buffalo, Saxe of New York, Ferris of Oneida, Bayne of Richmond, and Roosevelt of Dutchess, and that the Republican members will be guided by caucus action.

Gov. Dix at the Amen Corner Dinner.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—Gov. Dix plans to go to New York to-morrow to attend the dinner of the Amen Corner in the evening. He has tentatively arranged to go from New York to Atlantic City to spend Sunday and Monday, returning here Tuesday.

OKLAHOMA FAVORS CLARK AND WILSON

Convention Instructs Delegates to Support Them So Long as They Are Candidates.

TO GIVE EACH TEN VOTES

Senator Gore Heads the Wilson Delegates and Congressman Ferris the Clark Adherents.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 23.—The Oklahoma Democratic State Convention, which began yesterday afternoon with indications of a bitter factional fight, ended late to-day in a love feast, the selection of a split delegation to the Baltimore Convention, and the election of Roger Galbreath of Tulsa, uncommitted as to his preference for Presidential nominee, as National Committeeman.

The compromise was reached early to-day at a conference of leaders of the factions supporting Champ Clark and Woodrow Wilson after the delegates, wearied by a stormy all-night session, had taken a recess. It was agreed that twenty delegates be elected from the State at large, each with half a vote, ten instructed for Clark, and ten for Wilson. When the convention reassembled this afternoon the plan was ratified with little debate.

Galbreath for National Committeeman was nominated by United States Senator Robert L. Owen. He won over John Doolin by a vote of 407 to 146.

The delegates were instructed to divide the Oklahoma vote so long as Clark and Wilson are before the convention and, with the withdrawal of either, to centre on the candidate remaining.

Senator Thomas P. Gore heads the list of ten Wilson delegates. Congressman Scott Ferris and Judge R. L. Williams head the delegates-at-large who will vote for Clark.

Both Find Cause for Congratulation in Oklahoma's Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Statements issued to-day from the Wilson and Clark headquarters here show that there is a lively fight ahead in Democratic ranks. Both statements had to do with the result of the Oklahoma State Convention of to-day, which divided the twenty delegates to the Baltimore Convention evenly between Speaker Clark and Gov. Wilson. The general impression in Washington is that the result of this convention was a severe blow to the Clark boom, but the statement issued from the Speaker's headquarters here this afternoon declares that the Clark forces are "highly delighted at the news from Oklahoma."

The Clark statement raises the old cry of the use of money, saying that the Speaker's forces had no funds, whereas the Wilson forces had an abundance of means, in addition to the leadership of Senator Gore.

The Wilson headquarters are jubilant over the Oklahoma result, and counteract the Clark accusation of the use of money by accusing the Clark men of trying to take snap judgment on them by calling the Missouri and the Oklahoma Conventions "long in advance of the other State Conventions in the belief that they would control the delegations of both States and go to the country with such moral effect as might result from the solid delegations from the two States to the Baltimore Convention."

COMBINE AGAINST WILSON?

La Follette's Magazine Intimates That Underwood and Clark Are Knifing Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 23.—A significant review of the investigation of the money trust problem now pending in Congress brings an intimation in La Follette's magazine this week that Underwood and Clark are in a combination against Wilson. No reference is made to the Presidential fight, but La Follette reviews Wilson's attitude on the money trust and then continues:

"A caucus of the House Democrats was held on Feb. 7 to decide the matter. The debate was heated. The lines were drawn between those who favor an investigation of the money power and those who fear it. The Clark-Underwood organization stood by Wall Street in this emergency, and it had the majority. Against the machine Representative Henry and the other Democrats who stood for a real investigation were powerless. The vote was 115 to 66 in favor of Wall Street's plan. By the overwhelming majority of 115 to 66 these Democratic members, now in control of the House organization, rejected the proposal for a special committee—which would have meant a real investigation—and accepted the proposal of the New York financial giants for a reference of the whole matter to the Banking and Currency Committee—which means that money power has nothing to fear."

Speaks at University of Kansas on the Cost of Living.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 23.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson addressed the students of the University of Kansas to-day on the cost of living.

"It would be a fallacy," he said, "to tell you that the cost of production governs the cost of a commodity. The cost of production is too uncertain. It varies in different factories. It varies in one factory under different Superintendents."

Gov. Wilson was introduced to the students by Gov. Stubbs. He left at 9:15, expecting to reach Nashville, Tenn. to-morrow morning, where he is to speak.

GRAY MAY SUCCEED HILL.

As President of the Great Northern Upon Hill's Retirement May 1.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Feb. 23.—Carl R. Gray, formerly of St. Louis, now President of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Road and the Hill lines in Oregon, can have the Presidency of the Great Northern Railroad if he wants it, it is said. He has established a record in the Northwestern railroad world, and in all probability he will be the successor of Louis W. Hill, who is to retire about May 1. He has gone East to consult with James J. Hill, Chairman of the Board of the Great Northern.

The retirement of Louis W. Hill has been forcasted for many months. He accepted the Presidency of the Great Northern, it is said, simply that he might be able to study the resources, opportunities, and needs of the Western country. Yesterday he closed a deal for 800,000 acres in Eastern Oregon, which he will fill up with colonists. The company backed by Hill is capitalized at $12,000,000.

CHILD PROVES HIM BIGAMIST.

Wife No. 2 Thought She Was Caring for His Brother and Sister.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Mrs. John Phifer, who prior to her marriage was Miss Bertha Werner, discovered to-day that her husband was a bigamist. One of the two children whom he had brought to their home as his little brother and sister called him "Papa." After he left the bride quizzed the child, and learned that her husband had a wife living on Haines Street.

The second Mrs. Phifer called on wife No. 1, who said she knew her husband had remarried, and that she had no objection so long as he supported two of the three children.

Mrs. Phifer No. 2 caused the arrest of her husband this afternoon on a charge of bigamy. He was sent to jail in default of $500. Afterward the second wife declared she was willing to live with him and take care of the two children if he would get a divorce from wife No. 1. The first wife says she also is willing.

TO INDICT ANOTHER BANKER?

Rumors Start When Carnegie Trust Grand Jury Is Recalled.

Considerable mystery surrounds the order issued yesterday calling upon the members of the Supreme Court Grand Jury that sat in March, 1911, to appear before Justice Vernon M. Davis in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court next Monday. This is the Grand Jury which indicted William J. Cummins of the Carnegie Trust Company, who was convicted of the larceny of $300,000 of the trust company's funds; Joseph B. Reichman, who was convicted of making a false report to the Banking Department, and ex-City Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde, who is now awaiting trial for bribery in connection with the Carnegie Trust case.

David Freed is the foreman of the Grand Jury, whose discharge has been delayed in the hope that new evidence might be discovered, which would lead to at least one new indictment. There was considerable speculation about the Criminal Court Building yesterday as to just what the summoning of the jury means. It was suggested that the jury might possibly be asked to make an investigation of the report submitted by Israel Tilden, Jr., the Brooklyn law student, who alleged that he canvassed the city and found popular sentiment against Hyde, but this suggestion soon gave way to a rumor that the Grand Jury was to make a further investigation of the larceny of the $300,000 of the Carnegie Trust Company's funds and that a new indictment against a man high in the financial world would be found. It was pointed out that any Grand Jury could take up the Tilden matter, while none could take up the Carnegie Trust Company case until the March Grand Jury had been dismissed.

District Attorney Whitman refused to comment on the order nor would Assistant District Attorney John K. Clarke, who conducted the examination before the Grand Jury, make any statement.

Mr. Cummins and Mr. Reichman are at present out on bail awaiting a decision of their appeals, and Mr. Hyde is awaiting trial. Mr. Whitman was to appear before Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday and ask that March 6 be set as a date for the Hyde trial, but notice was served of an appeal from the recent decision of the Appellate Division, which confirmed Justice Lehman's denial of Mr. Hyde's application for a change of venue. Mr. Whitman says the Court of Appeals decision will be handed down in about a week, and he will then ask that the case be set for immediate trial.

PLAN TO SHIP 100 CHILDREN.

Lawrence Strikers Likely to Meet Opposition from Police.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 23.—Textile strike leaders were making preparations to-night for sending 100 more children away in the morning, some to New York and the others to Philadelphia. The strike leaders refused to say on what train the children will leave town, and the police were silent as to what method they will employ to keep the children in the city.

Capt. John J. Sullivan, the acting City Marshal, said: "I shall do all in my power to prevent the sending away of more children. I will not let them go if there is any way under the law to stop it."

The police were again in control of the business districts of the city to-day for the first time in many weeks, the militia lines being confined to the mill district.

A force of 800 soldiers is still in the city, however, ready to respond to any call from the city authorities, and Col. E. Leroy Sweetser, in command of the provisional regiment, said to-day that this force will be maintained here for the present.

The women strike pickets were very active again this morning, accosting many operatives on their way to work and urging them to remain away from the mills. Good gains in operatives were reported at the Arlington and Pacific Mills to-day, and some increase was reported by the American Woolen Company's mills.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—The special Committee on Conciliation, which went to Lawrence recently to hear voluntary testimony in regard to the textile strike, held a conference at the State House to-day with some of the mill men. Former Congressman Samuel L. Powers and William Butler addressed the meeting.

At its close Mr. Powers, representing the mill owners, said that while no agreement had been reached as to concessions, the prospect for a solution of the difficulties was good. The meeting was adjourned until Monday, when there will be another effort to settle the strike.

WIND STILL WORRIES SHIPS.

Vessels Return to Port for Repairs—Lusitania Delayed by Gale.

Although the wind dropped almost to a calm ashore yesterday it was still blowing hard outside the harbor all day, and the sea kicked up by the storm appeared to be even worse than it was on Thursday.

Capt. Kelsey of the steam pilot boat New York put into Stapleton, S. I., yesterday afternoon for the first time since the heavy weather commenced. He said that on Wednesday night the boat was blown out to sea 20 miles and did not get back to the Ambrose Channel Lightship until 10 A. M. on Thursday. Late that day the Joseph Cuneo, a Norwegian fruit steamer from Cuba, signaled that she wanted a pilot and the yawl was lowered with two men to put one aboard. Just as the boat got alongside the steamer and was about to take a line, a big sea hit the Cuneo, dropping her back into the trough of the sea, swamping the yawl and immersing Capt. McCarthy, the pilot, and two sailors. The New York immediately went after the three men and reached them before they sank. The rescued men made another attempt to reach the Cuneo and were successful.

A wireless message from the Savannah liner City of Augusta last night said that she had sighted a capsized fishing vessel off Cape Lookout, about seventy miles south of Hatteras, floating bottom up with keel and propeller showing. She is believed to be one of the fishing boats caught in Wednesday's storm. The liner reported that the revenue cutter Onondaga was steaming southward to look for the crew.

The schooner Georgia D. Jenkins, which sailed on Tuesday from this port for Jacksonville, returned to port last night and anchored off Stapleton after losing her flying jib, forestaysail, and foresail in the gale.

The five-masted schooner Hardwood Palmer, bound from Norfolk for Portland with coal, which lost her mizzen boom, port davits, and starboard anchor, was towed to Block Island yesterday by the revenue cutter Mohawk.

Capt. Charles of the Cunard liner Lusitania sent a wireless message yesterday at noon when the ship was 375 miles from the Ambrose Channel Lightship that there was a strong westerly gale blowing and a heavy sea which had delayed him from docking until this morning instead of arriving at 6 o'clock last night.

The highest temperature yesterday was 36 at 3 P. M., and at 11 P. M. it was 35 degrees. The prospects for to-day are fair and warmer weather and very little wind.

To prevent a freshet and open the Hudson for traffic, the Gaynor and Hughes, two powerful tugs, yesterday fought their way up the Hudson from Irvington to near Haverstraw.

Sergt. Bernard O'Keefe of the Coast Artillery died yesterday at the post hospital in Fort Hancock, New Jersey, as a result of injuries received on Thursday afternoon when he was blown off a Government train bringing supplies from the Highlands.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE TRUTH

They're Not Contradictory Terms, Editor Tells Students.

William Seaver Woods, editor of the Literary Digest, in a lecture last night to the students or the New York University School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance, defended the newspapers of the country against the charges of undue influence from their advertising and other financial interests. Mr. Woods's subject was "The Ideals of Journalism." While admitting instances of wilful coloring of the facts he said the present tendency was toward greater truthfulness and gave many examples in support of his opinion.

He held up before the students of journalism of the University the importance of the profession. The newspapers were "moving pictures of human life," he said, in which greater faithfulness was to be expected and found than in any other art to-day.

HEARST LOSES POINT IN ELECTION RULING

Supreme Court Holds That Party Emblem Belongs to the Faction Dominating the Party.

TAMMANY BLOW IS DULLED

Petitioner's Argument, However, Regarding the Repetition of Names Upon a Ballot Is Upheld.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court handed down two decisions yesterday on the new primary election law. In one case the court held that the dominant faction of a political party is entitled to the use of the party emblem on the primary ballot. In the other case it ruled that in circumstances where party rules give members of one committee membership in another the names of the subsidiary committee need not appear on the ballot, nor need the names of the candidates be repeated.

The first decision denied the application of Herbert R. Limburg, as attorney for John J. Hopper and William R. Hearst, for a writ of mandamus against the Board of Elections to prohibit the board granting the regular Democratic committee the use of the party emblem over the so-called "machine" nominees on the primary ballot.

This was considered an important factor in Mr. Hearst's projected fight against Tammany Hall for control of the New York County organization and the local delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Baltimore this Spring. The Appellate Division, however, granted Mr. Hearst's plea that the portion of the law which prohibits the appearance of a name more than once on the ballot should be nullified. Justice Dowling wrote the prevailing opinion in both cases. In reference to the Hearst contentions he wrote:

> The objection is urged that, by granting the party emblem as the committee emblem of the party, an unjust discrimination has been exercised against those who are striving to overthrow the control of the party by the dominant faction as represented by the party committee. We can see no force in this contention.
>
> As a matter of practical administration some party or faction must have on any ballot such advantage as may come not only from an emblem, but from the first column on the ticket. By the election law that position is also given to the candidates designated by the party committee. No good reason is suggested why the followers of a faction which is disputing the supremacy of another, then actually in control, cannot cast the ballots for the candidates of their choice as freely, fairly, and accurately under an emblem of their selection as under that of the party.
>
> Where men take the trouble to vote at a primary they presumably have as intelligent a view of the merits of the issues submitted to them as they have at a general election, and they are as well equipped to make their selection between emblems and candidates. Under modern methods full publicity is given to emblems and candidates preceding election, and no independent movement can fail for lack of an opportunity to present its claims for popular support.

In conclusion, Justice Dowling held that Justice Bijur's decision in Special Term, striking from the primary ballot all use of emblems made matters more difficult for the voter than at a general election, and was contrary to the intent of the Legislature.

The second decision of the Appellate Division confirmed the right of the Republican County Committee to make up the membership of Senatorial, Judicial, and Congressional District Committees from its Assembly District membership without printing the names of candidates as often, as those were separate committees.

The Republican County Committee objected to even this construction of the law, on the ground that it would make some of the ballots in the coming primaries seventeen feet long. In its decision, the Appellate Division declared:

"But it is contended that the names of members of the County Committee from each Assembly District should be repeated as often upon the ballot as there are separate committees to be filled and appear under the proper heading. For this method of election no good argument is advanced. Its sole result would be to incumber needlessly an already cumbersome ballot, for membership in the County Committee entitles the person thereon to membership in all the other committees representing the district as a whole, no matter how numerous they may be. This being so, a single appearance of the names of the candidates for the County Committee on the ballot is sufficient, and, when elected, their membership in the other committees attaches without further action."

PRINCETON CHEERS GREET DR. HIBBEN

More Than One Thousand Happy Alumni Inaugurate Informally New President with Song.

RECORD CROWD IS GATHERED

Dr. Findley Pays Eloquent Tribute to New Head of University—Dr. Patten Also a Speaker.

The alumni of Princeton University, 1,100 strong, representing one-ninth of all living graduates of Princeton, last night cheered and sang into office the newly elected President of their university, John Grier Hibben, at a dinner in his honor at the Waldorf-Astoria. It was the biggest gathering of Princeton alumni in the records of the university. Woodrow Wilson was not present, being on a lecture tour in Oklahoma, but he sent his regrets at his inability to attend. At one of the tables, however, sat Col. George Harvey, his friend; and throughout the evening, amid loud cheering, references were made to college Presidents who feel called upon to exchange academic for public careers.

Such were promised the support of their universities, but warned against "confabs of politicians who plot in secret" and told that it is "hard to keep alive in their hearts the fires of enthusiasm while thinking of the frosty caucuses."

President Hibben himself, welcomed in behalf the alumni, other universities, and Princeton itself, outlined his policy, pledging himself to work at Princeton for an ideal democratic community in which all classes of students, underclassmen, upperclassmen, graduates and undergraduates and Faculty should meet freely in a central meeting place and work together for the great university family.

Some Distinguished Diners.

Charles Scribner, President of the Princeton Club, was toastmaster at the dinner, and with him and President Hibben at the speakers' table sat the following:

Charles F. Mathewson, Trustee of Dartmouth College; A. D. Russell, Trustee of Princeton University; Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of Museum of Natural History; James W. Alexander, '60; W. B. Hornblower, '71; Judge Henry G. Atwater, '62, Elizabeth, N. J.; Judge Joseph Cross, '65, United States District Court, Elizabeth; Bayard Henry, '76, of Philadelphia; Chancellor Mahlon H. Pitney, '79, New Jersey; M. Taylor Pyne, '77; William Dull, Harrisburg, Penn., class of 1852, the oldest class represented; ex-Chancellor William J. Magie, '52, New Jersey; the Rev. Dr. Ethelbert Dudley Warfield, '82, President of Lafayette College; Dean Edward Elliott of Princeton University, Dr. John F. Finney, '84, Baltimore; Job E. Hedges, '86; Dr. Francis S. Patton, ex-President of Princeton University; John H. Finley, President of City College; Andrew F. West, '74, Dean of Princeton Graduate College; George B. McClellan, '86, ex-Mayor of New York City; William M. Sloane, Columbia University; the Rev. Dr. Robert H. Nassau, '54, Ambler, Penn.; Sanford R. Knapp, 54, Peekskill, N. Y.; Prof. J. M. Hart, '60, of Cornell University; Adrian H. Joline, '70; Judge William S. Gummere, '70, Chief Justice of New Jersey; the Rev. Dr. George B. Stewart, '76, President of Auburn Theological Seminary; Dr. M. Allen Starr, '76; Judge H. E. Davis, '76, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Charles A. Richmond, '83, President of Union College; W. Cooper Procter, '83, of Cincinnati.

Mr. Scribner announced that forty-two Alumni Associations of Princeton were represented, every class from 1852 to 1911. All of them, he said, and all elements at Princeton were ready to pledge their support to the new President. Those present assented in a deafening chorus of:

Ray, Ray, Ray!
Tiger! Tiger! Tiger!
Sis, sis, sis,
Boom, boom, boom,
Ah, ah, ah,
Hibben! Hibben! Hibben!

Job Hedges, of the class of '84, the first speaker, welcomed President Hibben as John, in behalf of the alumni.

"His character," he said, "was largely developed by contact with the class of '84. We brought him up. We made him. And he has really done quite well."

Mr. Hedges then paid tribute to Princeton itself, which, he said, is "a sort of Providential dispensation to tell a man after he's been there four years what he is not." He said he'd rather have been graduated from Princeton than from any other university; and he concluded by assuring his audience that, to be perfectly ingenuous, he considered his after-dinner speech rather good. So did they.

President Finley, who said he was the oldest living college President, told of the many others he had seen come and go, and then, as sole survivor of the Presidential panorama, welcomed the latest acquisition.

Princeton's White Year.

"It is a white year in the history of Princeton," he said, "and this is the brightest star in all her firmament. Astronomers in the outer world have been trying long to determine his magnitude and the fires that are burning within him. The spectrum of Jack Hibben is like the spectrum of sunlight itself, and like sunlight, it is brightest after the rain. Of him we may well say: 'In this man God has wrought with gentle workmanship.'"

Dr. Patton, who was President of Princeton before Dr. Wilson, welcomed the new President in behalf of the Faculty. He regretted with a twinkle of humor that the autocrats have fallen on evil days in the world, and that college Presidents, among others, if wise, would have to heed the signs of the times and make some concessions to popular demands.

It was Dr. Patton who spoke about college Presidents who feel called upon the leave colleges for the wider sphere of public service, and who encounter the dangers of wily politicians, secret confabs and plots, and frosty caucuses.

President Hibben himself was the last speaker. He was welcomed with a deafening salute and long cheers, the diners rising as a man and yelling like a million to let him know just how welcome he was. Dr. Hibben declared that Princeton is to-day facing a great opportunity, having settled her controversies and taken stock of herself, and that henceforth he would make his motto in conducting his administration "Peace and progress."

"It is because of the possibility which our seclusion affords of developing the intimate relations and associations of our campus life, where the undergraduates in daily intercourse have a common round of duties and of pleasures, that we have been able to develop an ideal democratic community," he said. "There is no tradition which Princeton men so cherish as that of the democracy which has been their's from the earliest beginning of the College of New Jersey until this present day. I appeal to you as Princeton men, 'Have we ever lost this spirit of democracy?' 'Will we ever allow this spirit of democracy to die out in Princeton?' In my observation, the spirit of youth is by nature democratic; it is not snobbish; not shrewdly calculating. It is ingenuous, unsophisticated, impulsive; it seeks to discover always the man beneath all of the superficial suggestions of position or of possession. It judges a man at his worth.

Natural Standard of Youth.

"Such is the natural standard of youth. In the solution of the problems of undergraduate life, I take great comfort in the thought that I have the loyal support and co-operation of the Senior Council, a body of representative men keenly alive to Princeton's interests and the honor of her fair name. While the spirit of youth dominates our life in all its lovely generous ideality, our democratic traditions and habits will be abundantly safeguarded. To further this end I hope that in the near future we may have upon or adjoining our campus some central building which will be a common meeting place at all times for all Princeton men, underclassmen and upperclassmen alike, graduates, undergraduates, and Faculty.

"It may take the form of a University Club or a Commons Hall. I do not care what name you give to it, so long as it serves the purpose of a central home for our great university family.

"We have, moreover, a very confident belief that our type of education tends to the making of a man. The main point is not what a man makes the first week he leaves college, but the rate of progress he is capable of sustaining, the rate of acceleration at which he springs forward to seize every opportunity and realize every possibility."

President Hibben added that he craved for Princeton in the years to come an enhanced value of scholarly attainment, and to that end there must be developed as far as possible the opportunities of intimate intercourse between the student and his instructor. Under the present preceptorial system, he said, Princeton has been very successful in this, its students numbering about seven to one of its Faculty; but he hoped to see this ratio still further reduced in the future. Concerning the Graduate School, about which there raged such a lively war at Princeton a year ago, he said:

"We have most fortunately left behind us the region of controversy; all vexed questions as to the nature of the graduate college buildings and their setting have been determined by the Trustees. The supreme demand made upon men who take up graduate studies is that there must be on their part complete and unreserved consecration to the cause of genuine scholarship. I expect most confidently that the Graduate School is to become, and is to be known, both in this country and abroad, as the Home of Scholars. This I know to be Dean West's ambition and purpose, and under his wise and resourceful guidance this end will be signally realized."

Dr. Hibben concluded by expressing his faith in the success of the honor system as at present established at Princeton, and by pledging himself to maintain the Princeton tradition that education should be made a preparation for the solemn responsibilites of life, developing not only a man's powers but also giving him a sense of responsibility for the use of those powers.

BOY SKATER KILLED BY DINERS' AUTO

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Flagg's Car Runs Down Lad at Stowe Phelps's Door.

VAIN DASH TO HOSPITAL

Boy Had Not Seen the Machine, and Coasted Under Wheels—Another Boy Is Injured.

Stowe Phelps, the architect, gave a dinner last evening, and as car after car drove up to the door of his home at 161 East Seventy-fourth Street, a group of small boys on roller skates hovered just beyond the circle of welcoming light and watched with reverent interest as the festively attired folk stepped out and went up the steps.

Just as the limousine that was bringing Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Flagg drove up to the curb, one of these boys shot forward from the other side of the street just in time for the advancing car to knock him to the ground. Two wheels passed over his body, and he died a few minutes later, lying on the laps of Mr. Flagg and his wife, as the car drove through the gates of the Presbyterian Hospital.

The boy's name was James McNamara. He was thirteen years old and lived with his father, Robert McNamara, at 227 East Seventy-fourth Street. The father is a carpenter out of work. He could hardly believe the news when it was hurried to him last evening by one of the boys who had seen the accident. No arrests were made, for the police were of the opinion that the accident had been unavoidable.

Alfred Beaver, the Flaggs chauffeur, was turning the big car around, so that his passengers might alight at the curb, when young McNamara skated silently across his path and so abruptly that there was no stopping the car before the wheels had passed over the boy's body. Neither the architect nor his wife saw the accident, but Mrs. Flagg felt the rise and the jar as the wheels passed over, and she knew suddenly what had happened. The shock of it was very great, and she never got out of the car till it was back at her own door on East Fiftieth Street.

Beaver no sooner brought his car to a halt than he and Mr. Flagg and the latter's footman were out, and the architect soon had the boy in his arms. He was bleeding profusely at the nose and ears and was unconscious. The news spread into the house where the guests for the dinner had gathered, and soon Mr. Phelps was out joining in the consultation. From his house the word went over the wire to the Presbyterian Hospital that a patient was coming, and the procession started, with the injured boy laid tenderly across the laps of Mr. and Mrs. Flagg and, skating behind, a boy named Johnson, who lived in the same house as McNamara, and who had seen his friend run over.

Johnson said nothing to all the impressive servants and folk in evening dress who hovered about the automobile that had struck the boy, but he kept his eyes open, and when the car started for the hospital, he trailed behind and was there to identify the boy at the end.

As the car slowed up in passing through the gates of the hospital, Dr. Hall ran out and threw open the door. He looked in just as young McNamara died. As they carried him into the building those watching from the steps outside noticed that the dead boy's skates were still strapped to his feet.

When it was all over the Flaggs drove back to the Phelps home, and Mr. Flagg went inside to tell the guests there the outcome of the accident, which had happened at the door. Then he excused himself, explaining that he did not feel much like a dinner party just then, and that Mrs. Flagg could not be persuaded to leave her seat in the car. Among the guests at the Phelps home were Margaret Roosevelt, Mrs. Katherine Dodge, and Mr. and Mrs. Dana Winslow.

An automobile owned and operated by Julius W. Stolts, President of the J. & J. W. Stolts Company, casket manufacturers, at 123 East Eighteenth Street, and living at 42 West Second Street, Mount Vernon, N. Y., ran down and seriously injured seven-year-old Jacob Monstein of 25 East 114th Street, in Fifth Avenue between 114th and 115th Streets, early last evening. The lad was taken to Harlem Hospital, where it was found he had a compound fracture of the skull. His recovery is doubtful. Stolts told the police that the boy ran in front of the machine. He was not detained.

The Last Word About

Out of the Rut

The book published under four titles, in three countries, in two languages,

By John Adams Thayer

Formerly one of the owners of Everybody's Magazine, now owner and publisher of the Smart Set Magazine.

The author has long ago been conceded his advertising supremacy. But we hasten to take off our hats to him as a writer of literature. This autobiographical sketch is a human document exhibiting quite unusual literary qualities. It is as intimate as a private conversation, as entertaining as a vaudeville monologue, and as frank as a muckraking masterpiece. It is vivid, dramatic, frank, fearless and without malice or unkindliness.

Greyfriars Bobby
By Eleanor Atkinson.

It is fine to be loved by a whole big city-full of people, even if one is only a dog—and "a wee bit doggie" at that. Everybody from the lordly officials of the town to the poorest children had a tender, loving spot in his heart for the little dog. And what a splendid, true, frolicsome, faithful fellow he was. Just the kind of spirit you would like to have yourself or like your children to have. It is really a strange story this of "Greyfriars Bobby," strange, but every word true, and interesting—interesting beyond words. They put up a statue to him for all the world to see and admire—a statue that stands first of all for the power of affection. It is a story no man can read without a catch in his throat.

Sister Carrie
By Theodore Dreiser

The earlier novel of Theodore Dreiser is now presented in a new library edition, uniform with "Jennie Gerhardt." In the language of William J. Locke, "'Sister Carrie' has something of the throb, the typical movement, the reflection of things as they are."

The House of Harper
By J. Henry Harper

This author belongs to the third generation of his family, and he has had access to many private sources of information. The picture of old New York life is admirably drawn, and the chapter on early American Methodism is a contribution to Wesleyan literature. The author reviews publishing history and tells many quotable stories of Dickens, Thackeray, Wilkie Collins, the elder Booth, Fitz-James O'Brien, Curtis, Prescott and scores of others.

Simple Italian Cookery
By Antonia Isola

This book of Italian recipes was compiled by an expert. Though frugal, the Italians are excellent cooks and the American housekeeper will find many interesting suggestions for preparing all sorts of soups, meats, vegetables and sweets. The book shows that Italian cookery is far from being all "garlic and macaroni."

Riders of the Purple Sage
By Zane Grey

Here is an American romance of a time and place and life which seem as strange, picturesque, and dramatic as the days of Lorna Doone. The scene is the vast plains of purple sage-brush and the canon fastnesses of Southern Utah, when "rustlers," "gun-men," and avenging Mormons made their own laws. It is the story of men who dared greatly and women who could both ride and love. And—"it threatens to become a best seller."

A Novel of the Outgoing Generation

By WILLIAM DUDLEY FOULKE

IT is a story of the life of a Quaker by a Quaker—

"The pictures of the home and household, with side lights on the quiet comfort of life among the Friends, are charmingly drawn."—Springfield Republican.

A story of life, written in the style of an autobiography. It is charming and fascinating, and into it the threads of a pretty romance are closely woven.

Now Ready

THE ESSENTIAL THING

By Arthur Hodges

A powerful novel, done on bold and striking lines, of society life in New York. And it is written, not from hearsay or guesswork, not by a man who never got nearer to New York than State Street, Chicago, but by a man who knows what he is talking about, a man who understands New York Society because he is clever, and a part of it.

THE BUTTERFLY HOUSE

By Mary E. Wilkins Freeman

Author of "A Humble Romance," "A New England Nun," etc.

The author of those wonderfully realistic stories of New England, "A New England Nun," and other books, here depicts the life of a suburban community with that keenness of insight and absolute fidelity to nature which made her famous.

Illustrated by PAUL JULIEN MEYLAN. 12*mo.* $1.20 net.

MY LADY CAPRICE

By Jeffery Farnol

Author of "THE BROAD HIGHWAY," "THE MONEY MOON."

Jeffery Farnol has yet to write a more charming and delightful love story than this, which was published a couple of years ago, in an expensive, illustrated edition, before the author had attained a reputation. For the benefit of his thousands of admirers it is now for the first time issued as a novel.

THE CHALICE OF COURAGE

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

Author of "The Island of Regeneration," etc.

A man and a girl snowed in alone among the Colorado mountains for a whole winter. With this unique situation to work from, the author has written a story that is even more thrilling than "The Island of Regeneration."

DEATH An Essay

By Maurice Maeterlinck

Translated by Alexander Teixeira de Mattos.

Death is naught but an immortal birth, says the author. Death, the magic gateway into that incomparable mystery beyond, as he calls it, forms the subject of this book. But it is Death as a beginning, not Death as an end, that has kindled the imagination of the great mystic philosopher. What the foremost figure in contemporary literature has to say upon Death and Immortality cannot fail to impress profoundly all thoughtful readers.

By M. E. Charlesworth. $1.25 net (1.40 by mail)

"A story dramatic in conception and rich in incident, but offering at the same time plenty of solid substance for reflection. In the course of the story we are taken into the court-room and witness the trial and condemnation of a man who, though enmeshed in a treacherous tangle of circumstantial evidence, is guiltless of the crime for which he is to suffer."

Three Large Printings Within a Month.

"In these days of overmuch involved plot and diction in the writing of novels, a book like this brings a sense of refreshment, as much by the virility and directness of its style as by the interest of the story it tells. The human interest of the book is absorbing. The descriptions of life in India and England are delightful. But it is the intense humanity of the story, above all, that of its dominating character, Nick Ratcliffe, that will win for it a swift appreciation."—Boston Eve. Transcript.

THE DRUNKARD

By GUY THORNE, Author of "When It Was Dark."

A powerful novel written by a man of the world for men and women of the world. To the general reader it is a strong story of deep human appeal. To those to whom drunkenness is a painful personal problem, it is the scientific and sympathetic revelation of the physical and mental state of the drunkard which makes help for him possible. Probably the most startling and impressive story in any language concerned with the psychology of intemperance. In "When It Was Dark" the author proved his power of holding spellbound a vast company of readers. (Cloth, 12mo., $1.35 net; postpaid, $1.47.)

The Book of Knowledge

The Children's Encyclopedia

Superbly Illustrated with 9,000 Pictures, 350 Magnificent Colored Plates

Simplicity the Secret

It is a great achievement to arrange the important and essential knowledge of the world in such a comprehensive scheme, and tell it in such simple language that the mind of a child might not only grasp it, but enjoy it and remember it. It is this simplicity of style and statement, coupled with sound learning, which is the secret of the success and usefulness of THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, not only to children, but also to adults, especially those who have not had time nor opportunity to complete their training in the schools and colleges, and need to supplement their education.

A Generation Ahead

President John H. Finley of the College of the City of New York, in his introduction, says:

"Suppose a boy of ten were to spend fifteen minutes a day in reading these pages, . . he would at thirteen know more about the earth and the life on it than the wisest men knew a few generations ago."

Wisdom and the Child's Heart

This is the children's age, and all kinds of books are being published for them; good books and bad books, books of manual training and entertainment, selections of best literature, story books, and books so called "children's" which are really written for their elders, but THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the only work which has found wisdom and the child's heart together. This important and original publication has solved a pressing problem in the child's life and has proved a new force in the home and in the school.

The Most Profitable Investment

We expend time and care in selecting the proper food for the growing body, because we realize that it is a profitable investment, but it is equally important and imperative that the growing mind should have the food which will stimulate its rapid and healthy developement, and it is the most profitable investment. Let the children, especially between the ages of five and eighteen, read THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, and study the wonderful educational pictures, and you will be surprised and delighted with the results. It means a saving of time and money, better work in the school and happier children in the home.

Pictures! Wonderful Pictures!

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE will never be surpassed in the value of its educational pictures; pictures of the starry universe, The Sun and His Family of Worlds; pictures of animals, foreign and familiar; pictures of flowers, trees and shrubs; charts and diagrams of our own marvellous bodies; portraits of famous men and women, artists, authors, statesmen and scientists; pictures of our own country and a hundred other countries, showing the cities, the people and their customs; reproductions of beautiful paintings and sculpture; the picture-story of important industries; the whole beautiful, wonderful world is before us in nearly 10,000 pictures, which tell a story or illustrate a fact in a way that can never be forgotten.

The Brooklyn Eagle Says: "Reading the headings of the paragraphs at random, one is struck by their force and their picturesqueness, and no child can ever say that there is a dull moment in the thousands of pages which go to make up the new Children's Encyclopedia."

The Literary Digest Says: "The world's knowledge must thus be said to be epitomized in a clear and popular style. All is illustrated by means of profuse pictures and ingenious charts and diagrams. . . . Many an adult will linger over these pages, fascinated alike by the luminous text and the multitude of illustrations."

The Philadelphia North-American Says: "The half-hundred best juvenile books of all Christendom would scarcely be so useful or so delightful to young people as are these picturesque and comprehensive volumes."

Let the Children Decide

They will be delighted with the beautiful illustrated booklet mailed free, giving the contents of 15 Departments of Knowledge. The valuable pamphlet, "THE MIND OF A CHILD," also presented.

To Theatrical People:

Your training is such that you recognize the dramatic in a book as well as in a play. Even if you only read one book a year, this should be that one.

In your calling you appreciate character drawing—you will find it here. Character without atmosphere is incomplete—you will get atmosphere also. You will live in Paris, and to a certain extent, in its underworld; and when you have finished you will know Paris as you probably never could see it or ever will see it.

That vital quality which makes people laugh and cry and which you call heart interest is here also. You will find something pulling and tugging at your heart strings as you read this book, and Mrs. White will hold you and fascinate you and play with your feelings as a great actor does with his audience.

Again, we repeat, if you only read one book a year, let this be that one. You will remember it as long as you live.

STRIKERS, NEW AND OLD STYLE.

Old-fashioned strikes signified that associated wage earners wanted more money, and that the question of whether or not they ought to get it depended upon whether they ought to have it, or could compel their employers to pay it. The wage is the very last thing men strike for nowadays. Recently most strikes have been for the recognition of the union, on the idea that if unionism were supreme all other good things would fall to labor. This phase has now fallen a little into the background, the very latest fad of these organizations for uplift being the remaking of society and the distribution of prosperity according to their ideas of justice. This was very clear in the recent strike at Lawrence, and not less clear in the coal strike in London.

The hollowness of the demand by the British coal miners for a minimum wage appears from the fact that the employers conceded it if accompanied by a guarantee of a minimum output. The refusal of this reasonable proposal shows that the men want both to fix their own wage and retain the privilege of not earning it. This can be accomplished only by Government ownership and operation, when there is a fund other than profits to be drawn upon. No strike which has for its object the pauperization of proprietors by unloading social duties upon them can succeed upon economic grounds, or ought to succeed. The solution of social problems is a duty belonging to society as a whole, including both capital and labor, and neither side can shirk its share. It is no less the duty of labor to earn its wage than it is the duty of capital not to demand exorbitant profits.

It is worth while to bear this reasoning in mind, because it is equally applicable to the situation which is fast ripening in this country. In both countries the condition of labor has recently been exceptionally good, and labor has been exceptionally discontented. A column would hardly contain the list of laws passed in England in the interest of labor rather than of the British people as a whole. In like manner, our coal miners are demanding better conditions than those which they exacted a decade ago, when a complaisant Executive misemployed the powers of government and secured popular applause at the cost of raising the cost of coal to consumers. The beneficiaries of this bargain want to repeat the experience, but the very most that the consumers will "stand for" is the maintenance of the best conditions the coal miners ever have known, and the hardest for those who pay the price in money.

There is another price which we all pay, strikers and non-strikers alike. Our institutions, like the British, are thrown into the melting pot as the result of labor troubles, which ought to be settled on their economic merits, leaving political differences to be settled otherwise than by trusts whose power is based on the boycott. If such criminal conspiracies against life, liberty, and happiness under the law shall not be broken up, neither England nor the United States can foresee the future of its institutions. This remains true, although the boycott be preached in language worthy of the pulpit, and indeed from the pulpit.

OUSTING THE TAX APPRAISERS.

There is no reasonable excuse for the plan to remove the State Tax Appraisers by the aid of the State Civil Service Commission. It is purely a job of patronage mongering, and the explanations of it make the matter worse. The head-hunters of the Democratic machine simply wish places that they can fill to their own advantage.

The offices, under the rules, can now be filled only by competition. It is true that the men now in were not appointed on competition, but it is not true that they were put in the competitive class after the election of 1910 and before the Democrats took control. That was done nearly a year before on the request of Controller Clark Williams. Nor is it true that this action "protected" the Appraisers from removal. They could be, and can now be, removed at any moment when the Controller has reasons which he is ready to state. The only difference in the situation is that, being in the competitive class, these men cannot be replaced except on competition. The machine cannot put in its favorites at discretion.

To exempt these places from competition, as the State Commission has asked the Governor to do, is a direct and explicit violation of the spirit of the Constitution, which requires that all examinations shall be competitive where practicable. Competition in these instances is perfectly practicable, and the effort of the State Civil Service Commission to evade it is mischievous.

FLAGRANT CRIME.

> Crime is a good deal like fire. The Fire Department has often three big fires in a short period. So it is with the Police Department. A number of sensational crimes come together.—Police Commissioner Waldo before the South Brooklyn Board of Trade.

Mr. Waldo had headed and reorganized the Fire Department before he reorganized the Police Department. He knows whereof he speaks. He states that, notwithstanding the recent taxicab "hold-ups," the complaints of assault and robbery have decreased 26 per cent. during the past four months, as compared with the corresponding four months a year ago; that complaints of burglaries have decreased 30 per cent., complaints of larceny 38 per cent., and, for all classes of crime, 30 per cent. Moreover, during these four months the arrests have equaled 69 per cent. of complaints, as compared with a proportion of 41 per cent. in the corresponding period last year, and the number of complaints of crime has diminished.

These figures seem to show that the recent reforms of police management have not been in vain. The crimes committed by chauffeurs with bad police court records should, nevertheless, be promptly checked. The Callan automobile law does not permit the revocation of a driver's license until he has been thrice convicted of its violation. That is an absurd provision. The occupants of taxicabs and motor cars are at the mercy of their drivers. No driver whose character can be questioned should receive, or be permitted to retain, a license. This law should also be amended by fixing a severe penalty for fleeing after an automobile accident.

WHY DO THEY FEAR THE LIGHT?

Justice Gerard has become involved in a painful tangle of inconsistency by deferring the filing of his order in the Brandt case. "I think it only "proper to hold this order for a reasonable time," he explains, "as a courtesy to the Governor in case he may "see fit to take some action in the "matter"; that is, to give the Governor a chance to pardon Brandt. But Justice Gerard in his decision sustaining the writ of habeas corpus specifically declares that a pardon is not the proper remedy in Brandt's case:

> If Brandt was sentenced because he was involved in a net of verbiage and pleaded guilty to a crime which his examination at the time of his plea showed he did not admit committing, and did not intend to plead guilty to, he should not be left to seek his remedy from Executive clemency alone. He is entitled to a decision of the Court relieving him from the stigma of his mistaken plea.

Now this is the very thing that Judge Gerard did decide, and declare, that the acceptance of Brandt's plea of guilty was an error, that the acts of which he admitted he was guilty did not amount to the crime to which he pleaded guilty, that he was not represented by counsel, and that the prisoner is entitled to a remedy. What is the remedy? Not pardon, Judge Gerard says in the decision that he should have another trial.

> The writ is sustained, and the prisoner remanded to the Tombs subject to an application for bail to await trial under the indictment for burglary in the first degree.

Bail for Brandt has been arranged, it is understood. Therefore, deferring the filing of this order out of "courtesy" to the Governor operates to keep in confinement this unfortunate youth, the story of whose wrongs and sufferings has been so eloquently told by the very persons who are now insisting that the filing of the order must be postponed.

Morally and from the point of view of justice and of common sense, when did Brandt cease to be a convict and become simply a man under indictment? Manifestly it was at the moment when a Justice of the Supreme Court, reviewing the proceeding on a writ of habeas corpus, reached the conclusion that the plea of guilty was improperly received, that the sentence was wrongfully imposed, and when that decision was given to the newspapers for publication. The filing and the entering of an order are routine acts. Judge Hand is right when he says that "the Supreme Court has "reached a conclusion as to Brandt's "status. Technically its conclusion is "not in effect, but the intervention "of a holiday alone prevented its being filed. I can't understand why "such an undignified course should "be pursued that holds up the filing "of the decision." The forming, the writing, and the publishing of the decision are of the substance of the transaction; the filing of the order, though it be a legal necessity, is one of form only.

Mr. Whitman exhibits a strange conception of the duties of his office when he informs Gov. Dix that "if "you desire to exercise clemency I "will ask the Court to withhold order "so that you may do so." How can the Governor exercise clemency? In Brandt's behalf an application for pardon was made. The existence of such an application was denied in the proceeding before Judge Hand the other day, but of course everybody knows that there was an application, and the behavior of the group of persons who support the application shows that it was based on those diabolical lies and innuendoes against a woman's reputation which have played such a large and infamous part in this affair. Gov. Dix denied the application. Later he appointed Judge Hand Commissioner to make a "full investigation" in order that the Governor might determine what other or further action should be taken; that is, he wanted to be apprised of all the facts in order that he might know whether he ought to pardon Brandt. But the Governor has been prevented from getting this full information by the obstructive efforts of the very persons who profess to be trying to right the wrong done to Brandt. No new facts have been put before the Governor since he denied the application for a pardon. How can he pardon Brandt until he gets the information he demanded?

The persistent efforts to get Brandt out of prison without a full disclosure and examination of the basis of his appeal for clemency would indicate that somebody is afraid of the consequences of a full disclosure. What are the grounds of their fears? Do they quake inwardly with dread lest a thorough investigation should expose the utter baselessness of the theory upon which they have acted in their effort in Brandt's behalf? Is it because they know that they will be put in a most disagreeable position before the community if it should be shown that in making their appeals on grounds of charity and humanity for this poor, defenseless foreign youth, with a record of thefts and assault with intent to kill, they have been the instruments of disseminating outrageous slanders against a woman's reputation, and then of working with all their might, and thus far with entire success, to keep off the record the testimony and the facts that would show these rumors and innuendoes to be wanton lies? Whatever they may be afraid of, and in whatever predicament a full inquiry would leave them, Gov. Dix has a plain duty to perform, and it is most gratifying to know that he intends to perform it. His attitude from the beginning has been just, right, and altogether commendable. The community looks to him to take the steps necessary to make the facts known to the public, and to get justice done, justice not only to Brandt but to other persons who thus far have been left in a position even more defenseless than that of Brandt.

THE SIMPLE BALLOT.

If the Legislature do nothing else to satisfy the needs of the people of the State, we trust it will pass the Dana resolution for the amendment of the Constitution simplifying elections. It gives power to the Governor to appoint the Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, Attorney General, and State Engineer and Surveyor.

These offices are now filled at the general election. They cannot be said to be in any true sense elective, for there is practically no choice exercised in voting for them. We venture to say that not one in a thousand of the voters can name all five of these officers. The number who could say that on the day after election would be very small. But nearly every one could name the Governor, and would be perfectly content to have him appoint these officers, as the President appoints like officers for the Federal Government. Such an amendment to the Constitution would be the beginning of a real control of their affairs by the people.

THE RACE-TRACK BILLS.

Assemblyman Cuvillier has introduced the bills defining bookmaking and repealing the law that holds directors responsible for betting at the tracks, which Senator Gittins tried to jam through at the last session. Mr. Cuvillier says that he favors the bills because Commissioner Huson of the Department of Agriculture would encourage farmers to raise horses for the United States Cavalry Service, and the falling off in the supply of horses is due to "putting the race tracks out of business."

Does Mr. Cuvillier mean that? If there is a demand for the better breeds of horses, and if the United States Government is willing to pay good, hard cash for its remounts, is not that enough to stimulate a supply? Mr. Cuvillier's professions are patriotic; his economic reasoning is faulty.

THE ITALIAN WAR SPIRIT.

From across the ocean the fiery excitement of the Italian people over the "war" in Tripoli seems very extravagant. Very likely some of the demonstrations of our own people during the Spanish war seemed even more so to cool and distant observers. In both cases the emotion may fairly be called savage in the sense that people are savages in the ratio that they are not civilized.

Italy had some reason for wanting to fight Turkey. The Italians in Turkish dominions have been badly treated, and so frequently and generally as to show a settled tendency toward hostility, if not a definite purpose. Italy would have been quite justified, as such things go, in demanding apology, reform, and indemnity, and in enforcing the demand by arms. But the Italian Government did not do this. It undertook the seizure of Tripoli with cynical ignoring of any reasons except its desire to extend its territory and increase its trade. It seems a wild undertaking which can yield no advantage that will begin to offset the enormous cost.

The war, in the words of one of the Italian correspondents, is "a nasty job." The natives are barbarous and cruel and treacherous. They torture and mutilate the wounded and fire on ambulances, and generally defy the restraining rules of modern warfare. These things provoke reprisals, and the testimony of British press correspondents, not prejudiced against the Italians, has seriously injured Italian prestige. So the furious struggle goes on, and no one can see the end. Even if Turkey surrenders her always limited control of the Tripolitana, the struggle will not close. Italy will still have to conquer, pacify, rule, and administer the country and its restless and warlike inhabitants, whom she has angered before her task is begun. She will have not only to safeguard her own garrisons and colonies, but to become responsible for order and for the safety of other foreigners. Meanwhile she has gone far to paralyze her influence in European affairs by assuming a task for which her utmost military and naval resources may prove inadequate.

Over this apparently hopeless and certainly very dangerous and immensely costly enterprise the Italian patriots are shouting in frenzy. It is the war spirit, and nothing else. A lady writes to The London Spectator that she heard a little peasant girl say to her lover, just ordered to the front, as she embraced him: "Kill me a Turk for every kiss." But how many brave fellows, urged in this way, will return to report their fulfillment of the terrible commission?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Leniency Not Always Advantageous.

There is, perhaps, cause for reflection on the relation of justice to mercy, and on the dangers incidental to sacrificing the one to the other, in the very obvious fact that if the Philadelphia doctor whom Brandt, away back in 1905, robbed of money and clothing had not withdrawn his complaint and let the thief go free the chances are that there would never have been a "Brandt case" in the sense that phrase now has. And that, from every point of view, would have been highly desirable.

The motive for withdrawing the complaint seems, as usual, to have been mixed. On the one hand, the doctor had, as he supposed at the time, recovered most of the property taken; on the other, the offender was very young and made a more or less moving plea for leniency, accompanied by more or less convincing promises to reform. In the circumstances, and because conviction and imprisonment probably meant the creation of another professional criminal, it is no wonder that appreciation of the civic duty to let the law take its course gave way to the moral obligation of one human being to give another who had erred an opportunity to become a good and honest citizen.

Few would have been stern enough to press the charge, and fewer still could have done it without long-enduring regrets. The Philadelphia doctor acted exactly as most decently merciful people would have acted, and Brandt was turned loose on an unwarned world to—well, to make dreadful troubles for himself and for others, and to get himself into a position from which, by no possibility, can he escape with a shred of reputation for honesty or any other virtue.

The question whether to be just or to be merciful is constantly arising in both social and business life, and the finding of an answer to it in any given instance is made the more difficult because one can never be quite sure that justice will be just or mercy merciful. The two have a confusing habit of coming together by insensible gradations, and only too often the heaviest part of punishment intended for the guilty falls upon the innocent. Not less frequently, to pardon the guilty brings loss or suffering on the innocent. In each case there has to be a balancing of arguments, and no matter how carefully that is done there is always the chance of doing the wrong, the inexpedient, thing.

A Problem That Is a Problem.

No small part of the American public, not long ago, was betrayed into revealing how ludicrously slight is its knowledge of elementary mathematics by a cynical somebody who propounded an absurdly simple problem involving the age of a supposititious Ann. For a while the newspapers all over the country were overwhelmed with letters from people who were evidently proud of finding an answer to a "sum" that any little girl of ten should have been able to "work" in a minute and a half. Now an arithmetical problem that really is just a bit puzzling is offered by The Scientific American. It will stump everybody who exulted over the discovery of Ann's precious secret, but others may have a little innocent fun in figuring it out—with algebra barred, remember.

These are the premises whence the conclusion must be drawn:

> Five men and a monkey worked all day gathering cocoanuts and at night lay down beside them, postponing an equitable division till next day. Wakening after an hour or so, and distrusting his companions, the first man, A, divided the nuts into five equal parts, and, after giving the monkey an odd nut that was left over from the division, took one of the parts away and hid it. Then he returned, put the remaining parts together, lay down beside the other men and went to sleep again. Soon the second man, B, did the same thing, and after him C, D, and E, in turn, each of them finding and giving the monkey one odd nut. When morning came the five men divided the nuts that were left, and that time there was no odd one for the monkey. How many nuts were there in the beginning?

As a story of adventure, this can hardly be called plausible, and as a problem it is unsatisfactory in that the first, or smallest, obtainable answer is not the only one that would satisfy the conditions, but before any little girl of ten finds any answer at all she will gnaw off several inches of pencil, and even really and truly Wise Ones may have to tap their bulging foreheads more than once or twice before they scornfully say, "That's easy!"

Our own opinion is that there ought to be a law against solving problems like this one by arithmetic, but there are others who think it a profitable exercise, and who are we that we should call them wrong?

Americans Again Explained.

A journal no less grave and authoritative than The London Lancet, presumably as the result of that deep and prolonged investigation always given by foreigners to things American before pronouncing an opinion on them, declares that gum chewing is popular in this country, partly because of our National nervousness and partly on account of the great dryness of our atmosphere.

Coming whence it does, of course this explanation must be accepted as true. Had it another source one would have been inclined to ask, (a) Is gum chewing popular in the United States? (b) Have we a National nervousness? and (c) Can our atmosphere be considered notably dry except as compared with that of England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales?

A good many Americans do chew gum—there's no denying that, but the practice is so generally reprehended here as uncouth and vulgar that to call it "popular" seems to put even that elastic word under somewhat cruel tension. And nervous? Why, Mr. Shuster says that if anybody says "Germany!" on the Strand everybody within hearing of the sound jumps and turns pale. We, now, are not as nervous as all that.

Remains our dry air. There is something in that, especially out in Arizona and thereabout, but most of us are subjected to no more of desiccation than are a majority of the world's inhabitants, and to much less of it than are not a few hundred millions of them who, so far as known, do not chew gum.

This, however, is beginning to sound like expressing doubt as to statements made by The London Lancet, and that would never do. The Lancet is right—it must be, always.

A "STRONG MAN'S" CAREER.

Count von Aehrenthal Is Judged by the Seizure of Servian Provinces.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the recent death of Count von Aehrenthal, Austrian Minister of Foreign Affairs, the cable from Vienna informs us that Austria has lost one of her best statesmen, who has been regarded as a "strong man" of the Metternich type, whose methods of governing people without their consent were not unlike his and those of many other "strong men" the world has seen and felt from Napoleon, Bismarck, and Roosevelt. Certainly if "strong man" is defined as one who reaches his goal in utter disregard of human rights, then Count von Aehrenthal belonged to that class of strong men.

Did he not crush the national life of millions of Serbs, whose work and ambition was to have a united nation of their own, by brushing aside all their hopes of national existence in annexing (stealing) Bosnia and Herzegovina, the flower provinces of the Serbs? The accomplishment of this great wrong to the world, and the Serb nation in particular, was made only possible because of the disaster to the Russian arms in Manchuria and Port Arthur.

The "strong man" saw and seized the opportunity to deal a crushing blow to the Serb nation, and neither public opinion nor the protest and threats of all the Slavonic world was allowed to stand in the way—his coup d'etat was accomplished and the hated Austrian-Hungarian flag was hoisted in Bosnia and Herzegovina—there to remain, govern, and rule a people against their will. That is Austrian government, and has been ever since the advent of the present dynasty.

Schwartz the Toy Man.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article, entitled "Not Obscure, but Not Well Known," classified Frederick A. O. Schwartz as one of the lately deceased millionaires "that a large majority in this city had never heard of."

The mothers and fathers and boys and girls of not only Greater New York, but Philadelphia, Baltimore, and thousands of smaller places, can tell you that no one in America has so personified Santa Claus as the genial German toy man, who introduced more Christmas toys from the wonderlands of the Hartz Mountains and the shops of Nuremberg to the nurseries of America than any other living person. The million that Frederick Schwartz left represents more joy given to children and more real pleasure to jaded brains than the locked-up spoils of other millionaires, who simply juggled prices or squeezed a public franchise.

Your point is well taken. Modern millionaires are not well-known men; but you failed to consult the boys and girls of America when you included in your list "Schwartz, the toy man."

The Laboring Man's Profit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have become a convert to the doctrine that the laborer should have all the profit of his labor, as it has been proclaimed at Lawrence by the eminent economists, Ettor and Giovanitti. Some practical questions of administration remain to be solved by the new light of the world, but, of course, a brief moment's attention by the aforesaid gentlemen will settle them.

What will car conductors do with nickels hereafter? Will they be expected to "divvy up" with motormen? Who will hold on to the cent that buys a Times—will it be the immediate newsman or the driver of the wagon that brings it to him or the loaders who put it in the wagon? What chance, if any, will the printing staff have for some? Are the editors and reporters to have any of it, seeing that they do no real, i. e., manual labor in connection with it?

The beneficent principle is the greatest thing that ever came to this earth, and we hope Messrs. Ettor & Co. will be able to satisfy the conductors and newspaper folk among the first.

Four Contestants of Authorship.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

During the two weeks in which my little sketch, "In 1999," has been playing, I have received vivid and fervent communications from four different ladies, each of whom claims to be the original author of the sketch, and that I have calmly appropriated her ideas.

As this is an average of two authors per week who claim the work, and as the little play's success makes it probable that the average will not fall below that number in the future, I ask you to extend me the courtesy of your columns that I may make the following suggestion publicly:

I suggest that all those who claim to have originated the idea of my work get together and incorporate. They can then proceed against me through their organization, and I will be able to answer them en masse, thus saving useless and annoying repetition.

The Call for Battleships.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The extreme and insistent efforts made by the Navy Department to impose upon Congress a policy nurtured by the department to increase to almost any length the number of battleships of the navy are not to be commended. It is for Congress to decide, and the hysterical efforts of Secretary of the Navy Meyer to dictate to that body and force upon it his own personal views are distasteful.

A year or two ago it was eight, four, or any number of battleships that Congress could be cajoled into authorizing. Now it is down to two or even one! No matter what Congress may do, Secretary Meyer, like Oliver Twist, will cry for "more."

GERRARD WILL HELD UP.

Relatives Object to Bequests Made to Charitable Institutions.

Surrogate Cohalan refused yesterday to admit to probate the will of Thomas William Gerrard, under which $3,000 was left to the Bowery Mission, $2,000 to the Mont Lawn Summer Retreat for Children at Nyack, and $500 to the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Other beneficiaries under the will were Mrs. Mary Grier of 3,229 Turner Street, Philadelphia, and Mary Jane Hacket of 122 West 122d Street, who were left $300 each, and Mrs. William E. Gerrard of Newark, N. J., who was left $250.

The will left by Mr. Gerrard, who died on Jan. 22, 1911, was one of the most peculiar documents ever offered for probate in this county. It was written on three sheets of paper, one of which was a will blank such as may be purchased from any stationer. The beginning and the end of the will was on this sheet of paper. There was not room enough on it, however, to contain all of Mr. Gerrard's ideas, which he put on the other two sheets. The proponents of the will tried to get around the legal situation presented by Mr. Gerrard's economical method of drawing his will by offering only the portion on the printed will blank for probate.

Surrogate Cohalan said that this expedient while ingenious would not avail, and that the will would have to be taken as a whole. So taken, he ruled, its technical defects presented an effective bar to its probate.

The next of kin who will profit by the breaking of the will are a nephew and two nieces of Kilnaleck, Cavan County, Ireland; William G. Wilton, Martha Smith, and Sarah Cowan; two nieces of Waterbury, Conn.; Fanny W. Almond and Mary G. Atkinson; a grandnephew, James C. Hamilton of Union City, Conn.; a great-grandnephew, William Hamilton of Waterbury, and Flora Callendar, a great-grandniece, of Waterbury.

THE RECALL OF JUDGES.

Dr. Rusby States a Case of Wrong, and Asks a Remedy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that your reference to the relations of the courts to the Constitution, in Thursday's editorial, "No Longer a Republican," ignores the most important part of the question at issue. You say "When a court, after full deliberation and with understanding of the law and of constitutional restraints, has declared an act to be unconstitutional," &c. Now, the people's side in this controversy might be fairly well stated by adding to the above the words "knowing that it is not so." In a fair statement of the case, I think, you should present the people's view, even though it be a wrong one.

The feeling among all classes whom I meet, not excepting the favored interests themselves, when one is so fortunate as to get down to their real views, is that the courts are increasingly partisan; that they are gradually becoming the creatures of the moneyed interests, and responsible to them, rather than to truth and justice, or even to law; that it may easily happen that the courts, being confronted by an unconstitutional act that seems necessary to protect the large interests in a course of injustice, will declare that act constitutional, with "full knowledge" that it is not so. It is this kind of decision that, it is held, should be subject to a "reversal by the people's vote."

To you this view may seem impossible, but I am quite sure that the origin of most of the great political catastrophes of history can be traced to corruption of the judiciary; and they have had to be corrected by armed revolution. Why should history not again repeat itself, unless we can devise some bloodless method of correction? Do you not believe that a majority of the people are determined that the present practices of government, which they believe subversive of their rights—constitutional rights—shall be brought to an end? Do you not believe that they are surely going to end them in the early future, and that the wisest course is to seek out the best method of doing so, rather than to strive to maintain the dominant influences which have caused the evil, and which are continually increasing it?

I should like to add a reference to a single case which will illustrate my meaning. Not long ago, a Judge, in a neighboring city, himself having important interests in the financial system that controls that city, forbade the Grand Jury to take up the question of indicting the membership of that system. When the jury persisted in the performance of its duty, its members were secretly approached and informed that the financial support of the banks would be withdrawn from the business concerns which they respectively represented, unless they desisted. Now, the people assume that this Judge secured his appointment through the influence of the interests concerned and for the express purpose of securing such action from him, when the occasion arose. If my statement of fact is correct, is a remedy not needed? And what remedy do you propose?

H. H. RUSBY.

The "Nurses' Trust."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The desire among some of the nurses of the city to raise the rates for nursing in its various forms, as stated by you, is in the main correct, but I feel that the article gives to the public a wrong conception of the conditions. The reason given, the high cost of living, is a serious one. It is a necessity that we meet our expenses and also make provision for the day when our earning powers cease, and that comes unusually early in the life of a nurse doing private duty. Many, many nurses have reduced their charges when seeing the necessity, as many a family can testify. We are not accustomed, however, to speak of it, nor does it get into the newspapers.

Nurses have bad bills, too. In these cases it means all their time, day and night, has gone, and their strength as well. We are not grasping for the pennies, but even if our vocation is nursing the sick, we must live and we must pay our bills. Our charges are often compared with those of the physician, and it is argued that he frequently attends charity cases. He most certainly does, but it is a half hour call a day in which he makes from a dozen to twenty other calls for which he is paid. He, too, has the privilege, which he uses, of charging the wealthy much higher than his usual rates. We are unable to do this; the loser is the nurse.

Times Wireless News from Europe.

From The London Star.

The New York Times is now relying wholly upon wireless telegraphy for the transmission of its European news, says a Central News New York message.

London is the collecting centre for the whole of its special European information, and its London correspondents dispatch their messages to Clifden, Ireland, whence they are transmitted, via Glace Bay, to New York.

TO-DAY.

Wait not to-morrow's sun before you do
Some friendly deed, guised all in tenderness.
Speak but a word or offer a caress
Which, from its grief, a lonely heart may woo
And thrill with sunshine. Is there chance to-day
To offer succor, speak a passing word,
That shows the depths to which your heart is stirred?
Improve it quickly, lest the circumstance
Leave one more blemish on your struggling soul—
For which, some day, your own grief shall pay toll
In unshared sorrow, scanty sympathy—
A cold world's sneer upon your misery.

WIDEN ART MUSEUM OR PACK PICTURES

Director Robinson Makes Direct Plea to Citizens for Enlargement of Buildings.

MORGAN WORKS AT STAKE

Corporation Has Ample Funds to Buy Desirable Articles, but No Place to Store Them.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, with more money than it ever had to invest in art treasures, and less room to show them in, once they have been acquired, has reached a point, according to Edward Robinson, its director, where the art riches of the people must either be packed in bulging storerooms, or the Museum must cease its work of making collections, or—this is the way Mr. Robinson hopes the people will choose—more room in the shape of a new addition to the main building will be immediately provided.

The new building can be erected only through the action of the Board of Estimate. Bequests to the Museum do not come with permission to use them in erecting buildings, but for the purpose of purchasing art treasures to be housed in buildings provided by the City Government.

The new wing it is wished to erect will join the Museum's present Fifth Avenue frontage on the south. A wing it will match exactly as to the character of the material used and the architecture, is just approaching completion on the north.

To obtain funds wherewith to provide the additional galleries a request has been made on the Board of Estimate for $750,000 to be made available immediately.

Mr. Morgan's Treasures.

If the funds are furnished as asked, the Museum can provide room for the housing of the collections of J. Pierpont Morgan, which are to be brought here from the Victoria and Albert Museums and Mr. Morgan's London home. If no funds are furnished then the collection will have to remain in the packing boxes when it comes here, or else art treasures at present in the Museum will have to go into the packing boxes to yield space they occupy to the new groups.

It has been suggested that the gift of $1,000,000 made unconditionally by Francis L. Leland could be applied to the building fund and could go into the erection of a building to care for the Morgan treasures.

"Unfortunately this is not the case," said Director Robinson yesterday, "the invariable rule is that the public makes houses for the collection; the people, through the city Government, furnish the shelter for them."

Mr. Robinson then explained that the Museum is in an entirely unique position so far as its own history goes, and without a parallel, he believes, in the history of any other museum. This unique situation, he said, grows out of the fact that the Museum is embarrassed with buying power, or cash on hand, and is completely up to its capacity in hanging and displaying space, although a new addition, known as Addition H, is just approaching completion.

"They have given so liberally of late," Mr. Robinson said, "that every inch of space is taken up.

"The new addition? Why, its space has been spoken for twice over. It is a long time since we added a single thing to the museum's treasures without taking something down and putting it into storage.

"We are facing a choice of packing boxes for our riches, or else a new building. Now, it is not that way in Europe. There the Governments have to furnish not only the galleries, but the paintings and sculpture housed inside of them.

"The tendency to give to the people treasures of art is a tendency native to America.

"Within a year or two we have had many notable gifts, and we have a larger buying power at this moment than our Trustees dreamed, a few years ago, that we should ever attain.

"As to Mr. Leland's gift, we cannot use it to provide galleries, as our status here is merely that of a tenant of the city. What we shall do with the unconditional gift we shall not know until our board considers the matter on the third Monday in April. The gift came as a complete surprise, was unsolicited, and Mr. Leland's name does not have to be attached to the fund to which it is applied.

"If we were assured of the new additions—to be known as J. and K.—skipping the letter I, because of its similarity to the figure 1, then we would know what best to purchase with this fund.

Mr. Morgan Knows of Plans.

"'Addition H' was planned before we learned of Mr. Morgan's wish to have his collections now in Europe moved to this country. He is aware of the plan to import the new additions and of the fact that if his collections should be placed in the present addition they will crowd out other exhibits which it had been arranged to take out of storage."

From officials of the Park Department, through whom the request for an appropriation of $750,000 has been forwarded, it was learned that the proposed additions to the Art Museum will necessitate a change in the Park entrance at Seventy-ninth Street. It is not considered probable that objection will be raised to altering the East Driveway to provide the space required.

RELIGION MOVEMENT PLANS.

Campaign Begins Monday and Will Continue Till the April Convention.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement of New York has completed plans for its dates and speakers. Its campaign is to begin at once and continue until the Conservation Convention in April, which is the National culmination of the movement.

Next Monday night, in the Mott Haven Reformed Church, President Finley of City College is to preside at a meeting at which the Rev. Dr. W. H. Foulkes will speak. On Tuesday evening, in the Manhattan Congregational Church, Broadway and Seventy-sixth Street, Prof. Hamlin of Columbia will preside, and Bishop Courtney will speak.

Next Thursday evening there are to be three speakers at as many meetings. These will be the Rev. A. J. Smith at the East Side Y. M. C. A.; the Rev. Dr. Henry S. Coffin at the Harlem Collegiate Church, and the Rev. N. M. Pratt at Olin Methodist Church, Williamsbridge.

The Social Service organizations are to have eight lectures on the Wednesdays and Fridays during March in Earl Hall of Columbia, at which the child, the laboring man, the settlement, the poor, and how the churches may help to solve some of their problems will be discussed. Prof. Devine, the Rev. Dr. Stires, Mornay Williams, the Rev. Dr. A. G. Cummins, and the Rev. H. E. Fosdick will be among the speakers.

The movement has decided to hold mass meetings at Carnegie Hall and the Hippodrome on April 2 and 14, respectively. On April 14 there will also be a mass meeting in the Bronx. On March 14 there is to be a dinner at the Broadway Tabernacle Hall, and on the following Sunday afternoon a mass meeting in the Tabernacle itself, to be addressed by the campaign leader, Fred B. Smith.

Features of the convention are to be institutes, where practical instruction is to be given in five lines of effort. These are evangelism, missions, social service, boys, and Bible study. The dates for these are April 15 to 19.

Gifts Through The Times.

The New York Times acknowledges the receipt of $5 from "J. C." for the Chinese Famine Fund and $1 from "B. N." for a tuberculous couple, for whom the Charity Organization Society appealed.

BERMUDA SEASON IS AT ITS HEIGHT

All the Hotels Are Crowded with Lenten Visitors from the North.

LOTS OF OUTDOOR SPORTS

Gov. Kitchener Gives Dinner at Government House in Honor of Ex-Assistant Secretary of Navy Newberry.

Special Correspondence THE NEW YORK TIMES

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 18.—The Bermuda season is now in full swing, all three of the liners from New York last week bringing large crowds. The beginning of the lenten season and the severe Winter in the North have resulted in an unusual demand for reservations, and consequently all the hotels are taxed to their capacity. Already the Hamilton and the Princess are having to make use of nearby cottages in order to take care of those who have not made reservations in advance. On Sunday the Moltke also put into port on her way to New York, having just finished a tour of the West Indies, and quite a number of her passengers disembarked here to spend the balance of the Winter in Bermuda. Among those arriving at the Hamilton from off the Moltke are Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Page, Miss Agnes L. Riley, and Dr. E. R. Park, all of Germantown, Penn.; Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter, Miss Idella L. Gribbel, and Miss Ida E. Wood, also of Philadelphia. Others from the Moltke include Mr and Mrs. Joseph L. Somers of Mendham, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Fassett and Miss Jennie Fassett of Elmira, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Walken and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Puffer of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bonny of San Francisco.

The arrival of the younger set, who are now willing to leave the social centres of the North on account of the advent of Lent, has resulted in an increased activity in the outdoor sports. Tennis, golf, sailing, riding, swimming, and bicycling are all popular. The courts of the Hamilton and Princess are in constant demand, while the excellent new dirt courts of the Belmont, which are the only dirt courts on the island, will be a welcome addition to those fond of tennis.

An interesting yacht race was held on Thursday for a prize offered by C. V. Meserole of Englewood, N. J., the only condition attached to the entry being that all boats must be sailed by amateurs. The starter and official handicapper was John Hyslop, who is well known as the official handicapper for many years of the New York Yacht Club. The race was won by the Dainty by the close margin of thirty-eight seconds over the Dauntless. The boats entered, with their skippers, were: Dainty, C. V. Meserole, Englewood, N. J.; Dauntless, S. B. Dennistoun, Winnipeg; Zena, William C. Denny, Washington, D. C.; Maya, A. G. Hupfel, New York, and Devon, S. B. Duncan, Toronto.

Baron George Glaenzer of New York gave an attractive dinner on the night of the military band concert at the Hamilton last week in honor of the writer, Owen Johnson, and his bride. The dinner was held in one of the private rooms in the new Hamilton Grill, and each guest received a souvenir, the ladies being presented with carved calabash baskets filled with flowers. The guests included Mrs. J. Ledlie Hees, E. S. Van Tassel, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Randall, all of New York, and Miss Penet of Paris, France.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Frederick Walter Kitchener, entertained at dinner on Saturday last at the Government House in honor of Truman H. Newberry, ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Mrs. Newberry.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell of Boston entertained at the Princess Grill on Thursday last, covers being laid for twelve. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Truman H. Newberry and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Denny of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Bradlee and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Curtis of Boston, Mrs. Frederick Brooks, and Frank D. Woodruff of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brooks of New York gave a luncheon on Wednesday last at Rosedale Gardens, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. John S. Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Truman H. Newberry, and Miss Carol B. Newberry of Washington, D. C., and George Singer of Pittsburgh.

On last Monday there were several large dinners given at the Hamilton previous to the concert on the terrace by the Band of his Majesty's Second Battery, the Queen's Regiment of West Surrey. Mrs. Stillman W. Eells gave one of sixteen covers in honor of Miss Carol B. Newberry of Washington, D. C., the guests being Mr. and Mrs. John A. McVickar, Miss Henrietta Norton, and Freeman Smith of New York; Mrs. Franklin Douglas of Cleveland, Miss Edna Waterman of Minneapolis, Miss Lydia Loring of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lutz of Paris, France; Mr. Gillette of Chicago, Capt. Aylene and Lieuts. Esdale and Hamilton of the Queens'. Mrs. Thomas Davies Wood of Bryn Mawr gave a dinner of eight covers in the Hamilton Grill for her daughter, Miss Lilian Wayland Wood, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. Guy Scott-Dahlgleish, E. S. Van Tassel, and B. Mayhew of New York; Miss Ruby Sewall of Kansas City, and J. B. Lippincott of Philadelphia.

The Isle of White is now one of the most attractive spots in Bermuda for afternoon teas, the visitors enjoying a stroll around the island and an inspection of the Tent City, which is rapidly nearing completion. There are about twenty tents ready for occupancy.

Among the recent arrivals at the Hamilton are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes of New York. Other New Yorkers at the Hamilton include Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parr, Mr. and Mrs. John A. McVickar, and S. A. Norris. Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. McCrerry, Mrs. John H. Mathews, and Miss Natalie Mathews, William Sheehan, E. T. M. Laughlin, S. K. Reed, J. Morris, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Rowley, Miss Mabel Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. David Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Huppel, Miss Ruth Huppel, Mr. and Mrs. George N. Webster, Fritz von Bermuth, Jr., Miss C. de F. Orr, Miss Dickinson, Mrs. Arthur F. Randal, Mrs. E. S. Williams of Orange, N. J.; Walter S. Poor of Morristown, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Mattison and Miss Mattison of Englewood, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Charles English of Beverly, N. J.

Recent arrivals at the Princess from New York include many who will be here for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholl Floyd, Jr., Miss Floyd, and Miss Van Courtlandt, Mrs. Gustav Kissel, Miss Louis Kissel, and Miss Schieffelin, Mr. and Mrs. George Fahys, Lowell H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. Schuyler, Col. H. J. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William Cummings, Mrs. Henry I. Judson, Miss Helen Judson, Mrs. C. F. Frothingham, Mrs. E. M. C. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Allen of South Orange; Spencer Goodwin of Hartford, Mr and Mrs. Herbert Barber, the Misses Barber, and Mrs. A. B. Childs of Englewood, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Newell. The following Brooklynites are staying at the Princess: Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Robinson, Miss H. L. Robinson, Mrs. G. W. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Wild, and Miss Wild, Mrs. George S. Coleman, and Miss Gertrude Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Steinbrugge are spending the Winter with the former's mother, Mrs. Steinbrugge, at her residence, 30 Avenue Kleber, Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parkin Gilford (Miss Lentilhon,) who returned from abroad six weeks ago, have a house at Lakewood for the Winter.

Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt, who has been visiting Mrs. Preston Gibson in Washington, has returned to town.

DANCE FOR MISSES WILSON.

Mrs. Horace Brightman Entertains at Home for Her Nieces.

Mrs. Horace Brightman entertained last evening with a small dance for her nieces, the Misses Bess and Grace Wilson, daughters of Richard Wilson of Lexington, Ky., who mill make their début next Winter, the guests being chiefly young girls not yet out.

The house was decorated with pink and white flowers and palms and ferns, and the two young girls received with Mrs. Brightman.

A buffet supper was served at midnight. The dancing was general, beginning quite early and ending early.

The guests asked included the Misses Hope Hamilton, Eulalia Garrison, Yvonne Chauveau, Betty and Adèle Lloyd, Viola McDougall, Marguerite Deane, Grovine Converse, Gertrude Foos, Marion Barkman, Helen Morgan, Edith Sutro, Helen D. Nelson, Jean Stewart, and Ernestine and Ruth Rhein.

Concert To-night for Hospital.

Among the artists who have given their services to the concert to-night for and at the Skin and Cancer Hospital are Miss Hariet Cady, Kurt Schindler, and Blatchford Kavanaugh; also the Misses Elbet Pettit, Louise Lincoln, and Helen Hersey. Miss Flora MacDonald will be at the piano.

Miss Morton Bride of J. W. Gardiner.

The marriage is announced of Miss Mary Elida Morton, daughter of Mrs. John Morton of Croton, N. Y., to James Dawes Gardiner of this city, which took place at Ossining on Feb. 21. The bride's father, who died about five years ago, made a fortune in the manufacture of brick at Croton. Mr. Gardiner is a brother of Dr. William F. Gardiner of 235 West Seventy-fifth Street, and of Alfred P. Gardiner of Croton. The couple have leased The Elms from the Morton estate, and will be at home to their friends after June 1.

TAIT—STRINGER.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Eloise Tait, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tait of Bridgeport, Conn., to G. Franklin Stringer, Jr., of Brooklyn. Mr. Stringer is a member of the Crescent Athletic Club. No date has been set for the wedding.

HOW TO PICK A WIFE.

Fifth Av. Baptist Bible Class Continues Its Study of This Problem.

The Young Men's Bible Class of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church continued last evening the discussion, under the leadership of Orrin G. Cocks, of the "facts necessary to be known about engagement and marriage." The remarks by the leader were supplemented by a very general contribution from the floor of the vestry room, where a hundred or more men, young and old, had gathered for the meeting. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was one of those who joined in from time to time from his point of vantage in the front row.

Speaking of the question, "What kind of a girl should a sensible man seek for his wife—physically, mentally, socially?" Mr. Cocks recommended choosing a social equal rather than reaching out to a pretty face in the rank either below or above the chooser, and he advised a consideration of the mental equipment of the golden girl.

"It is dangerous to marry a girl who goes to sleep at a lecture or one who does not enjoy reading, serious plays, grand opera, or the Philharmonic," said Mr. Cocks.

One speaker from the audience was strongly convinced of the value of training in character reading as part of the equipment of the man or the woman who is seeking a mate. In answer to a question from another in the audience this man explained that he had picked his own wife out of a parlor gathering where he was giving character readings, when he had the opportunity of studying her head and posture and of approving what he saw.

Mr. Cocks said that the colleges for women were doing much to dissipate the ignorance on important matters which provided so many pitfalls, but he was inclined to agree with Mr. Rockefeller in urging the young man to sit at the feet of the family physician and learn. Another expressed the fear that doctors, not quacks, but accepted family physicians, sometimes gave the worst advice.

The discussion will be continued next Friday evening, beginning with the question, "What are the real purposes of marriage?"

WIFE OPENS COURT FIGHT.

Mrs. Augusta Kaufman Demands More Than $1,200 Yearly Support.

On the charge that she had been forced to sign a separation agreement whereby her husband was to give her $1,200 in 1910, Mrs. Anne Kaufman applied yesterday in the Supreme Court for more money and for a new adjustment.

According to the complaint, Mrs. Kaufman was separated from her husband about three months after their wedding in 1910 because of so-called repeated abuse and threats. It was alleged further that on Aug. 19, 1910, her husband forced her to sign a paper without permitting her to read it. Mrs. Kaufman learned later that she had inadvertently agreed to make no further demands upon him after the receipt of the $1,200 which he gave her at the time.

Now Mrs. Kaufman declares that she is without support, and that her husband has refused repeatedly to give her money for food and clothing. The complaint alleges that Kaufman, who is a business man in Troy, is worth $100,000.

A 15-CENT LUNCHEON.

Chicago Church Women Serve One of Several Courses.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—A luncheon at 15 cents a plate was served to-day at the Immanuel Baptist Church by women of the congregation as a protest against high restaurant prices. The menu and the prices of the courses were:

Bouillon, 1 cent; roast lamb, 3½ cents; potatoes and brown gravy, 1½ cents; mashed turnips, ½ cent; pickels, 1 cent; baked apple and whipped cream, 4 cents; coffee and rolls, 2½ cents, and butterine, 1 cent, the entire cost of the meal totaling 15 cents.

The luncheon was prepared in the church kitchen, and about 300 women partook of it.

SOCIETY WOMEN IN FOLK DANCES

Mrs. Rhinelander, Mrs. Spencer, and Mrs. Phipps Appear in Quaint Swedish Costumes.

IN THE FJALLNASPOLSKA

Girls and Boys Give Danish Dances, with Swings and Jumps—The Italian Tarantella.

A series of folk-dances were given yesterday afternoon at the Waldorf-Astoria in aid of the Girls' Branch of the Public Schools Athletic League, and many well-known society women and girls took part in the entertainment. The music was furnished by an orchestra composed of thirty members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Gustav Strube.

The large ballroom at the hotel was crowded, all of the boxes being taken. The dances, which were given under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burchenal, were held on a large stage erected at the south end of the ballroom, which gave plenty of room for the exercise which the folk-dance affords. The rear of the stage was draped with flags of many countries.

Among those who danced in costume were Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Jr., Mrs. Frank Phipps, Mrs. James H. Kidder, Mrs. Charles Van Rensselaer, and the Misses Angelica Brown, Edith Morgan, Nathalie Kelley, Lucy Brown, and Juliana Cutting.

The first of the folk-dances showed an English Maypole dance, in which appeared the Misses Gladys Storey, Antoinette Butler, Helen Ford, Grace Kerr, Marjorie Prentiss, Helen, Marjorie, and Elise Stutzer, and Katherine Williams.

Next came the Morris dance, a traditional dance of England, in which Lauren Carroll, Lindell Bates, Harry Dodge, Bache Brown, Daniel Lawton, and Rudolph Roessler took part. In the Irish reel the Misses Emily O'Keefe, Dora Brown, Mary Sheehan, and Mrs. Andres Oye appeared. In the Scotch reel were Mrs. Louis Irving, Mrs. Clarence Wycoff, the Misses Douglas, Bosworth, and Nathalie Kelley, and William Cameron, the latter playing the bagpipe.

The Italian tarantella was danced by Mrs. William G. Williams and the Misses Amy Hutton, Adeline Carreau, Jeannette Davenport, Pauline Dickinson, Kate Hutton, Rosa Morgan, and Eveline Weekes.

In the Danish dances were the Misses Elizabeth and Ruth Burchenal, Knud Bay, F. Anderson, and Selden D. Burchenal. These dances were very interesting, mainly on account of their vigorous swings and jumps. In one of the dances the young men gave the Oxdansen, which originated with the university students, and it represented a fight, done to music, with a friendly embrace at the close.

The Swedish dance called Fjallnaspolska proved to be very artistic, and in this Mrs. Rhinelander, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Phipps, Mrs. Kidder, and Miss Cutting, in quaint characteristic costumes, appeared to advantage with their partners, Count Montgelas, Lieut. Frank Phipps, Lindell Bates, H. S. Leverich, Roland Palmer, and Mr. Von Kuhlman.

The Russian Cossack dance was well done by Mrs. George Wathen, and the Misses Lucy Brown, Edith Morgan, and Angelica Brown, who gave the typical steps and movements with grace and abandon, which characterize all Russian dances.

There was a long list of patronesses, many of whom were present.

'THE BARTERED BRIDE' GIVEN.

Smetana's Opera, with Mme. Destinn and Messrs. Jorn, Didur, and Reiss.

Kruschina .... Herbert Witherspoon
Kathinka .... Marie Mattfeld
Marie .... Emmy Destinn
Micha .... Basil Ruysdael
Agnes .... Henrietta Wakefield
Wenzel .... Albert Reiss
Hans .... Carl Jorn
Kezal .... Adama Didur
Springer .... Julius Bayer
Esmeralda .... Anna Case
Mupp .... Ludwig Burgstaller

Smetana's opera of "The Bartered Bride" seems to have made a place for itself in the repertory of the Metropolitan Opera House. It began its fourth season there last evening in very much the same shape in which it was presented a year ago. The only important change in the cast was the replacement of Mr. Goritz, who last season took the part of Kezal, the voluble and self-important marriage broker, by Mr. Didur, who had previously had it, and who was the original representative of it in New York. Mme. Destinn and Mr. Jörn were, as they were in the previous representations, the heroine, Marie, and the hero, Hans, and Mr. Reiss again presented the comic figure of Wenzel.

The performance was given with the gayety and spirit that made the success of the opera with the Metropolitan's public in former seasons. If Mme. Destinn did not seem to be in the best of mood and voice, there was reason for it in the fact that a few hours before the curtain rose she had received news by cable of her brother's death in Europe.

"The Bartered Bride" is an opera frankly made after old-fashioned models, sometimes grazing and passing over the line that divides opera from operetta. It is melodious in an obvious and innocent way, and presents no problems or difficulties of any kind. It was intended by its composer to be a national opera, rooting in the nature Bohemian soil, illustrating national types, representing the village life of the country; and, according to Bohemians, it does so. The composer in carrying out his purpose has made large use of the native musical idiom. Dance rhythms have a prominent place in the score; and the national dances, the polka and furiant, are danced by the corps of Bohemian dancers with inspiriting effect. Much of the vitality of the opera depends upon the skillful stage management that kept the action brisk and varied. Some of the features of the traveling show introduced into the last act go a little beyond the strict injunction of the score; but they help to lighten an act that in some respects has need of such aid. Mr. Hertz conducted with much energy and with an unceasing attention to the thoroughly marked and characteristic rhythm that belongs to so much of Smetana's music.

$500 A MONTH ALIMONY.

Former Dancing Girl Obtains a Separation from Albert G. Wheeler.

In awarding Claudia Carlstedt Wheeler, the former dancing girl, $500 monthly alimony and a decree of separation from her husband, Albert Gallatin Wheeler, Supreme Court Justice Newburger yesterday administered a rebuke to Mr. Wheeler for deserting his wife and leaving her without support. Mr. Wheeler had offered no opposition to the separation suit, but he objected to the $500 alimony on the grounds that he was himself without independent means and had been supported since 1907 by his father.

Mr. Wheeler married Claudia Carlstedt fourteen years ago in Chicago, when she was appearing in the "Mandarin Girl." While the couple were residing at the Dakota Apartments in this city Mr. Wheeler deserted her, even taking the furniture with him.

HOUSE FOR ROOSEVELT, JR.

Colonel's Eldest Son Is to Live in East Seventy-fourth Street.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who as recently announced, is to give up his business interest in San Francisco and again become a resident of New York, has leased for his Manhattan home the four-story house at 165 East Seventy-fourth Street, between Lexington and Third Avenues.

The house is owned by the Hyde Realty Company, and the lease was made by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company. Mr. Roosevelt is about to become a partner in a Wall Street banking house.

MME. SZUMOWSKA PLAYS.

She Gives a Charming "Lesson Recital" in the Berkeley Theatre.

Mme. Antoinette Szumowska, a pianist who has of late appeared seldom in New York, gave yesterday afternoon the first of what she calls "lesson recitals." It was in the little Berkeley Theatre, which was found to be an excellent place to carry out the purpose Mme. Szumowska had in view. What she did was to play a short programme of piano compositions, prefacing her performance with some remarks on the technique and phrasing of the music she intended to play, illustrating her points with brief excerpts on the piano; and also giving some general remarks about the characteristics of the composers represented.

Her programme was made up of music which, with the exception of Liszt's Sixth Hungarian Rhapsody, is of the more intimate sort, and which she played with delicacy, charm, and poetic feeling, and with occasionally a little lack of rhythmic certainty. There were a prelude and fugue from Bach's "Well-Tempered Clavier"—a collection of music that public pianists keep very shy of—pieces by Daquin, Rameau, and Scarlotti, Beethoven's exquisite sonata in D major, Op. 28, and the Rhapsody, which hardly fitted the scheme. There were sympathetic and interested listeners.

PLAY OF RUSSIAN LIFE.

"The Shepherd" to be Acted at Clinton Hall.

The Dramatic Club of the Henry Street Settlement, assisted by members of the Thomas Davidson Society, will present at Clinton Hall to-morrow evening and on Sunday, March 3, a three-act play, "The Shepherd," by Olive Tilford Dargan. With the exception of Mr. Eugene Ormonde, who takes the rôle of the Shepherd, the cast will consist of amateurs.

The play deals with the principles and actions underlying the present revolutionary struggle in Russia, and pictures the life of the peasants in a small Russian village where fear of "the army" and all it stands for is ever-present.

FRAZEE AND LEDERER PART.

Managers to Conduct Enterprises as Individuals Hereafter.

Announcement was made yesterday that the theatrical firm of Frazee & Lederer, composed of Harry H. Frazee and George W. Lederer, has dissolved partnership, and will conduct their enterprises under the individual names. Their interests in "Madame Sherry," in which A. H. Woods also has an interest, have been combined in a corporation. Mr. Frazee will continue to occupy offices in the Fitzgerald Building, in Times Square, until the completion of his new theatre in Forty-eighth Street.

Mme. Imperia, Pantomimist, Arrives.

Mme. Lina Imperia, a French pantomimist, who is to be one of the features in the new Winter Garden show, arrived in New York yesterday morning on the St. Paul. She was accompanied by M. Farina, who is to be her leading man, and Mlle. Gerard, who appears in the rôle of a slave girl in a dramatic pantomime called "Sesostra." M. Pavis, author of the sketch, was also a passenger on the St. Paul. Mme. Imperia and her company have been appearing at the Apollo Theatre in Paris, and she brought the costumes and scenery used there.

Performance for Lebanon Hospital.

A special performance for the benefit of the Lebanon Hospital will be given at the Fulton Theatre to-morrow night. Among those who have volunteered to appear are Olga Petrova, Laura Guerite, and George Moore, Gertrude Vanderbilt and Clay Smith, Dorothy Jardon, Maude Raymond, Spink and Welch, Belle Blanche, Saide Jansell, Ethel Gilmore and George McCarry, the Melnotte Twins, Sophye Barnard, and the Russian Dancers. Henry E. Harris has donated the theatre and Jesse L. Lasky will be the stage director.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Charles Urban, inventor of the Kinemacolor process of moving pictures, is a passenger on the Lusitania, due at her pier this morning.

The three-hundredth performance of the present Hippodrome show, "Around the World," will take place this afternoon. This spectacle holds the record of attendance over all past seasons.

Ian Maclaren, who is playing with George Arliss in "Disraeli," and Laurette Taylor, leading woman in "The Bird of Paradise," will appear together in a one-act play at a performance for the benefit of the Actors' Fund, to be given at the Lyceum Theatre next month.

Flora Zabelle is to succeed Sophye Barnard as prima donna with Raymond Hitchcock in "The Red Widow" when that piece goes on tour. Miss Barnard will remain with the organization for a week longer, during the Atlantic City engagement, and will then go into vaudeville for a few weeks.

Oldest Man in United States Dead.

COLUMBIA, Ky., Feb. 23.—John Morg, a veteran of the war of 1812 and probably the oldest man in the United States, died yesterday at his home on Indian Creek. Morg came to this country from Germany in 1812, one hundred years ago, and enlisted. He drew a pension for his services, and the papers gave his age as twenty-four years at the time of his enlistment.

CAPT. PHILIP R. ALGER DEAD.

Professor of Mathematics at Annapolis and Authority on Explosives.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Capt. Philip R. Alger, Professor of Mathematics at the Naval Academy, died this afternoon in the Naval Hospital from a malady against which he had struggled for years. He was an expert in ordnance and the chemistry of explosives and an authority on them for many years.

The morning after the Maine was destroyed he put up a bulletin at the Navy Department stating that the vessel had been blown up from an internal explosion. The act caused a commotion, and the notice was soon ordered down by Mr. Roosevelt, then Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Prof. Alger was born in Boston, Sept. 29, 1859, and entered the naval service as a cadet midshipman, Sept. 22, 1876. On Nov. 10, 1890, he was commissioned Professor of Mathematics.

During the Spanish-American War he served in the Bureau of Ordnance, and remained on that duty until June 9, 1899, when he was assigned to duty at the Naval Academy.

FUNERAL FOLLOWS WEDDING.

Miss Lillian Mitchell Marries Two Hours After Her Father's Death.

The death of Harvey R. Mitchell of 1,954 Boulevard, Jersey City, and the marriage of his daughter, Miss Lillian May Mitchell, to Harry West were two hours apart. The funeral took place last evening.

Mr. Mitchell was 67 years old and was for more than thirty years employed by the Salamander Grate Bar Company of Liberty Street, Manhattan. He caught cold last Friday and pneumonia followed.

Miss Mitchell and Mr. West were to be married last Monday. Because of Mr. Mitchell's illness the invitations were recalled. Mr. Mitchell died at 6:30 Wednesday evening. The marriage was performed two hours later.

Miss Frances Ida Gracey.

Special to The New York Times.

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Miss Frances Ida Gracey is dead at the sanitarium at this place. She was the youngest daughter of the Rev. Dr. John T. Gracey, who died here last month. Her father and mother were missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church and she was interested in missionary work. For the last year, although a cripple and bedridden, she had devoted her energies to raising a fund of $5,000 for the erection of a hospital for crippled children at Kiu Kiang, China.

Right Rev. Mgr. Thomas Magennis.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—The Right Rev. Mgr. Thomas Magennis, 69 years old, pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Jamaica Plain, died to-day after an illness of eight weeks from a complication of diseases. Mgr. Magennis, who has been a priest forty-five years, was the founder of the School for the Deaf and Dumb at Randolph.

STRAW HATS IN ALASKA.

No Snow in Southern Part Since Christmas, Says Gov. Clark.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A small part of Washington's population was to-day inflamed with a desire to begin a new rush to Alaska, where it was said the climate was changing from one of snow and ice to the conditions of the subtropics. This report proved to have started from a few metaphorical remarks by Gov. Clark of Alaska, formerly a newspaper man, who had been telling of the pleasures of life in the North to a few old friends.

Gov. Clark said to-day that recent earthquakes in the Aleutian Islands may have caused the Japan current to strike Alaska. He says this current also warms the entire Pacific Coast, and is largely responsible for the mild climate of California, Washington, and Oregon.

"For the first time in Alaska's history no snow has fallen in the southeast part since Christmas," said Gov. Clark. "All along the coast there has never been such a warm season. Even in Dawson straw hats have been worn."

The basis of the story as told by Capt. John J. Knapp of the United States Navy and Chief of the Hydrographic Office was the fact that of late a number of vessels making regular trips to Alaskan ports have reported unusual changes of temperature in the Japan current. These changes are supposed to be only temporary, and due to earthquakes or upheavals in the bed of the North Pacific Ocean. In all, six or seven ship Captains have made these reports within the last three months, and similar reports have been recorded in times past. There is no doubt that such changes do occur from time to time, but they are never permanent.

D. G. Dery Also Buys at Fisher Sale Painting "Little Mother" for $405.

D. G. Dery was one of the chief buyers at the Fischer sale at the Anderson Galleries yesterday, paying $585 for a Gothic processional cross of silver gilt, Spanish workmanship of the fifteenth century; $525 for a gothic reliquary in silver gilt of the same country and period, and $500 for a gothic ciborium. In pictures, "The Little Mother," by a contemporary Dutch painter, Isaac Israels, went to Mr. Dery for $405. He paid $115 for a pastel, "Lions and Buffalo," by Arthur Wardle, and $105 for "Azaleas," by Henriette Rosenboom, another contemporary Dutch painter.

A "Dutch Interior with Children," by J. H. S. Keever, went to C. Siiermans, Jr., for $215, and the same buyer paid $105 for a "Landscape," by Theophile de Bock. The returns for the day were $6,933. The sale will be concluded this afternoon with a lot of rugs, bronzes, Japanese and English pottery, arms, and furniture.

FOXHOUNDS AND BEAGLES IN RING

Middlesex Hunt Pack and Raymond Belmont's Little Dogs Win at Palace.

The thirty-sixth annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club closed yesterday after four successful days' exhibition at the New Grand Central Palace with the final task of the judges, that of passing upon beagle and foxhound packs serving as an appropriate setting.

The judging of the specials, which numbered seventy-six, beginning on Thursday, was completed early in the afternoon session, and the crowd was then eager to witness the two most interesting and picturesque classes of the entire catalogue, which were for foxhound and beagle packs.

Although many of the exhibitors were chiefly interested in the various specials offered by the Ladies' Kennel Association of America, the Monmouth Country Kennel Club, and like associations for members, which always brings about keen competition, it was not until the final two events were called that the real enthusiasm was shown.

The foxhound packs brought out only two packs, those of the Middlesex Hunt and the Genesee Valley Hunt, with the stellar honors going to the former entry. The packs were made up of five couples, being shown in both instances by the Master of Hounds. The victory of the Middlesex Hunt was entirely due to the perfect manners of its pack. While awaiting their turn to be shown the Genesee hounds set up a continual howl in their pen, and several vaulted into the ring, while there was not a murmur from those of the victorious pack.

The beagle competition was even more interesting than the foxhounds, with four packs entered, and commanded by prominent members of well-known hunts. The smaller dogs were less troublesome, and with forty in the ring for the general parade, headed by the Masters in hunting costume, it was a pretty sight to look upon.

Raymond Belmont, with the Belray Beagles, captured the premier honors in the class, but the task of winning was a hard one, and required some time for a decision. The beagles acted in full accordance with the directions of the Masters, but on general appearance, form, and qualifications the Belray entry excelled. Mr. Belmont was assisted in showing the entry by J. E. Cowdin. The reserve was taken by the Reynal Beagles, owned and exhibited by Louis C. Reynal, assisted by E. H. Carle.

James Mortimer, Secretary and Superintendent of the exhibition, was probably the most pleased person in the entire show. In addition to being complimented on his wonderful success, he celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday on the closing day. A committee of exhibitors presented him with a beautiful diamond-studded match box.

Thomas F. Ryan was an interested spectator during the afternoon at the section occupied by the famous French police dogs, and he engaged in a long conversation with the attendant of the dogs, which have done such commendable work in conjunction with the police of France. Mr. Ryan is an owner of a dog of this breed, and it was said that he expects to import others.

The Airedale Terriers were much in demand in view of the great showing of the breed during the four days, and several sales were reported by well-known breeders. The specials offered by the Ladies' Kennel Association of America were keenly contested, and resulted in some noteworthy victories.

The Ballyhoo Bey Challenge Cup and the Association Championship Challenge Cup created unusual excitement among the members. The first, which was for the best American-bred dog or bitch, bred and owned by a member, brought out over sixty competitors. Miss Hydon of Bogota, N. J., took the coveted prize with Grey Mist, a rough collie of the blue merle shade. The Championship Challenge Cup, which was for the best dog or bitch regardless of breed, and which allowed the importations to show, was won by Mrs. Reginald F. Mayhew, with the black Pomeranian Fox Hills the Black Prince.

The largest number of victories recorded during the four days was that of the Windholme Kennels, which captured a total of twenty-one blue ribbons. The summaries:

DOGS' DERBY FOR TIDE TIME.

Waterloo Cup Captured by an Outsider in Classic English Race.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The Waterloo Cup known as the Dogs' Derby was contested at Altcar, Lancashire, to-day and won by J. W. Fullerton's Tide Time, which defeated Adversary in the final. Both Tide Time and Adversary are greyhound puppies, whose smart performances during the three days' coursing have been the feature of the meeting. The betting against both of them on the night of the draw was 1,000 to 25, but although they were so little fancied they disposed of all the favorites in the early heats. Tide Time is a black dog puppy bred at Shellfield in Ireland.

The Waterloo Cup is an annual coursing contest, in which sixty-four greyhounds participate for a stake of $125 each, to which the Earl of Sefton, President of the British National Coursing Club, adds a cup of the value of $500.

RAIN KEEPS GIANTS IDLE.

Youngsters at Marlin, Sore and Stiff, Welcome Day's Rest.

Special to The New York Times.

MARLIN, Texas, Feb. 23.—Heavy rain which fell all day and shows no indications to-night of abating, brought much-needed rest for the young New York National League players who are here under the tutelage of Manager McGraw and Coaches Robinson and Latham. Most of the boys have sore arms or legs from their athletic activities of the last few days, and a day's layoff was accepted with good grace. It is improbable that there will be baseball practice to-morrow, for Ground Keeper Murphy could not get the field into condition in time even though the rain passes this section to-night.

Shafer, the infielder, and Fullenwider, the new pitcher, were the arrivals in camp to-day. Catcher Hartley was also expected, but has not arrived. He will not come until the latter part of next week.

Some of the boys went duck shooting this morning, others took a dip in the vapor baths, while still others played billiards and wrote letters to the home folks.

NAVIN AND BASEBALL LAW.

Detroit President Discussed New National Agreement Weaknesses.

Frank J. Navin, President of the Detroit Baseball Club, was in the city for a short time yesterday, and explained why he objected to the American League ratifying the new National Agreement. Mr. Navin said that the clause relating to inter-league waivers on purchased players was not quite clear enough, and he held out until the wording had been changed properly. His objections were not against the spirit of the agreement, for he is very much in favor of the major leagues giving more recognition to the minors. He said that the changing of the clause had been intrusted to President Ban Johnson, and no doubt he and Chairman Herrmann of the National Commission had it satisfactorily settled by this time.

Mr. Navin has just returned from Providence, where he and his associates in the Providence Club of the International League gave a dinner to the club owners of that organization.

Manager Hugh Jennings was also present, and has gone to Ithaca for a few days to visit his Cornell friends. Jennings is a graduate of the Cornell Law School and coached the baseball team there. He will go to Detroit early next week and accompany the second squad of Detroit players to Monroe, La., for their Spring training. The first squad of youngsters will leave Detroit to-day, in charge of Scout Joe Sugden, the old catcher, who will coach the young pitchers.

Chicagoans to Honor Hank O'Day.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Friends of "Hank" O'Day, former umpire in the National Baseball League and now manager of the Cincinnati Nationals, to-day announced plans for a celebration at the West Side Baseball Park when the Cincinnati and Chicago teams open the season April 18. The celebration will be in honor of O'Day, who was born and reared in the neighborhood of the West Side park.

White Sox Begin Invasion of South.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Manager Callahan of the Chicago American League Baseball Club departed last night for Waco, Texas, accompanied by Pitchers Benz and Mogridge. Within a week other members of the club will leave aboard a special train for the club's new training camp in Texas.

Umpire for New York League.

WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 23.—Dick Morgan, who was a member of the umpire staff in the Western League last year, has mailed his contract as umpire to the New York State League.

Philadelphia Cricketers Win.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 23.—The two-day cricket match, which began here yesterday between the Philadelphians and a team composed of members of the Army and Navy, ended to-day with the visitors victorious by a gross score of 297 to 184. The first day's score was Philadelphians 112, Army and Navy 108, and that of to-day, Philadelphians 185, and Army and Navy 76. The weather conditions were fine, and the form of the visiting players was much improved over that of previous games.

Olympic Australian Team.

James E. Sullivan, Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, has received a letter from Richard Coombs of Sydney, Australia, stating that he hopes to send to the Olympic games at Stockholm a team that will properly represent that country. It will necessitate the men being absent from Australia for the greater part of six months, however. Mr. Coombs has been President of the Amateur Athletic Union of Australia for fifteen years, and recently attended a meeting of the union, which was held at New Zealand, 2,300 miles from Sydney, and meant a two weeks' journey.

Boxing Championships at N. Y. A. C.

Chairman John J. Walsh of the Boxing Committee of the Metropolitan Association yesterday announced that the committee at a recent meeting had awarded the metropolitan boxing championships to the New York Athletic Club, to be held during the week of March 18 to 23.

ROUGH HOCKEY IN TOURNAMENT GAME

Many Men Penalized in the Match Between Crescents and Hockey Club.

Sars Kennedy of the Crescent Athletic Club hockey team contributed so much of the rough play seen last night in the match at the St. Nicholas Rink between his team and that of the Hockey Club that he was penalized twice for what the referee, Eddie Garon, considered foul tactics. As the result of a mix-up on the side boards, in which he slashed Britton of the opposition over the right eye, that player continued through the first half with the gash bleeding profusely.

In the second period Kennedy collided with Mackenzie so forcibly as to hurt that player's hip and back severely enough to cause his withdrawal from the game. In the opening half he refused to leave the ice at the command of Garon, and altogether helped materially in making the game one of the worst ever seen in the rink.

Crescent won, as expected, and with a score of 9 to 0, the largest tally in a tournament match this Winter, and are therefore a tie with the Wanderers for first place. They knew they were in a competition, however, during the first ten minutes of the opening period, as the Hockey Club seven uncovered the finest possible defense, and, with the aid of Britton's fine dribbles, were kept on the jump stopping some kaleidoscopic runs.

Play had barely begun when Shirreff was sent to the box for tripping. Scrimmage followed scrimmage, with much stick slashing, until after 8:58 minutes of the roughest type of hockey, when Kenedy got the rubber on a passout from behind the Hockey Club, and on a slight angle shot made the first tally. Soon after this Britton showed the effects of a combat with Kennedy, with his right eye very much damaged.

On a high lift Shirreff made the second score in 12:25 minutes, and a few seconds afterward Dobby poked the puck through for the third and last count of the period. Beginning the second half, and after ten seconds' play, Scarborough tallied, and from that time on it was only a question of how many goals Crescent would make. As the timekeeper, George Stebbins, remarked, "The game isn't rough; they're only getting in each other's way," this being his explanation of the exhibitions of ground and lofty tumbling which were seen during every minute of the second half. The line-up and summary:

Crescent A. C.	Position.	Hockey Club.
Mills	Goal	Regensburger
Brown	Point	Tisne
Wall	Cover point	Norsworthy
Shirreff	Rover	Mackenzie
Dobby	Centre	Britton
Kennedy	Right wing	Fredericks

Goals—First half: Kennedy, 8:58; Shirreff, 12:25; Dobby, 12:42. Second half: Scarborough, 0:10; Scarborough, 5:18; Shirreff, 6:51; Brown, 10:30; Brown, 14:25; Scarborough, 16:30. Penalties—Shirreff, 2 minutes for tripping; Kennedy, 2 minutes for slugging; Scarborough, 2 minutes for tripping; Fredericks, 2 minutes for throwing stick; Shirreff, 2 minutes for fighting; Norsworthy, 2 minutes for fighting; Brown, 2 minutes for illegal checking; Kennedy, 2 minutes for throwing Mackenzie; Wall, 2 minutes for cross checking; Fredericks, 2 minutes for tripping. Referee—E. Garon, Wanderers Club. Assistant referee—J. Carroll Bulger, Wanderers Club. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

DOUGLAS TO PLAY FINCKE.

New York Men Reach Final Match in National Racquets.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—By winning his morning match with H. F. McCormick of Chicago to-day, Reginald Fincke of New York, the champion, will defend his title in the final round of the National racquet championship. McCormick gave Fincke a hard battle, but the champion's steadiness and brilliant placing gave him the victory three games to one, the scores being 15—12, 5—15, 15—9, 17—14.

In the other match of the semi-finals J Gordon Douglas of New York defeated G. A. Thorne of Chicago in straight games—18—13, 15—3, 15—4.

Fincke and Douglas will play for the championship to-morrow.

HILDRETH TO STAY HERE.

Turfman Will Not Send Kohler Horses to Race in England.

Samuel C. Hildreth has returned to Sheepshead Bay after a nine weeks' visit to Aiken, S. C. Hildreth said that he had decided to remain in this country permanently. He notified Charles Kohler in England, for whom he is training Fitz Herbert, Zeus, Novelt, and other stake horses, regarding his decision, and in response received a cablegram from Mr. Kohler advising that the stable be kept at Sheepshead Bay.

Mr. Kohler had left the shipment of the string to England entirely in Hildreth's hands, consequently it is evident that the millionaire owner, who had desired to race his cracks against Great Britain's classic winners, is determined that his horses remain in the care of the man who prepared and raced them with remarkable success.

Fordham Games To-night.

Fordham University will hold its annual athletic meet to-night at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory. The feature event is the one-mile relay between Holy Cross and Fordham. As Holy Cross defeated Georgetown University in the relay races of the Boston Athletic Association two weeks ago, the race this evening decides the Catholic College championships of the East. The sterling performance of Fordham's flying four in winning the college Class B relay race at the Columbia games and in defeating Syracuse Thursday evening at Troy, the victors of the Class A colleges warrants the belief that the Maroon four will establish a new intercollegiate mark for the mile relay to-night.

The entire track teams of Princeton and Columbia have been entered, as have those of the New York Athletic Club and the Irish-American Athletic Club. The college stars will strive with the pick of the locals in the 70, 300, and 880 yard handicap runs. Jack Eller of the Winged Fists and his brother Bob of Georgetown, are going to try for a new world's record in the seventy-yard low hurdle. Kramer, Bellars, Mike Ryan, and Huysman will start in the three-mile run and in the high jump Grumpelt and Erickson will enter. Six other events are on the programme.

Cornell Wrestlers Triumph.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Cornell wrestlers won five of the seven bouts with the University of Pennsylvania team here to-night. The summary:

115-Pound Class.—Mason, Cornell, won decision over Franklin, Pennsylvania, 9 minutes.

125-Pound Class.—Dickson, Pennsylvania, threw Machat, Cornell, after two extra periods in 16 minutes 20 seconds.

135-Pound Class.—Lewis, Cornell, threw Smith, Pennsylvania, bar and chancery, 1 minute 42 seconds.

145-Pound Class.—Coors of Cornell threw Mellon, Pennsylvania, body hold, 7 minutes 20 seconds.

158-Pound Class.—Shaw, Cornell, won decision over Bisbee, Pennsylvania, 9 minutes.

175-Pound Class.—Sechler, Pennsylvania, won decision over Baine, Cornell, 9 minutes.

American Power Boat Meeting.

Dr. C. S. Street of the Ocean City Yacht Club presided last night at the annual meeting of the American Power Boat Association, held at the Waldorf-Astoria, at which 100 delegates from about twenty yacht and motor boat clubs were present. It was not a harmonious meeting by any means, and although some twenty amendments to the constitution, by-laws, and racing rules were acted upon, out of a total of sixty-seven presented, the legality of all of them was questioned by lawyers present, who declared that the adopting of the amendments offered is in direct violation of the constitution and by-laws of the association.

Harvard's Wrestling Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 23.—William Rutherford Tyler was elected to-day as Captain of the Harvard wrestling team for next season. Tyler, who is a sophomore, hails from Chicago. Efforts will be made to arrange bouts with other universities, and also enter a team in the intercollegiates.

Clean Sweep for Skater McLean.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 23.—The winner in the international championship skating races here to-night was:

One-sixth Mile.—McLean, Chicago, 0:26 3-5.
One-half Mile.—McLean, Chicago, 1:23 1-5.
One Mile.—McLean, Chicago, 3:00.

Otis Loses Billiard Match.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—James Shea of Chicago defeated Charles Otis of Brooklyn in the second game of the three-cushion series of the National Billiard League here to-night, 50 to 39, in sixty innings. Shea had a high run of 4 and Otis had a high run of 3.

NO RECORD FOR HEILAND.

Fred W. Rubein of A. A. U. Says He Will Not Grant Application.

Although he declared yesterday that he had received none of the papers in connection with the application for a record supposed to have been made by Hal Heiland of the Xavier Athletic Association on Thursday night at the Greek-American games, Frederick W. Rubein, Chairman of the Record Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, further asserted that he would give the affair very little consideration.

"I have very good authority," said Mr. Rubein, "for my belief that Heiland did not perform in such a manner as to entitle him to be credited with 7 1-5 seconds for seventy yards. In this case the timers of the event were not at fault, but there were other features in connection with the race which will not warrant serious consideration being given to the application, and everything indicates that it will not be allowed.

"A review of the facts in connection with the race rather conclusively proves that there must have been something radically wrong in the particular heat in which he was 'clocked' in world's record time. In the seventh trial heat Heiland was rather easily beaten to the tape by R. Veith of the Irish-American A. C., to whom he was conceding 16 feet, with the time of 7 2-5 seconds. In the semi-final dash these men met again, with Heiland well out in front in 7 1-5 seconds, but in the final he failed to make any great impression on his opponents, being last at the finish and fully 3½ yards behind the winner, who did 7 1-5 seconds from the 14-foot mark. I have found that the thing that was wrong with the semi-final heat was that he got a 'flier,' which in itself nullifies the performance, and I have no hesitancy in saying that it will not be accepted."

BOAT SHOW NEAR ITS END.

Australian Boy Scouts and Their Kangaroo Yell Enliven Garden Crowds.

The Motor Boat Show at Madison Square Garden will close to-night after a successful week's exhibition. Amid the ringing of bells and tooting of whistles, the show will end at 11 o'clock and all the craft, from the smallest canoe to the most luxurious motor cruiser, will be shipped away. Yesterday was Boy's Day at the show and hundreds of school lads viewed the various exhibits. The delegation of 40 boy scouts from Australia were among the most interested spectators, and the decorations took their fancy strongly. They gave their "kangaroo" yell and saw everything that was to be seen.

Several of the boats have been sold and will be shipped to their owners. Commodore J. Stuart Blackton of the Atlantic Yacht Club has purchased a new tender for his yacht Paula. Attention was centred by the large crowds yesterday on the speed boats. The hydroplanes come in for minute observation and every inch of them is carefully examined. The Bug, which won the $5,000 prize on the Sound last season in a race with Frank Gould's yacht Helenita, is greatly admired.

The annual meeting of the National Association of Engine and Boat Builders' was held yesterday at the Engineers Club. An address was made by President James J. Amory, who reported that the association had a balance of $50,000 in its treasury. Motor boat and engine builders from all parts of the country were present and more than 100 attended the luncheon previous to the business meeting. The newly elected members of the Executive Committee are Henry R. Sutphen, William H. Mullens, Charles A. Criqui, P. C. Jones, and W. H. Brantigan.

The Frontenac Yacht Club announced yesterday that it would build a new racer with two motors of 175 horse power each for the defense of the Gold Challenge Cup next season. The boat is being designed by W. J. Brainerd.

RED ROVER WINS YACHT CUP.

Commodore Gibbon's Craft Takes Final Honors on Shrewsbury Ice.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Feb. 23.—Commodore J. C. Gibbons's third-class iceboat Red Rover won the final race for the Ayres and O'Brien Cup over the fifteen-mile course of the Long Branch Club to-day. The race after the first lap was between the Red Rover and the Blanche, the former winning by three-quarters of a minute. The Red Rover's time was 32:30. Capt. Edwin Fielder's Drub was third. The Imp withdrew on the third lap.

Fair Haven and South Shrewsbury Club boats line up to-day in a friendly race for supremacy. The South Shrewsbury boat The Foxie, Capt. Robert Curtis, won, with the Russell VIII. second, the Persos third, and the Ever-Ready fourth. The Blue Bird and Jennie did not finish. The race was for fourth-class boats, a distance of ten miles. The Foxie's time was 28:30. The Russell VIII. was three minutes behind.

The Ingenue and X. L. N. C. will represent the South Shrewsbury Club in the races to-morrow for the championship pennant of the two rivers. The race will be sailed over the North Shrewsbury Club's twenty-mile course, best two in three heats. The Daisy and the Tyro will be the defenders for the North Shrewsbury Club, the holder of the pennant. The pennant, given by Chairman Thomas Riddel and H. B. Edwards, has been in existence for forty years. The Shadow, one of the first ice boats built at Oceanport, was the first winner of the pennant.

GALE SWEEPS ICE YACHTS.

Meteor Runs Away and Helmsman Cleary Is Spilled on Hudson.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 23.—The ice yacht Meteor, owned by Commodore E. H. Wales of the Hyde Park Ice Yacht Club, and sailed by Frank Cleary, ran riot on the Hudson River this afternoon in the race for the club pennant. Sailing along the west shore at great speed, Helmsman Cleary was thrown from the cockpit and sent skidding over the ice for 200 yards, escaping injury. The yacht brought up before the wind without any damage.

The race was won by H. H. Van Cleef's Shatemuc, which covered the ten-mile course, half to the windward, in 38 minutes. The runaway Meteor was second in 50 minutes 8 seconds. Half a dozen yachts were unable to withstand the gale, one of them, Lyall Marshall's Nonsense, having her mast blown away.

Comet and Vim Win at Red Bank.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Feb. 23.—Three ice yacht races between William Conover's Comet and Henry B. Applegate's Vim were held on the north side of the North Shrewsbury River here to-day, over a five-mile triangular course. Two of the races were captured by the Comet and one by the Vim.

Intercollegiate Convention To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 23.—The intercollegiate field and track championships may again come to Harvard Stadium, should a large majority of the candidates at the next meeting of the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America favor the project. Hugh L. Gaddis, manager of the Harvard track team, who will represent his university in the convention to-morrow in New York, has been instructed that, should there be a well-defined movement in favor of the stadium, to tender the use of it to the association. Harvard, however, is not an avowed candidate for the games, as is Syracuse and Pennsylvania. The local track is the fastest in the country, and the meets of the past have been a mecca for the making of new amateur records.

Coach Yost on Football Rules.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 23.—Coach Fielding H. Yost of the University of Michigan eleven expresses the opinion, in an interview written for The Yale News, to-day that the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee, in making the recent changes in the rules, "has at last reached the sought-after combination, that of saving the player and the play." He thinks the complexity of the system has been decidedly lessened, and that, while under former rules the luck of chance plays was 75 per cent. of the scoring result, under the new code this element will not be more than 25 per cent.

GIBBONS KNOCKS OUT LEWIS IN SECOND

St. Paul Man Has New Yorker Staggering Around Ring in Empire A. C. Fight.

Willie Lewis had his chance last night at the Empire Athletic Club to prove that his recent defeat by Mike Gibbons was a fluke, and the St. Paul whirlwind brushed the erstwhile king of welterweights into dreamland in less than five minutes. A right to the jaw was the finishing punch and it did the trick so effectively that Lewis was still in the land of dreams when Gibbons carried him to his corner. The knockout arrived less than two minutes after the second round began.

From the bell which started the rival battlers on their way until Gibbons dropped Lewis to the canvas for the full count, there was nothing to the bout except Gibbons. Lewis, noted for his feinting ability and all-around boxing cleverness, was as powerless before the St. Paul boy as a novice, and during the five minutes he failed to land a single effective punch on Gibbons. Mike simply toyed with the New Yorker, feinted until Willie was dizzy, stepped out of the paths of Lewis's punches without apparent effort, and penetrated Lewis's guard with his terrific punches as often as he desired. It was evident before the first round was half completed that Lewis was in for the trimming of his life. He took almost as much punishment as could be crowded into such a short space of time.

Before the bout was ten seconds old Gibbons had jolted Lewis's head back with two lefts and a right. Within a minute he had Willie staggering around the ring, and before the bell sounded Gibbons dropped Lewis with a terrific right uppercut after staggering him with a left swing. Lewis regained his feet at the count of five, and the bell sounded just in time to save him from a knockout.

Gibbons went in to make a quick finish of the bout in the second round, and succeeded. He was landing often on Willie's jaw with either hand, and Lewis was unable to stop the shower of blows. His right eye was swollen and his face was very red from the punishment already received. A series of rights and lefts soon had Lewis groggy, and Gibbons shot out that terrible right with enough power to end the bout. Lewis did not move a muscle while Referee Tone tolled off the fatal ten, and Gibbons helped Willie's seconds to carry him to his corner.

SID BURNS COMING HERE.

English Welterweight Will Seek Boxing Honors in America.

Sid Burns, the English welterweight champion, is the latest star of British ring circles to decide upon a trip to America. Like Bombardier Wells, Matt Wells, Freddie Welsh, Billy Marchant, and others he believes he can make more money here so he has decided to sail about March 1. He is booked to fight Baker, an English welterweight, next Monday, and he plans to leave as soon as possible after this bout. George McDonald, who managed Matt Wells when the English lightweight champion was here several months ago, will probably take care of Burns's interests. In a letter which reached here yesterday Mr. McDonald said that Burns would first box in Philadelphia, and would then come to New York for the purpose of getting matches with either Mike Gibbons or Jack Denning. According to McDonald, Burns is one of the fastest boxers turned out in England, and he should be able to hold his own against any of the American welterweights.

Matt Wells has recovered from his recent illness and is getting ready to return to the ring. Wells hopes to come to America soon, but the exact date has not been decided upon.

NO RETURN BOUT FOR ATTELL

Kilbane Says Abe Doesn't Deserve One After Foul Way He Fought.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Johnny Kilbane, the new featherweight champion, appeared to-day with his left eye discolored from the "goat tactics" of Abe Attell at Vernon yesterday. The cut, inflicted in the sixteenth round, was the only mark the Cleveland fighter showed.

"Attell says he wants another chance; will you give it to him?" Kilbane was asked.

"I don't think he deserves it," the new champion answered, "after the foul way he fought yesterday. Besides, the public knows Attell would stand no chance with me and that would hurt the gate."

Promoter Tom McCarey said there was little likehood of a return match at Vernon.

Kilbane has accepted a theatrical engagement and said he would remain on the Pacific Coast for some time.

Klaus to Fight Jack Dillon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Frank Klaus, the Pittsburgh middleweight, who defeated "Sailor" Petroskey in a twenty-round contest yesterday, has been matched by James Coffroth to box Jack Dillon of Indianapolis here next month. The date has not been fixed.

The defeat of Abe Attell by Johnny Kilbane in Los Angeles yesterday will not interfere with the scheduled Attell-Harlem Tommy Murphy bout on March 9, Coffroth said.

Pennsy Wins from Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 23.—The Pennsylvania basket ball team to-night defeated Cornell by the score of 28 to 18.

HARVARD FRESHMEN WIN.

Capture Most of the Honors in Track and Field Games.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 23.—The Harvard Athletic Association held its annual Winter track and field carnival today, the athletes from the freshman class reaping most of the honors. Two freshmen, H. R. Hardwick and F. W. Capper, showed special promise as later 'Varsity possibilities. Hardwick won the handicap shot put with an actual performance of 38 feet 4 inches, while Capper ran thirty yards more than half a mile on the thirteen-lap board track in 2:07 4-5, and beat Warren, who is one of the 'Varsity's best middle-distance men.

C. H. Tilton, also 1915, won both the forty-yard dash and the forty-five-yard low hurdles, while two more freshmen did well in the high jump, J. B. Clapp being tied with A. D. Chandler, '14, for first place with an actual jump of 5 feet 9⅜ inches, and F. H. Mahn, '15, doing 5 feet 8¼ inches. The novice mile was won by H. Lider, still another freshman. The class of 1915 wound up to-day's showing by beating the seniors in a team race in which each class entered fifteen runners, the freshmen's margin before more than half a lap. Teams representing the Crimson, Lampoon, and Monthly, three of the Harvard publications, had a race, the Crimson winning handily.

PRINCETON BEATS C. C. N. Y.

Eben Cross Star in Dual Swimming Events in Local Pool.

The City College swimming team was badly trounced by the Princeton team by the score of 40½ to 10½. The Jerseyites took every event, and in some cases the second places also. Eben Cross was the individual star for the visitors, winning the 100 and 220 yard races. His brother did not do so well, as he could secure only second in the long swim and tied for third in the "hundred."

The relay which was the first event on the programme went to the visitors. H. McGrath, who started for the home team, obtained a three-yard lead, but his teammates could not hold it. The swimming of Riemer, one of the local boys, was a surprise to the crowd. He started to sprint in the last lap of the 220, and although he picked up several yards on F. Cross, he was beaten by inches for second. His time was 2:50 1-5, which is a new record for the distance for City College men. In the hundred, which was his first start in this event, he tied F. Cross for third honors.

The water polo team was outclassed by the visitors who displayed amazing team work. Battles and Wight did the scoring for the visitors in this event. The score was 50 to 0. The summary:

800-Foot Relay Race.—Won by Princeton, (Mott, Green, Gosnell, F. Cross;) College of the City of New York, (McGrath, Nussbaum, Elsele, Davis,) second. Time—2:41 4-5.

Fancy Dive.—Won by R. R. Lawrence, Princeton; G. Berman, College of the City of New York, second; F. Fielding, College of the City of New York, third.

50-Yard Swim.—Won by H. L. Gosnell, Princeton; R. Green, Princeton, second; G. Coughlin, College of the City of New York, third. Time—0:28 2-5.

220-Yard Swim.—Won by E. Cross, Princeton; F. Cross, Princeton, second; E. Riemer, College of the City of New York, third. Time—2:38 1-5.

Plunge for Distance.—Won by T. Robinson, Princeton, with a plunge of 67½ feet; H. Barry, Princeton, second; M. Schneider, College of the City of New York, third.

100-Yard Swim.—Won by E. Cross, Princeton; H. McGrath, College of the City of New York, second; F. Cross and E. Reimer tied for third. Time—1:02 4-5.

Columbia Swimmers Win.

Columbia's swimming team had no difficulty in defeating Amherst's watermen in the Columbia pool last night by the score of 35 to 18. The summary:

200-Yard Relay.—Won by Columbia, (J. Pulleyn, H. S. Osgood, L. Dinkelspiel, and F. Culman.) Time—1:54.

220-Yard Swim.—Won by E. Sutliffe, Columbia; W. M. Campbell, Columbia, second; H. S. Loomis, Amherst, third. Time—3:04.

100-Yard Swim.—Won by F. Culman, Columbia; C. P. Carter, Amherst, second; H. S. Osgood, third. Time—1:04 3-5.

50-Yard Swim.—Won by F. Culman, Columbia; C. P. Carter, Amherst, second; L. Dinkelspiel, Columbia, third. Time—0:28 4-5.

Fancy Dive.—Won by E. A. Whittemore, Amherst, 94 2-3 points; F. H. Bedford, Amherst, second, 92 2-3 points; T. H. Barrett, Columbia, third, 89 points.

NEW N. Y. A. C. HOUSE RULES.

Women to Have Privileges in City House During Next Two Months.

Changes in the house rules of the New York Athletic Club, which are expected to add greatly to the attendance at the Central Park South house, have just been announced by Fred R. Fortmeyer, the Secretary, and read as follows:

"Members may introduce a guest or guests to the privileges of the dining room on week days between the hours of 12 noon and 3 o'clock P. M., without registering them in the visitors' book.

"Commencing with Sunday, March 10, 1912, and continuing through the months of March and April, ladies, accompanied by members, may be admitted to the privileges of the dining room of the city club-house between the hours of 6 o'clock P. M. and 12 midnight, on Sundays only."

Next Thursday, at 8:15 P. M. a concert will be rendered by the Liederkranz Chorus, on which occasion ladies, accompanied by members, will be admitted to the privileges of the gymnasium floor and restaurant only, between 6 P. M. and 12 midnight.

Sherbrookes Win at Hockey Again.

BOSTON, Feb. 23.—The Sherbrooke (P. Q.) hockey seven ended successfully their invasion of the States by winning from the Boston Athletic Association team to-night 8 to 1. The game was very rough.

Isaacs Wins in Harlem Billiards.

In last night's game of the Harlem Class A amateur 18.2 balkline billiard tournament, at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, M. Isaacs defeated F. C. Reed by the score of 200 to 147 in fifty-six innings.

BROOKLYN'S AUTO SHOW OPENS TO-NIGHT

Seventy Makes of Cars to be Exhibited in Twenty-third Regiment Armory.

Brooklyn's second annual automobile show under the auspices of the Brooklyn Motor Vehicle Dealers' Association, will be opened in the Twenty-third Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, to-night, at 7:30 o'clock. The interior of the big building is now receiving finishing touches, and everything will be in readiness when the doors open. All the exhibits are in place, and the cars are displayed strikingly in a suitable setting.

There will be seventy different makes of motor cars represented, among them being a comprehensive line of motor trucks. Three makes of motorcycles also will be shown. Many of the special show cars, which were displayed in the recent Madison Square Garden and Grand Central Palace shows in Manhattan, have been secured by the local dealers to display at the Brooklyn exposition.

At a meeting of the Brooklyn Motor Vehicle Dealers' Association, held on Thursday, announcement was made that two more exhibitions have been added to the already long list. The new comers are the Franklin pleasure 1912 line and the Commer truck. Both of these makes already have wide reputations. The former is entered by the Franklin Motor Car Company of New York, and the latter by Wyckoff, Church & Partridge.

It was decided to set aside various special nights during the week, as this plan, permitting as it does members of various associations, clubs, and societies to meet at the armory, has always met with favor at automobile shows. Saturday, the opening night, will be Brooklyn's night; Monday, the 26, New York night; Tuesday, Long Island A. C. night; Wednesday, "Society Day"; Thursday, military night; Friday, associated yacht clubs night, and Saturday, Crescent Athletic Club and wind-up night.

BOY SCOUTS AT A. C. A.

Australian Party Entertains Members and Invited Guests.

A decided novelty was introduced at the Special Ladies' Day and Club Night at the Automobile Club of America, Fifty-fourth Street, west of Broadway, yesterday afternoon and evening, when the Young Australian League Boys entertained the members of the club, together with their families and friends. It was a departure from the usual entertainments offered by the committee, and proved a strong attraction.

Headed by a band of fifteen pieces the Australian Boys Party, which is affiliated with the Boy Scout movement, made its appearance at the club about 8:30 o'clock in the afternoon. At this time the assembly room was comfortably filled with members' families, escorts, and guests. The chorus of thirty-five voices occupied the stage at the west end of the assembly room, while the band was arranged as an orchestra in front of the stage. Several patriotic selections were well rendered, and received with liberal applause, encores being numerous.

The party, which is under the leadership of Lieut. J. J. Simmons, consists of about fifty boys and young men, all gifted with some special talent, which provided a programme of unique interest. The Australian boys are making a tour of the world, and upon their arrival at the club they were received by a company of American Boy Scouts with the regulation military honors. While the Australians are here they will be chaperoned by the Boy Scouts of New York, in which work Lorillard Spencer, Jr., and other members of the club, are much interested. In the evening the programme was repeated before about three hundred members of the club and their friends. The evening entertainment was somewhat prolonged by the introduction of several special musical numbers.

DISCUSS GOOD ROADS.

Better Highways Advocated at New Jersey Convention.

Co-operation between road builder and road user was the keynote of a convention held yesterday at the First Regiment Armory, Newark, in connection with the Newark Automobile Show, which closes to-night. The speakers represented the Federal Government, various States, the farmers of New Jersey, and the automobilists. Federal aid for National highways, and a more adequate system of road maintenance in New Jersey, to be arrived at by an enlargement of the powers of the present highway department, were favored by the 150 delegates from granges, boards of freeholders, and other representative bodies.

Among the speakers were State Senator G. W. F. Gaunt, Master of the State Grange; Col. E. A. Stevens, Commissioner of Public Roads of New Jersey; L. I. Hughes of the Department of Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture; Harold Parker, former Highway Commissioner of Massachusetts; A. G. Batchelder, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Automobile Association.

Fight Blizzard in Open Car.

Thrilling times in the worst blizzard in years were reported yesterday by William H. Kleckner and Charles D. Weed, who reached the city yesterday in a six-cylinder Alco touring car after a two-hundred-mile trip through Pennsylvania. Both men told how they had passed over mountains that have not been traversed during the Winter months in years, and battled with snowdrifts seven feet high when the road was obscured. The real struggle, said Mr. Weed, began when he and Mr. Kleckner left Wilkesbarre on Thursday, and encountered the treacherous mountain known as Giant's Despair. The men had to fight a sixty-mile-an-hour gale in addition to being forced to climb a steep grade. Soon after passing over this mountain they ran into a high drift, and the car had to be shoveled out. The next excitement occurred when the car attempted to cross the Pocono Mountains, twenty miles away. Here the machine ran across a high snowdrift, but got through and reached Stroudsburg.

Franklin

Motor Cars

How many makes of tires have you used since you bought your car? You can not find a solution of tire trouble by experimenting with tires. It rests in the construction of the car.

The owner of a Franklin does not worry about tires. They last from three to four times longer than on other cars—8,000 to 10,000 miles is the average service. Let us show you the reason why.

BROKER OUT OF FIRM FOR BELIEVING WADE

E. H. Jewell, Who Put Faith in Gas and Gold Wonder Workers, Transfers Seat.

SECOND BROKER INTERESTED

He Still Trusts Convict Just Out of Sing Sing, Who Invaded Wall St. with Amazing Patents.

The reappearance in Wall Street of Henry Clay Russell Wade, after many vicissitudes, including a sojourn in Sing Sing, lately concluded, has brought heartburnings and some embarrassment to two members of the Stock Exchange and lessened faith in things as they seem to several lesser stars in the financial firmament. Wade has been known to New York for a score of years, and in his earlier days favorably, to a number of men who are less well-informed of his later activities, which have included two arrests for passing queer checks, one on a fraud order by the Post Office authorities, and his latest arrest in 1909 for accepting a fee for furnishing capital which did not materialize.

In his most recent appearance in the Street he interested Albert H. Gross, a member of the Stock Exchange, who was graduated into the brokerage business from the silk business. He had known Wade twenty years ago, and when he learned that his former friend had a fortune in sight from two patented devices—one for extracting gold from sand and the other for turning kerosene into gas for light, heat, and power purposes—he was interested.

He is still interested, and defended the possibilities of the business yesterday despite the exposure of Wade's record and the long series of disasters attending his similar enterprises which investigation has brought to light.

Another Exchange member who became interested was Edward H. Jewell of Jewell & Stringer. Mr. Jewell was so much interested in the gas machine company that he sent out letters inviting the attention of possible investors to its possibilities. This is a sort of interest which the Stock Exchange authorities do not approve of when it involves the use of the Stock Exchange name. After the matter came to the attention of the Stock Exchange last week the Stock Exchange seat of Edward H. Jewell to G. Franklin Stringer, Jr., was posted for transfer. The transfer has not yet been made, but when Mr. Stringer was asked yesterday if tht firm would be dissolved after the transfer was made he admitted that would be the case. He would not say, however, that the interest of his partner in the Wade concerns was the cause of his withdrawal from the firm. Both Mr. Gross and Mr. Jewell put their own money into the business. Mr. Jewell said that after he learned of Wade's record he had withdrawn his offer of stock.

The two enterprises which Wade found good to bring out money on his latest Wall Street adventure are the Kero-Gas Company and the Twentieth Century Gold Extracting Company.

The gold extracting company's business is the manufacture of a mill for extracting gold from sand by a process which operates under water pressure. It is the invention of Col. W. F. Mason McCarthy. The gold-bearing sand which it is purposed to bring into the producing class is similar to sand which is plentiful in Northern New York, but which so far no one has taken gold from outside of the workrooms of a long line of exploiting inventors.

Col. McCarthy's particular machine is reported to have actually reclaimed gold under his operation at the Boston Institute of Technology, but it did not convince the institute authorities. Mr. Gross, who is President of both companies, in defending the gold-extracting scheme said yesterday that he had received applications for the machines from Russia, Australia, South America, and other parts of the world. He said he had taken steps to eliminate Wade as soon as he heard of his record. As to the machine for making gas from kerosene, he said that the Kero Gas Company had a contract with the Commercial Acetylene Company which would have been closed yesterday, and would be closed anyway regardless of the Wade exposure.

It was said with great positiveness at the office of Jewell & Stringer yesterday that the firm had nothing to do with either of the Wade enterprises, and that Mr. Jewell's connection was entirely personal. Mr. Gross has been unfortunate before in Wall Street. He was a member of the Stock Exchange house of Gross & Kleeberg, which failed as a result of Otto Heinze & Co.'s United Copper bubble, whose bursting in October, 1907, was one of the first disturbances of the panic.

BALDWIN WORKS EXPANDING.

With Yearly Report Plans Are Laid for East Chicago Plant.

During the six months ended Dec. 31, 1911, the Baldwin Locomotive Works made gross sales of $14,589,645, which compares with $14,752,940 in the same period of 1910. The annual average for the past ten years has been $27,271,018. Cost of manufacturing and depreciation and other expenses amounted to $12,965,428, compared with $13,123,312 in the same period for 1911. Manufacturing profit amounted to $1.624.216 and other income to $508,415, leaving total income at $2,132,631 compared with $1,966,312 in the same period in the previous year.

After charges of bond interest, organization expenses, &c., there remained a net profit of $1,671,419, compared with $1,572,071 in the 1910 period. The payment of $700,000 in dividends on the preferred and of $200,000 on the common stock left a surplus of $771,419.

President Johnson in his statement to stockholders explains that the Directors have authorized the purchase of a tract of 370 acres at East Chicago where a plant will be erected for the manufacture of tires and wheels as a part of the business of the Standard Steel Company. While the construction plan has not been decided upon it is stated that the "future growth of the business shall be divided between Eddystone and Burnham in the East and East Chicago in the West."

MIDDLEMAN FOR EMBROIDERY

Appearance of Commission Man Causes a Flurry in the Trade.

A flurry has been caused in the embroidery trade by the appearance of one lone commission merchant who has set up shop in St. Gall, Switzerland, and proposes to buy embroideries from the mills there and sell them to the trade in America and elsewhere in the customary manner of commission houses in other lines of business.

Heretofore every St. Gall manufacturer has been represented in this city by a branch house or agency, and through these wholesale buyers purchased from the mills direct and drew checks payable to the original manufacturers and not to any intermediary.

With almost one accord they have resented the intrusion of this commission merchant and have signed a circular letter urging united action against the system of doing business which he represents. They declare that the manufacturer and exporter is in danger of losing his identity by the advent of this middleman, because on the books of his customers his name would no longer appear, but would be superseded by that of the commission merchant. They fear also the commission man's practice of playing one manufacturer against the other, to bring about price cutting. Moreover they do not think it safe to turn over samples of their products and credit ratings to a commission house, and they dread secret partnership between commission houses and certain favored manufacturers. In fact the array of reasons they give for declining to let the middleman get a foothold in their business would make fine ammunition for any other trade which is urging that the middleman must go.

CONFER WITH MINE WORKERS

Anthracite Coal Operators Will Take Up Wage Demands Tuesday.

It is expected that some members of the Conference Committee of the three anthracite districts in the United Mine Workers of America will arrive in this city to-morrow and the rest on Monday, to be in readiness for the conferences with the coal operators over the demands of the anthracite miners, whose working agreement expires April 1. The conferences will begin on Tuesday in the rooms of the Jersey Central Railroad Building, 143 Liberty Street, and the independent operators, as well as the coal-carrying companies, will be represented.

The three anthracite districts are 1, 7, and 9 of the United Mine Workers of America, and of Districts 1 and 7, J. Dempsey and John Fahy, their Presidents in 1903, when the anthracite coal strike took place, are still their Presidents.

The operators say that the wage demands are so large that they could not concede them without increasing prices, and this they do not propose to do, though they desire to avert a strike. The demands include an advance of 20 per cent. over the wages in the award of the Anthracite Strike Commission in 1903 and the closed shop.

Since 1903, it was said yesterday by representative dealers, the consumption of anthracite has enormously increased through the increase in the number of manufacturing establishments and the number of new office and other buildings requiring power to run elevators. There was a surplus on hand when the strike took place in 1903, but there is no surplus now and there is a shortage in the small steam sizes.

MAKE TOBACCO COMPETITION.

Separate Companies to Pay Part of Increased Profits to Officers.

The American Tobacco Company, P. Lorillard Company, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, and American Snuff Company are to consider a plan which is expected to promote competition among the former companies of the trust. The proposal is to give the executive officers of each company part of the profits, if any, in excess of the profits of the trust in 1910 on the brands and business that have been turned over to it in carrying out the disintegration decree. The year 1910 is taken as the basis, as it was the last full year before dissolution. The amount to be distributed among the executive officers is not to aggregate more than 10 per cent. of the excess profit.

The plan is in a formative stage, but will be presented to the stockholders of the American Snuff Company at their annual meeting on March 5 and to those of the American Tobacco Company at their annual meeting, which will be held in Jersey City on March 13. If it is adopted the plan will go into effect at the beginning of 1913.

TAX ABRAHAM ESTATE HIGH.

Surrogate Holds 1910 Law Applies, Making Charge $182,037.

Surrogate Ketcham of Brooklyn decided yesterday that the estate of Abraham Abraham, the Brooklyn merchant, should pay the transfer tax of $182,037, under the law of 1910. The executors of the estate tried to have this amount reduced by about $43,000. They said that amount should be the proper tax under the laws of 1911. The Surrogate, however, decided that as Mr. Abraham died on June 28, 1911, his estate was subjtct to the transfer tax law of 1910, which was still in force at the time of his death.

The decision of the Surrogate upholds the contention of attorneys for the State Controller. When the matter was called to their attention they decided that the law of 1910 should apply, and the transfer tax was fixed at $182,037. Edward M. Grout, counsel for the executors of Mr. Abraham's estate, said that an appeal would be taken from the Surrogate's decision.

SUE $6,000,000 LUMBER CO.

Stockholders Seek Receiver for Concern with Lands in Mexico.

Special to The New-York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Four stockholders of the International Lumber and Development Company, with offices in this city, to-day filed a bill in equity in the United States District Court asking for the appointment of a receiver for the corporation. Judge McPherson fixed March 5 as the time for the hearing of argument for the appointment of a receiver.

The corporation was chartered under the laws of Delaware and has a capital of $6,000,000. It was organized for the development of timber and agricultural lands in Mexico.

The complaining stockholders charge that the officers and Directors of the corporation have by means of payment of salaries and commissions on sales of capital stock appropriated to themselves sums of money amounting to $500,000. It is further averred by the complainants that John R. Markley and Isaiah B. Miller, contractors who had been active in the organization of the company, control the corporation by a majority of the voting shares, and made with themselves a contract by which they were to be paid $5,000,000 for developing lands of the corporation in Mexico, which they failed to do.

LANDLORDS WIN A POINT.

Supreme Court Rules Against Decisions of Justice Snitkin.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court denied yesterday the application of Municipal Court Justice Leonard A. Snitkin for a bill of particulars of the charges against him which are being pressed by certain east side landlords, who have interested the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association in his conduct toward them.

Justice Snitkin is accused of having treated certain landlords in an abusive manner and to have ejected two of them from his court, after they had made out cases. The landlords asserts that it has been notorious that Justice Snitkin unduly and illegally favored tenants whose eviction was sought for non-payment of rent. The Appellate Division gave Justice Snitkin twenty days to answer the charges against him.

HILL ORDER IGNORES THE STEEL TRUST

Great Northern Buying Rails from Independents, Even at Cost of Higher Freight.

SAYS ALL DEPENDS ON MAKE

Some of His Krupp Rails in Service 22 Years Found Better Than American Rails of Recent Period.

In placing the Great Northern's order for steel rails to be used in the coming year, Chairman James J. Hill has completely ignored the United States Steel Corporation. Railroad and steel officials were wondering yesterday whether Mr. Hill had been actuated by any feeling due to the Steel Corporation's announced intention of cancelling its lease for ore from the Great Northern fields, or whether he had decided that it was impossible to get the kind of rails the Great Northern wanted from the principal rail manufacturer.

The Steel Corporation's mills make nearly two-thirds of the rails rolled in this country. Following the conference between various steel men and railroad representatives last week, called to discuss the frequent breakage of rails under the heavy loads now put upon them, Mr. Hill made known with his customary frankness his opinion of some of the steel he had bought in recent years. Asked about President Farrell's statement before the Stanley Committee, to the effect that the steel manufacturers were only pharmacists who turned out the rail prescribed by the railroads, he said:

"The trouble is not with the specifications, but with the mills. They turn out too large an ingot at a time. They don't take enough care. We have some Krupp rails which we have used for twenty-two years, and they are better now than some of the American rails bought in recent years."

The Great Northern has ordered 71,000 tons of rails, which is one of the largest orders placed. Of these, the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company is to supply the largest part, 31,000 tons. The Pennsylvania Steel Company and the Lackawanna will each supply 20,000 tons.

Buyers of steel have to pay freight charges from the point of consignment, and this disposition of the Great Northern's quota means that an extra charge must be incurred on a large share of the order. Outside of the Colorado Company, the Steel Corporation is the only maker of rails in Great Northern territory.

Railroads keep a careful record of the life and character of rails they buy, and it is asserted that amazing differences have developed between the rails turned out by one mill and those of another, made according to the same specifications. It was said by a man in close touch with Mr. Hill that he had ordered his rails just as he would buy a suit of clothes. "Mr. Hill is independent enough to buy his rails where he thinks he can get the best value," said this man. "I do not believe that he is taking this way of showing disapproval of the corporation's determination to end the Great Western ore lease."

So far as could be learned, this is the first order placed by the Great Northern in which the Steel Corporation has not had a considerable share. Mr. Hill is in Chicago and Judge Gary would make no comment yesterday.

CUTS UNDER STEEL TRUST.

Phillips Tin Plate Gets Business Corporation Wrested from Foreigners.

Following the capture of the Standard Oil Company's orders for tinplate for export, which had been held for years by Welsh makers, by the United States Steel Corporation, the Corporation has now been underbid by an independent steel company. The Phillips Sheet and Tinplate Company of Steubenville, Ohio, has entered an order for 160,000 boxes, or 8,000 tons.

The official price for tinplate at Pittsburgh is $3.40, but to take this business away from the corporation the Phillips company made a price between $2.90 and $2.95. This is the first time an independent American company has obtained any of this business, on which up to last year it was impossible to compete with the Welsh, as the duty on the imported article was practically wiped out by the drawback of 99 per cent. when the cans were exported.

Since the Steel Corporation made a price low enough to get the business away from the Welsh on a free trade basis, imports of Welsh tinplate have almost entirely ceased, and it is predicted that none will be made after the current month.

ASKS BETTER COAL DELIVERY

Wickwire Steel Co. Says Trunk Lines Discriminate Against It.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Feb. 23.—E. R. Rogers told Inter-State Commerce Commissioner Harlan, to-day, that the New York Central and other Trunk line railroads serving the Wickwire Steel Company, of Buffalo are discriminating against the company. Mr. Rogers is Traffic Manager of the North Buffalo Railroad Company, also an officer of the steel company, the railroad being a subsidiary of the steel company, which is a buyer of Pittsburgh coal and coke.

Mr. Rogers said that the New York Central charges a demurrage which begins at 7 A. M. the first day after cars are interchanged. The North Buffalo Company asks that an adequate and direct service be given by the New York Central.

Mr. Rogers stated that the Wickwire Company had no objection to the trunk lines operating through it's property, provided the company is given proper service. When asked if he meant that a carload of coal or coke be delivered at a certain point at a specified minute, Mr. Rogers said he meant a reasonable time-delivery at the furnaces in order to keep the plant in operation.

MUST USE CHEAPER ROUTE.

Commerce Board So Instructs the Railroads.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—It was held by the Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day to be a principle that "where more than one route is available for forwarding a shipment, it is the duty of the carrier, in the absence of routing instructions, to forward it by the route taking the lowest rate."

The decision was handed down in the case of Lord & Bushnell of Chicago, against the Mississippi Central Railroad, and finally determines a long-time controversy between railroads and shippers.

WOMAN A BANKRUPT.

"Lame Bob" Eastman's Bail Bond One of Mrs. Epstein's Liabilities.

Mrs. Ida Epstein, 341 East Fifty-eighth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $21,754. Of this amount $5,970 is secured by nominal assets consisting of three pieces of mortgaged real estate. They are 2,403 Second Avenue, mortgaged for $19,000, and 173 and 175 East 109th Street, for $42,000. Among her assets there are also two lots at Bellport, L. I.

Among her liabilities is an item of $12,500, the forfeited bail bond furnished by Mrs. Epstein for Robert Eastman, a broker, known as "Lame Bob," who killed himself on June 25, 1909, in a rowboat near the headwaters of Back Creek, Md., when he had given up hope of escaping a posse that was seeking to take him for the murder of Mrs. Edith May Thompson Woodill, a niece of ex-Secretary of the Treasury Gage.

Rochester & Eastern Note Issue Authorized.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—The Public Service Commision has authorized the Rochester, Syracuse & Eastern Railroad Company to issue $1,137,114 in short-term promissory notes. The money is to be used for improvements.

VAN SCHAICK DEBTS $824,150.

One Claim for $297,000 Filed at Creditors' Meeting.

A meeting of creditors of Van Schaick & Co., stock brokers, of 7 Wall Street, was held yesterday at the office of John J. Townsend, referee in bankruptcy, at 45 Cedar Street, at which 125 creditors were either present or represented by attorneys. About 100 claims were filed, the largest being that of Gen. Charles F. Roe for $297,000, unsecured and outside of any sum which it is alleged may be a preference. Objection was raised against the voting of this claim for the election of a Trustee on the ground that he obtained a preference, and that he was a special partner in the firm. Charles Unangst filed sixty claims, aggregating $190,000. Another large creditor is James C. Atwater, $143,225. Mr. Unangst, who filed the petition against the firm, stated in answer to questions by the referee, that Eliot Norton, the assignee, has $60,000 cash in hand, that the loans have all been sold out, and the customers' accounts liquidated.

Beverly R. Robinson, Lloyd M. Howell, and Edward L. Patterson were nominated for Trustee, but no vote was taken. It was apparent that neither candidate would have a majority, and in consequence Referee Townsend said if he had to appoint he would appoint August N. Hand of 49 Wall Street, whereupon the names of Messrs. Howell and Patterson were withdrawn. After a long wrangle among the various large interests, an adjournment was taken to see if the attorneys could not come to some agreement on the selection of a Trustee. The schedules of the firm showed liabilities $824,150, and nominal assets $939,483.

Among the creditors mentioned on the schedules are James C. Atwater, $143,225; Charles Unangst, $49,400; Mrs. Katie Unangst, $18,677; estate of Martha C. Van Schaick, $32,880, secured; estate of Alice Newcomb, $10,144; S. H. Lyon, Baltimore, $17,672; P. C. Waters, Baltimore, $9,993; Frank H. Clark, Baltimore, $7,488; Victor H. Bridgman, Baltimore, $6,756; Charlotte L. Mackenzie, $12,732; Adelaide E. Sedgwick, $8,656; J. H. M. Smith, Southampton, England, $5,988; Robert W. Jennings, Juneau, Alaska, $6,952, and Fannie Dixon Welch, $8,915. Jenkins B. Van Schaick has individual liabilities $89,394, and assets $33,218, and Derby Crandall has individual liabilites $65,449, and assets $4,618. Mr. Van Schaick's seat in the New York Stock Exchange has been sold for $65,500, subject to liens of $38,800, and the Exchange is holding $26,700, pending a settlement of the liens.

Mr. Crandall was ordered to pay his wife $100 a month by an order signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Davis. Mrs. Crandall is suing for separation on the grounds of cruelty and abandonment. Crandall, in his defense, stated that he is doing all he can for his wife and son, but that he is having a hard struggle to make both ends meet. In addition Justice Davis ordered that Mrs. Crandall be allowed $150 counsel fees. The suit is to be tried next month.

STARTS CONEY ISLAND SUIT.

A. A. Wray Files Action Against Dreamland for the Morey Heirs.

The fight of Albert A. Wray, former Brooklyn Assemblyman, to obtain the greater part of Coney Island, which he declares belongs not to the present holders but to the heirs of Barnet Morey, was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court of Kings County. Notice of a suit was filed against Dreamland. This, according to Mr. Wray, is the first of a series of similar litigations.

In the Dreamland suit the following co-defendants were mentioned. The Title Guaranty and Trust Company, which holds the $750,000 mortgage on the property: the South Brooklyn Savings Bank, the Hamilton Trust Company, and the Williamsburg Savings Bank, all of which hold assigned parts of the mortgage. The President of the Dreamland Corporation is William A. Reynolds.

James E. Morey, Nina Hayes, and Elizabeth B. Pine are named as the principal heirs of the alleged Morey estate.

Charged with Customs Fraud.

Amin E. Bardwil of the firm of Bardwil Brothers of 90 Washington Street was arrested yesterday by Marshal Henkel on an indictment charging him with conspiracy to defraud the Government out of the full duty on importations from France of flax lace and embroidered lace women's wearing apparel. He was admitted to $5,000 bail, and then papers were served on him in a civil suit for $25,000, which the Government has begun to recover the value of the merchandise, which it declares was undervalued.

Mortimer L. Schiff Sued.

Supreme Court Justice Davis signed an order yesterday appointing Jacob Leinazzi, Sr., guardian ad litem for his son Jacob, a minor, for the purpose of bringing a suit for damages against Mortimer L. Schiff. The elder Leinazzi said that his son had been run down and injured by the banker's automobile on Feb. 17. Mr. Schiff was not in the car at the time. Leinazzi did not specify how much damages would be asked.

TAX APPRAISERS' REMOVAL GRADUAL

Business of the Office Running Smoothly in Spite of Two Changes in the Staff.

TO NAME TWO EXTRA MEN

Deputy State Controller Fraser Says Lawyers Are Often Responsible for Delays in Appraisals.

In spite of two changes in the staff of the transfer tax appraisers for New York County out of five, exclusively forecast in THE TIMES last Tuesday, Deputy State Controller Wallace S. Fraser said yesterday that the business of the office was running smoothly. The other changes will be made gradually.

"Although February is the shortest month in the year," he said, "we will exceed our record of appraisals filed in any given month by Feb. 28. We had 265 appraisals filed last Wednesday, on the eve of Washington's Birthday. We will run more than 300 before the month is over.

"This is the first time in the history of the office that our number of appraisals filed will exceed the number of estates designated by the Surrogates for appraisal. It means that this month we are ahead of our work. The previous showing of the office has been that we run from 400 to 500 appraisals behind every year. As soon as I have made the changes already contemplated in the office, we will proceed to catch up with our delayed work.

"One of the first steps after we have changed the staff of appraisers slated for removal, will be the appointment of the two extra appraisers authoried by the last Legislature. This will bring our staff up to eight, a number sufficient to handle the volume of work which comes into the office.

"Those interested in the appraisement of estates need have no fear that staff changes will cause any stagnation in the work of the office. We are not making changes suddenly. We are prepared for the two changes which go into erect Monday, when John V. Coggey will succeed W. Holden Weeks and Michael J. Garvan will succeed Headley M. Greene.

"One cause of delays in appraising estates—in fact, the principal one—is that attorneys for the estates neglect to follow our printed instructions and turn up without information or with defective papers. This necessitates an adjournment.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Classification of Various Kinds of Jewelry Under Tariff is Defined.

In partly sustaining a protest filed by Cohn & Rosenberger, the Board of United States General Appraisers laid down principles of interest to importers of jewelry. It is held that articles of personal adornment, composed in chief value of silver or brass, valued at 20 cents or more per dozen pieces, although ordinarily or commonly known as jewelry, are dutiable properly under the personal adornment paragraph of the Act of 1909 at the rate of 85 per cent., and not at 60 per cent., as alleged by the importers.

Similar articles of brass valued at less than 20 cents per dozen pieces, even if commonly known as jewelry, are dutiable at 45 per cent. ad valorem under the tariff provision for manufactures of metal. Jewelry intended for personal adornment, composed of brass, plated with gold or silver, brass being of more value than the gold, and set with imitation precious stones, are held dutiable at 85 per cent., irrespective of whether the precious or imitation stones are the components of chief value.

Judge Sharretts rules in his decision that silver ornaments, composed of silver set with gems, are provided for specifically in the present Tariff act, and are to be regarded for dutiable purposes as manufactures of metal with a tax of 45 per cent. In conclusion the decision says that the only articles of jewelry made dutiable at 60 per cent., are such as are composed of gold or platinum, set or unset.

REMY

Announcement

The Remy Electric Company of Anderson, Ind., announces to the motoring public a new Magneto (Type RD), smaller in size, lighter in weight and fully 50 per cent more efficient electrically.

The new REMY is the last word in magneto construction. The product of the best brains engaged in ignition designing and the most accurate workmanship that has been developed through years of experiments and tests in the greatest Magneto factory of the world.

The Inductor Type

You can certainly understand the tremendous advantage of the Inductor Type, the key to the great success of the REMY magneto. Instead of miles of wound wire revolving in limited space, causing all kinds of trouble to insulate, you have two laminated steel inductors revolving around a stationary winding.

It's as simple as a monkey wrench—and just as sturdy! Its efficiency is 100 per cent without discount, and it ignites just as surely at slow speed as it does at seventy miles per hour, and starts on a quarter turn without batteries. It is equally efficient at full retard and full advance.

The Remy Service

We maintain here a service station for the benefit of owners of Remy-equipped cars. Trained ignition experts will look after your troubles. Remy equipment will give absolute satisfaction when properly cared for and our service station experts are anxious to solve all your ignition difficulties.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Stronger—Copper Shares Prominent in the Trading.

BREAK IN REPUBLIC STEEL

Selling Attributed to Possible Dividend Reduction—Banks Again Lose Cash.

Sharply reversing the course which it followed on Wednesday, the stock market yesterday developed a considerable degree of strength in a number of issues, despite declines which occurred in one or two quarters of the list during the afternoon. Notable strength was shown by Amalgamated Copper, and in some of the other copper shares, and in connection with this the financial district heard of increasing demand for the metal, which lately has gone into consumption with sufficient rapidity materially to decrease the stocks of copper both here and abroad. Sales of the metal were made yesterday at a slight advance over recent quotations, and bids for forward delivery were being discussed in the copper trade as indications of an expanding tendency in the consumption requirements of copper. A further rise in General Electric and in Westinghouse, although the improvement in the latter was lost in the final trading, helped to increase the favorable sentiment of the day in respect to the copper shares. The Wheeling & Lake Erie stocks all showed net gains in excess of a point, partly attributed to recent improvement in the earnings of this property and partly to the hope of an early adjustment of the reorganization problems with which the Wheeling & Lake Erie and Pittsburgh Terminal, which controls it, have been struggling for several years. The three or four most active stocks all made net gains, the Union Pacific's advance of more than a point and the rise in United States Steel and in Reading helping to give to the market a tone of general strength.

Most conspicuous among the declines of the day was the 3-point net loss in Republic Iron and Steel preferred, and lesser declines in the company's common stock. The date has not yet been fixed for the meeting of the company's Directors, at which action will be taken on the preferred stock dividend, but the loss which this stock suffered yesterday helped, naturally, to strengthen belief in the probability of a reduction from the present 7 per cent. rate. The past week has brought no material change in the steel trade, but the continued irregularity of prices and the known fact that during the last six months of 1911 the Republic Iron and Steel Company did not quite earn its preferred stock dividend, are the facts upon which current expectations regarding a reduction in the payment to the preferred stockholders is based. The company's management is understood to be of the opinion that a temporary reduction in the dividend would be preferable to drawing to any substantial extent upon the company's surplus for the payment of dividends.

Another loss in the cash holdings of the banks was indicated by the usual weekly estimates of the currency movements, owing, principally, to the payments by the banks to the Sub-Treasury during the week. Arrangements for further gold shipments to South America pointed to a continuance of this movement, which represents the round-about settlement of European debts to Argentina. In this decline in the cash holdings at this centre, and in the shifting to investments in bonds and short term securities of a large amount of funds, which under normal conditions would be finding employment in the time money market, two factors are operating which tend to harden the rates for time loans. A third element in the situation is the lending of American money abroad, which is still going on in response to the bids which the German and English markets are making. One of the incidents of the day in the bond market was demand for Panama Canal 3 per cent. bonds, which have improved a substantial fraction over the lowest price quoted for the bonds since their issue. Purchases for tax purposes have played a part in this buying.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Sufficiency of Cooks.

If the Père Marquette does not reform very shortly and show a surplus for the stockholders it will not be because of the lack of supervision. As a result of yesterday's meeting the road now has a Chairman of its Executive Committee, as well as a Chairman of the board, a President, and the usual quota of minor officials. It is likely that the employes along the line will not remain long in doubt as to who the operating head of the property is. Mr. Erb had hardly been elected to his new position when he mapped out his itinerary for an inspection trip of every part of the road. "When I come back I think I can tell you what condition the property is in," he said.

⁂

Bank Exchanges Not Bad.

Although the total of bank clearings all over the United States, $2,387,646,897, as reported to Dun's Review, shows a falling off of 0.6 as compared with the corresponding week in 1911 and of 4.0 as compared with the same period in 1910, the showing cannot be considered bad from the point of view of business when the extreme stagnation in the speculative markets is taken into account in conjunction with the fact that leaving New York out of the count the returns from the country at large are greater than in this week either in 1911 or 1910. As compared with 1911, for instance, the figures show a loss of 5.6 per cent. at New York, but a gain of 10.2 outside of this city. Compared with 1910 the figures are 7.5 per cent. less for New York and but 3.0 per cent. better for the outside cities.

⁂

Sagging Bond Totals.

Until yesterday, the total of bond transactions on the Stock Exchange had kept ahead since Jan. 1 of the business for the corresponding period last year. While the trading in this department continues to be well diversified, indicating a broad interest in the bond market, the aggregate of the transactions from the first of the year to date are now less than they were for the same period in 1911. The margin of difference between this year's and last year's bond market has been gradually lessening for several weeks, but there are several factors which make the apparent unfavorable comparison which has now arrived less impressive. At this time last year the activity of the stock market added to the interest in the convertible bond issues, and again there was lively trading in the "when issued" contracts for the new city 4¼s, which, being printed by a concern not having the approval of the Stock Exchange authorities, never have been admitted to trading in the final form. Aside from these special activities which swelled the total, the aggregate of interest in the general list remains fully as keen as at this time last year.

⁂

Copper Buying Again.

After a period of stagnation since the acceleration of buying, induced by the sharp reductions in stocks last Fall, the copper market is again active, and once more there is talk of a further rise above the present price of 14½ cents. That stocks are down to the lowest level in the past few years is an old story, but whether the increased production which is looked for in the Spring and Summer will be sufficient to take care of the demand is becoming the more immediate question.

⁂

Coal Buying Heavy.

With an English coal strike threatened and the termination of the agreement between the anthracite workers and operators only a little more than a month off with its possibility of trouble in both the hard and soft coal fields, the buying of coal of both varieties here has been sharply increased. Some of the railroads in the West are reported as laying in substantial supplies of steam coal, and the demand is further increased by buying for export on the part of frightened consumers who anticipate a shut-down in England.

⁂

Movements of the Averages.

Although the tendency of the railroad issues was upward yesterday as shown by the course of the average prices of twenty-five representative railroad stocks, the industrials sagged further. The mean average of the railroads yesterday, at 89.79, was 0.05 points above that of Wednesday but 0.28 below the high level of the week, reached on Tuesday. The mean of the industrials at 62.61 was 0.09 points below Wednesday's and 0.24 below Tuesday's. The averages, with comparisons, show:

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday trading continued quiet, with prices on about a parity with Wednesday's closing. Tin was up ⅛c in the bid and ¼c in the asking price.

The closing bid and asked prices follow:

Standard copper—	Friday. Bid.	Friday. Asked.	Wednesday. Bid.	Wednesday. Asked.
Spot	14.00	14.10	14.00	14.10
February	14.05	14.10	14.07½	14.12½
March	14.07½	14.12½	14.07½	14.15
April	14.07½	14.15	14.07½	14.15
Lead	4.00	4.10	4.00	4.10
Spelter	6.50	6.75	6.50	6.75
Tin	42.90	43.25	42.75	43.00

The following table of prices obtained yesterday on the Metal Exchange in London, for spot and future deliveries of copper and pig tin. These final prices compare with Thursday's closing range:

	Friday. £	s.	d.	Thursday. £	s.	d.
Copper, spot	63	12	6	63	15	0
Copper, futures	64	7	6	64	8	9
Pig tin, spot	195	0	0	196	5	0
Pig tin, futures	191	10	0	192	0	0

The market ended quiet. Spanish pig lead was up 1s 3d to £15 10s 3d. Spelter was down 2s 6d at £26 10s. Cleveland warrants were unchanged at 49s 3d.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Prices Generally Firm in Day of Dull Trading in Markets of Other Cities.

QUAKER OATS RISE TO 236

Stock Advances 16 Points in Chicago on Report of Large Earnings—Lake Superior Strong in Philadelphia.

Trading was sluggish and featureless at Baltimore, but prices were firm.

The Boston stock market was not very active, and changes in prices were small, but the copper stocks were fairly active and decidedly strong. The local coppers were not particularly active, but Utah Copper, Isle Royale, and others were strong. The mining stocks were firm. Telephone was strong because of the statement attributed to President Taft that he did not believe in the public ownership of the telephone lines.

An advance of 16 points in the price of Quaker Oats common shares overshadowed all else on the Chicago Stock Exchange. After opening at 227½, compared with 220 for the last sale more than a week ago, the shares advanced to 236, where they closed. The preferred opened unchanged at 107½, and advanced to 109⅝. The strong inquiry met by meagre offerings was attributed to the company's showing of nearly 25 per cent. earned on the common stock in the statement issued Wednesday. Aside from this the list was rather featureless. Sears-Roebuck fluctuated above and below the previous final price, closing unchanged at 151, and other shares generally were unchanged or only fractionally changed from the preceding close. In bonds there was initial trading in the newly listed City and Connecting Railways collateral 5s at 91½@91⅝.

From the opening to the close, Lake Superior was the feature of the Philadelphia trading. A sharp rise was accompanied by the report that the Canadian Government is preparing to give a bounty on iron to enable makers on that side of the boundary line to compete with the United States Steel and other American concerns. Next in point of interest was the further advance in Tonopah Belmont. The quotation crossed 10, a new high point in the history of the stock, and the Street heard that the dividend was to be increased or an "extra" disbursement announced at the next dividend meeting.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Trading on the Consolidated Stock Exchange ended with the market strong and shorts in retreat all around the room. It was evident early in the session that the selling movement of Wednesday had spent its force on that day. Prices, after a brief display of softness, rallied well. In the afternoon, when the Republic Steel shares experienced a sharp decline, there was little or no unsettlemnt in the general list. Amalgamated Copper was exceptionally strong, its advance being accelerated by talk of improvement in the trade position of the metal.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The stockholders of the Electric Bond and Share Company have elected Alexander J. Hemphill, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, and E. W. Hill, Treasurer of the company, to the Directorate, to succeed George B. Moffat and Alden M. Young, both deceased.

Stockholders of the Underwood Typewriter Company have elected Sylvester C. Dunham, President of the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, a Director to succeed A. R. Eskine, resigned. Other Directors were re-elected.

The Board of the Washington Trust Company at their meeting yesterday elected these Directors: William A. Nash, Walter E. Frew, George E. Ide, Roswell L. Eldridge, and Harry K. Knapp. Mr. Nash is Chairman and Mr. Frew President of the Corn Exchange Bank.

L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson Company, has been elected a trustee of the American Surety Company. The company has obtained the services of William M. Tomlins, Jr., formerly President of the Empire State Surety Company of New York, who will be attached to its home office, 100 Broadway.

Engraved certificates representing the Missouri Pacific equipment notes, Series 2, dated Nov. 1, 1911, with coupons attached and similar certificates representing Iron Mountain equipment notes, Series 2, dated November, 1911, are ready for delivery at the Central Trust Company upon surrender of the temporary certificates.

Williams, McConnell & Coleman of 60 Wall Street have issued a booklet describing a number of public utility companies as investments.

The Guaranty Trust Company is offering at a price to net about 5.15 per cent. the first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the Central Arkansas & Eastern Railroad Company guaranteed by the St. Louis Southwestern Railway system.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Money Quiet and Discount Rates Steady in London—Coal Trade Situation Affects Market.

CONSOLS AND RAILS DECLINE

Underground Rails Steady and Copper Shares Advance—Paris Bourse Heavy—Berlin Trading Weak.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 24.—The London Times, in its city article this morning, says:

"There was no change in the rate for day-to-day advances or short fixtures, but money was distinctly less scarce. Only trifling business in short paper was done by the market. Discount rates gave way about 1-16 of 1 per cent. under the pressure of increased demand for bills, due to the somewhat larger amount of money in the market's hands.

"Continental exchanges were firm, and some further increase of ease may perhaps be looked for to-day, owing to the maturing of $17,000,000 in Treasury bills, though the market does not appear to hold very many of them.

"Although the stock markets on the whole were again very idle, there were several items of interest. Home railway stocks opened lower, and after a temporary recovery again relapsed into a condition of dullness. It is the general opinion in the market that the outlook in the coal trade has not improved.

"Consols were weaker, partly from sympathy with the heaviness of the home railway market, and partly on the news of a big Canadian loan, which is expected almost immediately.

"Continental Bourses did very little, and the same remark applies to Wall Street.

"Shell transport shares were a subject for profit-taking. Some disappointment was expressed at the terms of the new issue of Shells Transport capital.

"Buying orders, said to be on Eastern account, imparted a slightly firmer tone to the market for Rubber shares."

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Money was quiet and discount rates were steady to-day.

The stock market was irregular. Nervousness developed in the British section over the coal trade situation. Consols and home rails declined, but underground rails were steady exceptions. The other sections were mostly steady, with copper shares leading a slight advance.

American securities were dull during the first hour of trading. Later the Wall Street opening caused small recessions, and the market closed dull. Amalgamated Copper was firm.

Money, 3¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3⅝ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3 7-16@3½ per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 7.65; at Lisbon, 9.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The Bourse opened firm to-day. Later the market reacted and closed heavy.

Three per cent. rentes, 94 francs 92½ centimes for the account.

Exchange on London, 25 francs 27 centimes for checks.

Private rate of discount, 3 per cent.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Trading was quiet and prices were weaker on the Boerse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 49½ pfennigs for checks.

Money, 4 per cent.

Private discount rate, 3⅞ per cent.

The total balance in the general fund was $119,631,172.

PLAN STEEL EXTENSION.

$6,500,000 to be Expended on Edgar Thomson Plant at Braddock.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Feb. 23.—Extensive plans for improvements to the Edgar Thomson plant of the Carnegie Steel Company in Braddock are being prepared by the engineers and officials of the company, which will require the expenditure of over $6,500,000 and will bring back to that plant, it is expected, the activity that marked its busy seasons when steel rails were the chief product and were shipped into markets now covered by other plants of the United States Steel Corporation. It will mean also the employment of many more men.

The new plans contemplate the building of an extensive open hearth steel works sufficient to supply all of this quality of steel needed for filling orders for open hearth steel rails which the Braddock mills are being required to roll now, and which is steadily increasing as the export trade grows.

Interborough Reduces Bond Issue.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company has altered its bond issue plan. Last December it was authorized by the Public Service Commission to issue $12,755,000 of bonds under its $55,000,000 mortgage. It had, however, already outstanding, to secure 6 per cent. short term notes, bonds to the value of $5,500,800. As these notes were paid off last year, the bonds were surrendered and released to the company. The commission approved yesterday the use of these old bonds for the purposes of the new issue, and reduced the latter from $12,755,000 to $7,254,200.

NO EXCHANGE MERGER ON.

Produce Exchange President Says Rumor Is Based on Member's Petition.

Rumors of a possible consolidation of the Produce Exchange with one or more of the other Exchanges in the financial district were set at rest yesterday by a statement from President E. R. Carhart, who explained that the suggestions had come from a member, who did no more than exercise his right of petition. The Produce Exchange, which has lost a good deal of the grain business to Chicago in the last generation, has plenty of spare space on its board floor in the big building at Bowling Green. It is the largest board room in the city, if not in this country, and when the Stock Exchange was putting up its new building on Broad Street, near Wall, the Produce Exchange was able to accommodate the stock brokers in daily session on part of its floor without missing the space they occupied.

Before the Consolidated Exchange built a new home for itself at the corner of Broad and Beaver Streets there was some talk of a merger of the two Exchanges. Likewise, there was some agitation two years ago for a merger of the Produce Exchange and the Curb market, and the grain brokers did start a stock department, which, however, never seriously threatened the prestige of the Curb.

President Carhart yesterday had this to say of the latest rumor:

"The Exchange has recently appointed a committee to consider a communication received from a member of the Exchange which had in it a number of suggestions which could not be considered in open board session, and, following the custom of the board, the communication was referred to a committee, to consider the whole matter and report back to the board thereon.

"Among the suggestions was one calling for consolidation with the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Every member of the Exchange has the right of petition to the Board of Managers, and the Board of Managers will always consider any communication from a member of the Exchange. The importunate demands from one or two members for a long time that such a consolidation be effected has made it appear that the Produce Exchange is anxious to have it brought about. The truth of the matter is, however, that the proposition, so far as I can see, is not taken seriously on the Exchange. The Exchange itself is in splendid condition, is abundantly able to take care of its present membership, all the business they now do, and much more along the same lines, and the present management, believing that the function of the Exchange is commercial rather than financial, has bent all its efforts to improve the general and port conditions, so as to favor the business now transacted by our members. The record of last year's grain business in New York proves the wisdom of that course.

"Being business men, members of the Produce Exchange and its officials are always willing to consider propositions of a business character, either as individuals or as an Exchange, but in connection with this matter we have received no proposition, nor have we made any."

NATIONAL CITY'S 100TH YEAR.

It Will Be Up Next Summer, When Pension Announcement Is Expected.

Ever since the National City Bank authorities decided, on the advice of life insurance actuaries that the pension plan they had been expecting to put in force with the new year was liberal to the point of disaster, the four hundred or more employes have been wondering how long it would be held in abeyance.

It is now the belief among the prospective beneficiaries that President Vanderlip is holding back the announcement of the plan to help make memorable the 100th anniversary of the funding of the bank which will be celebrated this Summer. The National City Bank, which is now the largest in the United States, received its first charter June 16, 1812, and opened for business Sept. 14, 1812. The officers of the bank are now compiling a centennial history of the institution. There are only three banks now in existence, the Merchants National Bank, the Bank of the Manhattan Company, and the Bank of New York, which were in existence when the National City Bank started business.

WOULD LOWER SUGAR TARIFF.

National Canners' Association Considers Present Schedule Unfair.

The National Canners' Association is asking Congress to lower the duty on sugar. F. C. Lowry, Secretary of a committee charged with the duty of obtaining the reduction, is quoted in the current issue of The American Grocer as saying that the first cost of beet sugar, based on 15 per cent. sugar beets, getting 85 per cent. extraction, is 2.06 cents per pound. Allowing 1 cent a pound for cost of manufacturing, it is not a difficult matter to produce beet sugar at a cost around 3 cents a pound.

"As the process of turning sugar beets into sugar is," he says, "a purely mechanical one, it cannot be contended that the high price of American labor materially increases the cost of operating a beet sugar factory, as it is the boast of the beet sugar manufacturers that from the time the beets enter the factory on one side and refined sugar is ready for shipment at the other side it is not touched by human hand."

Mr. Lowry says that the present tariff is not for the legitimate protection of the industry, nor is it an equitable revenue measure.

Must Trade Under Incorporated Name

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—Attorney General Carmody in an opinion to-day holds that a company incorporated in this State is entitled to use only the corporate name stated in its certificate of incorporation, and it cannot do business under other corporate names.

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Trading Limited, but Prices Show Strength.

Trading in the curb market yesterday was in limited volume yesterday, but prices were generally firm. In the mining list there were a number of small gains among the coppers on light trading. Bonds were less active, but closed generally higher.

ANSWERS STANDARD OIL SUIT

Waters-Pierce Co. Says Proposed Directors Don't Own Stock.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 23.—The answer of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company in the mandamus suit of the Rockefeller-Standard Oil interests was filed in the Circuit Court to-day. It charges that the Rockefeller faction is trying to obtain control of the Waters-Pierce Company for the purpose of perpetuating the oil monopoly condemned by the United States Supreme Court in its decree ordering the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The fight for control of the Waters-Pierce Company developed at the annual stockholders' meeting a week ago when the Standard Oil interests tried to elect Robert W. Stewart, George W. Mayer, and C. M. Adams to the Directorate for the purpose of ousting H. Clay Pierce as head of the company.

When the Pierce tellers refused to record the Standard Oil votes the mandamus suit was filed. The answer of the Pierce faction asserts that neither of the proposed Standard Oil Directors owns any stock in his own right in the Waters-Pierce Company, but that one share each has been transferred to them to enable them to qualify as Directors.

TENNESSEE COPPER'S YEAR.

Surplus in 1911 Increased, and Still Better Business Now Expected.

The annual report of the Tennessee Copper Company for the year ended Dec. 31 shows total receipts of $577,927 compared with $547,157 in the previous year. After an allowance of $170,878 for depreciation charges, &c., compared with $101,770 for the same item in 1910, there remained net profits of $407,049.

After charging off $40,000 to general reserve there remained a surplus of $367,049 compared with $20,387 in the previous year. The total surplus at the close of 1911 was $1,688,428. The report explains delays in operation due to a fire, and President Frederick Lewisohn states that this combined with the low price of copper made operations less satisfactory than had been hoped for. He concludes:

"I am pleased to report that during the last three months of the year 49,662 tons of acid were produced, or at the rate of 200,000 tons per year. This rate of production is continuing, and it can thus be confidently expected that the results for the year 1912 will be eminently satisfactory."

Cash Register Men Bailed.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 23.—Twelve Dayton officials and employes of the National Cash Register Company, including John H. Patterson, President of the firm, appeared in United States Judge Hollister's court to day to give bail at $5,000 each for their appearance on April 2. Their pleas will not be made until that date.

NEWMAN ERB GETS THE PERE MARQUETTE

Assumes Active Management of the Line and Expects to Turn Deficit to Dividends.

HE POINTS OUT THE WAY

Plans for a Great System That Hawley's Death Disrupted Appear to be Taken Up Again.

Newman Erb, whose ambitious plans for the development of a new railroad system through the Midle West, to run from the Canadian border to Galveston, Texas, were thought to have been halted and, perhaps, finally terminated by the sudden death of Edwin Hawley, has obtained what amounts to control of the Père Marquette Railroad. As a result he has more than doubled the mileage under his direction.

At a meeting of the Père Marquette heard yesterday Mr. Erb was made a Director, and a new office was created for him, that of Chairman of the Executive Committee. George W. Perkins remains as Chairman of the board, and William Cotter as President of the road, but Mr. Erb is to have an absolutely free hand in the management of the property.

In February a year ago, J. P. Morgan & Co. acquired control of the Père Marquette through taking over $11,000,000 from the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton's $14,332,000 of common stock outstanding. At various times since then it has been rumored that either the Chesapeake & Ohio, or Edwin Hawley and a syndicate acting for that company, were to buy this stock from J. P. Morgan & Co. Following the death of Mr. Hawley, a few weeks ago, it was definitely stated by a Director of the Chesapeake & Ohio that all thought of a deal for the Père Marquette had been given up. The announcement of the new arrangement with Mr. Erb came as a surprise yesterday afternoon.

So far as could be learned control of the road, which rests with the $11,000,000 block of stock, remains with Morgan & Co., for the present at least. Neither that firm, Mr. Erb, nor any of the independent Directors would say last night to what extent, if any, Mr. Erb had increased his interest. He has been a shareholder for a number of years, and was Vice President and Acting President of the road seven years ago. Immediately after yesterday's meeting the new Chairman made arrangements for a thorough inspection of the property, and will leave New York to-morrow morning for a week's trip over the line.

Erb Experts to Make it Pay.

The Pere Marquette operates 2,368 miles, mostly in the State of Michigan, with a continuous line from Buffalo to Chicago. It connects with the Ann Arbor, of which road Mr. Erb is Chairman, at Toledo, where it also connects with the Chesapake & Ohio, controlled by friendly interests. Operated independently, it has not been a paying enterprise. At the end of January it had run $719,000 behind its fixed charges to date. In the one month of January, operating expenses were $1,186,000 and gross revenues only $1,157,000, making its operating ratio for that month considerably above 100 per cent. For the seven months' period its ratio was 77 per cent.

Mr. Erb said last evening that there was plenty of business for the Pere Marquette, and that its expenses had been unduly high because of congestion in its service. "The road has not been able to move its cars," he said. "Its daily car movement average has been far below the figure for other lines similiarlylocated. That has caused unnecessary per diem charges. Last year the road spent over $600,000 for this one item. I see no reason why the operating ratio cannot be brought down to 70 per cent., and a surplus for dividends earned."

To give Mr. Erb an opportunity to show what he could do in the reorganization of the road, the Directors adopted a resolution giving him supervising control of the executive and administrative affairs of the company, which includes both the financial and operating departments. Associated with him on the Executive Committee will be William Cotter, President of the road; Francis R. Hart, L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson; George W. Perkins, William H. Porter, of Morgan & Co.; Norman B. Ream, and Frederick W. Stevens.

Reasons for Its Decline.

Mr. Erb made this statement yesterday:

Until 1911 the Pere Marquette had not prepared for the natural development and increase of its business, and was endeavoring to meet about 25 per cent. traffic expansion without any corresponding increase of its facilities or adequate improvements for economical operation required by the gradual reduction of rates and increase of wages in recent years; but during the last calendar year the company expended upward of $2,000,000 in revision of grades, double tracking 47 miles of the main line, adding 25 miles of siding and passing tracks, new roundhouses, enlargement of machine shops, many new steel bridges, and other important improvements. It also bought 60 locomotives and added to its passenger equipment, involving a total for improvements and equipment of upward of $3,000,000.

This development work has only just been completed. The company has, therefore, not yet reaped the benefit. Besides, during the improvement work, traffic moved under difficulties, involving expensive delays and added transportation cost. Indeed, at times and for considerable periods, embargoes were placed on through business.

It may now be confidently expected that the "turn of the tide" with this property is at hand, and that the results of operation from now on will approach the normal ratio of operating cost with corresponding surplus in line with its neighboring roads.

Mr. Erb is a large stockholder in the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, with which the enlarged Minneapolis & St. Louis will connect at St. Louis when the new north and south transcontinental system is completed.

238 Business Failures This Week.

Bradstreet's reports 238 business failures in the United States during the week, against 305 for the previous week, and 228, 254, 244, and 311 for the corresponding weeks of 1911 to 1908. The Middle States had 67, New England 21, Southern 74, Western 38, Northwestern 19, and Far Western 19. Canada had 25, against 31 for the preceding week. About 90 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had capital of $5,000 or less, and 7 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

NO DELAY ON TEA STANDARDS

Board Meeting in Washington Will Be in Time for Buyers.

H. Perry, of Francis H. Leggett & Co., the New York member of the new Tea Board, told a TIMES reporter yesterday that he had received a call to attend the first meeting of the new board at Washington on Feb. 27. When asked if there was any real ground for the fears expressed by some tea merchants that the board might not be able to establish tea standards before it was time for buyers to start on their annual trips to the Far East a big tea importer said:

"Mr. Perry, I am sure, anticipates no such delay as would interfere with buyers being served with definite knowledge of the standards before they depart."

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Wheat and Corn Higher, Oats Quiet, Cotton, Coffee, and Pork Down.

Wheat advanced on some crop complaints and apprehension of small farm reserves. Corn improved with better interior demand and higher cash markets. Oats were dull. Provisions weakened on heavy packing statistics. Cotton declines on liquidation by scattered longs. Bulls gave little support, and encouraging statistics together with favorable spot news were factors void of lasting influence. Coffee displaying considerable weakness. European advices were disappointing and recent buyers sold freely.

WHEAT.

After a day of rather quiet trading the wheat market developed strength the last hour, and closed at the best of the day and at prices about ⅝c over the close Wednesday. The advance in the market was partly attributable to the strength in corn. There were also some crop complaints from the Central West, and more attention was given to the question of farm reserves. Reports were current claiming limited farm reserves, one claim from the Northwest being that the reserves were the smallest on record. Such predictions carried weight, as statistically the movement from farmers' hands this year, in view of the smaller crop, would point to comparatively limited farm reserves. As the figures are reported on a percentage basis of the crop raised last year an error in the crop would be carried through into the reserves. The heavy receipts in the Northwest, if the official crop estimates are correct, would mean a very small Spring wheat reserve, although some private estimates claim a crop 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels more than the Government for the three dates. The Modern Miller report was somewhat unfavorable, claiming crop damage in the soft Winter wheat States, but favorable prospect in hard Winter wheat States. The Price Current reported weather conditions favorable for the wheat. The Bradstreet's exports for the past week were 2,387,000 bushels; Argentina, 2,408,000 bushels, the largest of the season; Australian, 1,704,000 bushels, and India, 752,000 bushels. The indications for the world's exports were 9,200,000 bushels, about 3,000,000 bushels less than last year. Foreign grain markets were inactive. No export business was reported. No. 2 red was quoted at $1.02⅞, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.20⅝; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.10⅞; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.16¼.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The market was very firm all day, closing at the best at ⅓ to ⅝c net gain. Offerings were smaller of contracts, and a good commission house demand developed, with shorts good buyers. Cash corn was reported stronger through the West, with a better demand. Export interest was limited, however, and no business reported. The receipts for the day were somewhat less than last week, due evidently to the very severe weather conditions of the past few days. The exports for the week were very small, amounting to only 905,000 bushels, or less than half of last year. No. 2 corn was quoted at 72⅝c, free on board; No. 3, 71½c, export, elevator; steamer, 71c.

OATS.—The market was very quiet all day, closing steady with other grain. Cash demand was slow. Western receipts were relatively liberal, while the interior shipments this week have been somewhat disappointing. Cash oats were dull but steady with standards, No. 2 whites and No. 3 whites quoted at 60c, elevator.

PROVISIONS.

Trading was slow, with the market rather heavy, due to a somewhat easier hog market, although total receipts at all points were only 88,000, partly due to the weather. Packing for the week was 720,000, a gain of 255,000 over last year, and since Nov. 1, 11,150,000, a gain of 3,000,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Apart from a fair degree of firmness in the near positions, there was little feature to yesterday's oil market. February sold at five points' premium, as compared with the March delivery, which was taken as a fair indication of underlying strength in the spot position. Crude continues to be well held at 4.60@4.67 in the Southeast and valley, and it is apparent that the irregular consuming trade is sufficient to care for the surplus oil at this time. Opinions are very much mixed, particularly in regard to the March delivery, some claiming that with the circulation of tenders there will be much enforced liquidation, while in other quarters it is asserted that leading refining interests are bullish, and will stop notices as received. Next Monday will be first tender-day for March contracts.

COTTON.

Due primarily to an absence of effective support, rather than the character of news advices, the undertone to yesterday's cotton market was soft, and prices sagged almost continuously. Starting with but insignificant changes as compared with the close before the holiday, the list at the low of the day was from 10 to 15 points decline. The major part of these losses were maintained at the finals, although a slight rallying tendency was seen for a time, on more bullish statistics than had been anticipated. Support from spot concerns was witnessed at intervals, but this was rather perfunctory, and there was considerable selling by the South, Wall Street, and other trailing longs.

Liverpool advices presented no special feature. The future market abroad was about as expected with a continuance of a limited spot business, sales amounting to only 7,000 bales. Manchester reported yarns and cloths quiet and firm, and while some authorities cabled that there were liberal spinners' takings, others stated that spinners were fairly well stocked for the time being, this view receiving the most credence, taking into account the daily spot sales at Liverpool. Advices pertaining to the coal strike situation are still conflicting, although a more hopeful view appears to be taken of conditions, there being intimations that Government intervention was likely next week, while from other sources the knowledge was forwarded that the strike had been postponed for two weeks.

Southern spot markets were generally unchanged, and private dispatches are mainly indicative of a firm undertone. Several indicate that the volume of unsold cotton is not burdensome, and from sections where stocks are heavy it was claimed that the inquiry seems to be of a more eager character than the disposition of holders to sell. The New York spot market was .05 decline, at 10.45c. Fairly favorable weather prevailed throughout all sections for the advancement of new-crop preparations. The monthly weather report for Texas was bullishly interpreted. At 189 stations the average rainfall for January was shown to have been only .51 inch, which was 1.38 inches less than the January normal, and only once in twenty-five years has the precipitation been less than this. This was in the small crop year 1909-10, the season of many drought complaints from the Southwest. During December last year, however, it is conceded that the soil in Texas received a good fall of beneficial moisture.

Spinners' takings this week were the largest, with one or two exceptions, amounting to 463,000 bales, compared with 386,000 bales the previous week, and 275,000 bales last year. The into-sight was 374,000 bales, about the same as last week, but more than 200,000 bales greater than last year, with the total since Sept. 1 12,923,000 bales, against 10,508,000 bales last year, and 8,807,000 bales two years ago. Domestic yarn reports continue encouraging. Bombay receipts are slightly in excess of those of last year, despite the crop shortage in India. Japan has taken 362,000 bales thus far this season, against 122,000 bales last season. Future prices locally follow:

COFFEE.

Coffee opened at a decline of 4 to 6 points and continued to sag, closing barely steady at bottom at a net loss of 12 to 18 points. One prominent house with foreign connections sold March quite freely, while traders who bought the March sold the later positions. The selling was believed to be the result of continued liberal receipts in Brazil, where Sao Paulo reported 81,000 bags for Tuesday and Wednesday while Jundiahy had 18,000 for the two days, and for Thursday Sao Paulo received 10,000, against 5,000 a year ago, and Jundiahy 5,000 compared with 1,700. Havre closed unchanged to ½ franc lower, while Hamburg declined ¼ to ½ pfennig. Rio was 79 reis lower and Santos was unchanged.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Commenting on general business conditions, Dun's Review says:

A large volume of business is doing, but because it does not break previous records and does not progressively and steadily increase, there is a disposition to describe trade conditions as less than satisfactory; whereas the situation is, in fact, as good as could reasonably be expected in a year when a Presidential campaign tends to retard enterprise. Outside of this quadrennial influence there is no ground for loud complaint. The dry goods trade in both of its divisions—cotton and woolen—displays increased interest, activity, and strength. The milder weather has benefited the distribution of merchandise. The general situation of labor is improved; there is a large surplus of labor in some cities, but in other places there is a deficiency. A better distribution would relieve distress. Agricultural conditions are promising, and a heavy fall of snow makes for improvement. Leather is in fair demand and firm. The railroad freight movement is satisfactory in spite of the season, and during two weeks of February gross earnings increased 4.3 per cent. Foreign commerce from the port of New York, nearly one-half that of the country, amounted in the latest week to $37,391,527, against $33,437,405 in 1911, and $27,727,723 in 1910. The exports of cotton goods are noticeably heavy.

Bradstreet's says:

Many visiting buyers have been in the leading markets this week, and as a result house trade has shown further slight expansion, with dry goods and millinery figuring to best advantage. On the other hand, road sales have been deterred by unfavorable weather conditions, heavy snowstorms, high winds, rains, and low temperatures over a wide area of the country having militated against easy traveling and free traffic movements. The West and Southwest have suffered most from adverse meteorological conditions, and where early Spring sales at retail were beginning to enlarge, setbacks have been experienced, though Winter goods were helped to a good degree, thus making further inroads on already light stocks. Moreover, visiting buyers still display a noteworthy leaning to conservatism, and such being the case, the outlook tends to favor steady rather than voluminous trade.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

SAMUEL FEDER.—Judge Hand has dismissed a petition filed on Dec. 21 against Samuel Feder, tailor, of 44 Eldridge Street, on a settlement with creditors.

BANKRUPTCY SALES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHern District of New York.—In the matter of ENOS COMPANY, Bankrupt.—No. 15,678.—In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of the above-named bankrupt and all other parties whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that the personal property belonging to the estate of and now owned or controlled by the above-named bankrupt, as a running business or otherwise, exclusive of cash at that time in the hands of the Trustee, will be sold upon sealed bid or bids, as hereinafter set forth, under the direction of Archibald Douglas, Trustee of the Enos Company, Bankrupt, at private sale, all said bids to be submitted to the Trustee in Bankruptcy, at his office, No. 280 Broadway, New York City, on or before the 2d day of April, A. D. 1912, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The general description of said property to be sold is as follows:

All the right, title, and interest of the Trustee in and to the personal property of said bankrupt contained in the six-story factory building erected on premises 125x75 feet at the southeast corner of Sixteenth Street and Seventh Avenue, consisting of full equipment, including contents of foundry and press room, dies, stampings, photographs, drawings, etc., for the manufacture of electrical and other lighting fixtures, and also including a large stock of manufactured goods, electric lighting fixtures, single lamps, electroliers and other attachments, glassware, etc., and materials used in manufacturing the same, together with machinery, tools, utensils, office furniture, and fixtures, and also all the right, title, and interest of the Trustee in and to all of the following property: Horses, wagons, trucks, harness, etc., and all other personal property of the bankrupt not hereinbefore specifically mentioned, and including the right, title, and interest of the Trustee in and to the good will, processes and trade marks, copyrights and designs, also including all bills and accounts receivable as of March 15, 1912.

Said personal property may be inspected at the factory and salesroom of the bankrupt in the Enos Building, at the corner of Sixteenth Street and Seventh Avenue, New York City, and further particulars may be obtained and a copy of an appraisal may be seen by application to Archibald Douglas, Trustee, at No. 280 Broadway, New York City, and to Messrs. Moses, Morris & Henderson, attorneys for the Trustee, No. 32 Liberty Street, New York City.

Bids will be received for all of said property or any portion thereof, or for the accounts receivable separately, and any and all bids will be considered and submitted to the creditors for their consideration at a meeting to be held for that purpose at the office of the Referee, Peter B. Olney, Esq., 68 William Street, New York City, on the 5th day of April, A. D. 1912, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, but the Trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

If bids are made for all or any part of the property as a going concern, such bids may be conditioned upon a lease being secured from the landlord of the property now occupied by the Enos Company at Sixteenth Street and Seventh Avenue, New York City, to lease to such purchaser said premises.

In the meantime the Trustee will continue to run the factory, and the same may be taken over as a going concern.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check for 10% of the amount of the bid, and bids for cash or on credit may be entertained at the option of the referee.

All creditors and parties interested are requested to attend at the meeting of the creditors at the office of the Referee on the said 5th day of April, A. D. 1912, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and express themselves as to the rejection or acceptance of any or all bids.

The Trustee reserves the right to withdraw any of the said property from sale unless it brings at least 75% of the appraised value thereof and to reject any and all bids therefor.

Unless the property is purchased as a going concern and taken over as such by the purchaser, and contracts undertaken by the Trustee assumed by the purchaser, the Trustee reserves the right to complete all said contracts, to operate the factory in the completion of said contracts, and to reserve such materials and other supplies as may be necessary for the completion of said contracts.

Dated New York, February 24th, 1912.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

$1,800,000 Loft Deal on East Twenty-third Street—Investor Buys Pictorial Review Building Near Times Square—New School Site for Children's Aid Society—Manhattanville Apartment Sale.

A lease for 105 years, aggregating $1,250,000 for the first twenty-one-year period, and which will also lead to the development of a large Twenty-third Street plot near Fourth Avenue, has just been concluded for a syndicate known as the 114 East Twenty-third Street Company by M. & L. Hess, who were represented in the transaction by John W. Hahner.

The property, which is taken for this long term by the 114 East Twenty-third Street Company, includes the plot from 114 to 120 East Twenty-third Street and the abutting property at 113 to 119 East Twenty-second Street. It has been leased by the brokers for Mrs. Jennie Beach Casper and Frederick C. Beach. The Twenty-third Street frontage is 100 feet and that in Twenty-second Street 75 feet.

The plot is in the middle of the block between Fourth and Lexington Avenues, a section which has witnessed several notable improvements in big loft structures in recent years.

The lessees will begin the construction on May 1 of a high-class twelve-story building, and it is understood that several important leases are virtually closed for large space. The structure is to be ready for occupancy by Jan. 1, 1913. The building will cost $600,000, making the entire deal one of about $1,800,000.

Loft Sale Near Times Square.

An important loft deal in the Seventh Avenue district, near Times Square, was made by Max Kayser in conjunction with E. H. Ludlow & Co., who sold the twelve-story Pictorial Review Building at 222 to 226 West Thirty-ninth Street. It was sold for Mrs. U. S. Simpson to Julius Kayser, who recently purchased the southwest corner of Greenwich and Barrow Streets from James H. Cruikshank, through the same brokers.

The building was completed about three years ago, and is leased to the Pictorial Review Company for twenty-one years at an aggregate rental of $500,000. It covers a plot 63 by 98.9 feet, and stands assessed at $275,000.

Children's Aid Society Buys Site.

The Callahan estate, represented by H. D. McGuire, has sold the southwest corner of Hester and Elizabeth Streets, a plot 55 feet by 100 feet, with old buildings. The purchaser, the Children's Aid Society, is now located at 155 Worth Street, its present location being in the new civic centre, which property is to be acquired by the city for the new Court House.

The society intends to demolish the present building on its new site at once and erect a new eight-story school to take the place of the one now occupied by them. The Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the transaction.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

The Cross & Brown Company has sold for Francis X. O'Connor the four-story building at 235 West Fifty-second Street, on a plot 18.9 by 100.5.

Margaret A. Stevens has sold 126 West Fifty-eighth Street, a four-story dwelling on a lot 16.8 by 100.5, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues.

The F. Dornberger Realty Company has sold for a client to Jacob Frick the two dwellings on lot 36 by 100, and known as 312 and 314 East Fifty-third Street.

Manhattanville Apartment Sold.

The six-story elevator apartment with stores at the northeast corner of Broadway and Manhattan Street, has been purchased by an estate from Charles Hensle. The structure fronts 112.9 feet on Broadway and 47 feet on Manhattan Street, and is irregular at the rear.

The house was built by Mr. Hensle about five years ago, and has been held at $175,000. Arnold Byrne and Baumann were the brokers.

Transfers 1-24 Part of Broadway Corner.

The one-twenty-fourth portion of the property on the northwest corner of Broadway and Sixty-seventh Street, fronting one-half a block on Broadway and 118.8 feet on Sixty-seventh Street, was transferred yesterday for $14,350 to Jacob Hirsch. It was sold by Eliza J. Wiggins, as an heir of the estate of Edward B. Arkenburgh, but subject to a life interest in the property. Old buildings occupy the plot, which is opposite the Hotel Antoinette.

Bronx Properties at Auction.

Herbert A. Sherman sold at foreclosure in the Bronx auction room for the William Webber estate against Joseph Stevenson several parcels of well-located property, the offerings comprising the largest legal sale of Bronx properties held in the new Third Avenue rooms. The Webber estate bought in the large plot of twenty-five lots in the Woodlawn district for $9,900, with a mortgage of $5,000, the lots fronting on Verio, Katonah, and Martha Avenues, and 236th to 238th Streets, and also the ninety-five-foot plot on the northeast corner of 183d Street and Creston Avenue, for $16,000. The Mott Haven Company bought the 25 by 100 plot at 193 Rider Avenue, 250 feet north of 135th Street, for $8,200. The buyer owns the adjoining property.

Bronx Sales.

D. Leitner has sold to an investor 895 East 172d Street, corner of Minford Place, a four-story apartment on a lot 84 by 67; also a plot on the east side of Southern Boulevard, 50 by 100, situated about 25 feet south of Jennings Street, for about $12,000.

Mrs. P. Bunt has purchased from a client of the Duross Company 2,403 Walton Avenue, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100.

Harry B. Davis has purchased from John E. Scharsmith the five-story new-law house, on a plot 50 by 100, on the west side of Andrews Avenue, 100 feet south of Fordham Road.

The buyer gave in exchange the plot, 110 by 114.6, on the west side of Jerome Avenue, 162.5 feet south of Kingsbridge.

Henry Hornstein has sold for Henry Doll to the C. H. Fredericks Realty Company the four-story single flat at 789 Dawson Street, adjoining the corner of Longwood Avenue, on a plot 25 by 100. The purchaser gave in part payment a corner plot of 150 by 154 feet, at Main and Willow Streets, Wyandanch, L. I., and two lots, 50 by 100, on Lakeview Avenue, White Plains.

Brooklyn.

Wood, Harmon & Co. have sold at Midwood Manor one lot on Coney Island Avenue, near Avenue I, to R. W. Dodson, another on Coney Island Avenue, near Avenue I, to R. P. Eubank, and another on Coney Island Avenue, near Avenue I, to Robert A. Borland.

A. J. Waldron has sold 172 Putnam Avenue, a two-story and basement frame house, for the estate of Henrietta Tompkins to a client; also 174 Putnam Avenue, a two-story and basement frame house, for Charles H. Tompkins to a client.

Charles W. Seitz has sold 135 Lawrence Street, between Fulton and Willoughby Streets, a three-story and basement brick dwelling, on a plot 20 by 54 feet, for W. F. O. Fay to an investor.

Frank A. Seaver has sold the five lots on the southwesterly corner of Sixth Avenue and Eighty-first Street, for N. Grace to an investor.

H. J. Miller has resold 18 Russell Place, a two-family dwelling, to John H. Williams for occupancy; also 444 Chauncey Street, near Hopkinson Avenue, an eight-family modern apartment house, to a client for investment.

Long Island.

The Rickert-Finlay Realty Company has sold in Kensington to Paul W. Neeld a plot with 100 feet frontage on the north side of Nassau Road, 140 feet west of West Drive; to Belle S. Kelso a plot with 100 feet frontage on the north side of Beverly Road, between Netherwood Road and Shore Road.

New Jersey.

L. N. Nicholson & Co. have sold at Lyndhurst, N. J., to Frank C. Acers, a seven-room house with all modern improvements, plot 60 by 141 irregular, on Stuyvesant Avenue, for Walter Cook, price $4,500; to William W. Armstrong, a five-room cottage on Forest Avenue, with all improvements, plot 50 by 100, for $2,250; to Emil Black, a six-room house, all modern improvements, on Valley Brook Avenue, plot 45 by 100, for $3,500, for John H. Burke, and to John Henry Glennon a six-room cottage, with all modern improvements and plot 85 by 100, on Front Street, for John H. Burke, for $3,300.

Henry A. Caesar of Manhattan has purchased from Dalton Parmly thirty-eight acres of land on the south side of Rumson Road, and running through to the South Shrewsbury River. The property has a frontage on Rumson Road of 550 feet. William H. Hintelmann was the broker. Mr. Caesar will improve his property with a fine Summer residence.

Recent Buyers.

Seymour Bookman is the buyer of 142 West Seventy-seventh Street, sold recently by Dora M. Weil.

Mrs. Charlotte Weatherley is the buyer of the four-story dwelling at 28 East Fifty-fifth Street. It was sold by Dr. Frederic S. Dennis, who valued it at $125,000. Mrs. Weatherley recently sold the property 416 Madison Avenue, in which she had her shop, to James A. Farley for about $125,000.

Mortgages Placed.

The Duff & Brown Company has placed the following mortgages for A. F. Koelble: $39,000 on 520 West 184th Street, for C. D. Ward; $50,000 on 602-4 West 146th Street, and for the Ebes Estate, $25,000 on 18-20 Central Road, Fort Lee, N. J.

$50,000 Factory in Jersey City.

The general contract for a factory for the Safety Car Heating and Lighting Company of 206 Erie Street, to be erected on the south side of Twelfth Street, near Erie Street, Jersey City, has been awarded to the Turner Construction Company of 11 Broadway, Manhattan.

The new building will be of brick and concrete, five stories in height, and will measure 100 by 100. All modern improvements will be installed. The cost of the structure will be about $50,000.

New Bank for Newark.

Plans were filed with the Building Department yesterday for the new building of the American National Bank at Springfield and Belmont Avenues, Newark, N. J. The structure will be six stories high and will cost $46,000.

Red brick will be the material used, and the trim will be of terra cotta. Hughes & Backoff are the architects. Ground is to be broken in the early Spring.

Leases.

William Iselin & Co., for many years located at Greene and Canal Streets, has arranged to lease the store and first loft in the northerly half and three upper floors of the twelve-story building to be erected by Irons & Todd on the block front on the east side of Fourth Avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets. The lease is for a term of ten years at an aggregate rental of about $1,000,000.

The Republican County Committee has leased for a term of years, through Albert B. Ashforth, the seventh floor in the Tilden Building at 109-111 West Fortieth Street, near Sixth Avenue. The committee at present has quarters in 43 West Thirty-ninth Street.

Davis Eisler has leased from Max Burland he two halls now in the course of erection, to be known as the Burland Casinos, 809 Westchester Avenue, Bronx, for a term of fifteen years.

A. G. Spalding & Brothers have leased temporary quarters a few doors east of their present building at 29 West Forty-second Street, which they will vacate on or about May 1.

Chinese Laundry Building in Harlem

Plans have been filed for the construction of a one-story laundry for Chin Dow and Chin Chee, lessees, on the south side of 142d Street, 300 feet east of Lexington Avenue. It will have a frontage of 43 feet and a depth of 56.6 feet. M. W. Del Gaudio is the architect. Ray Markowitz is the owner.

Notes.

The Owl Cigar Company property at the southwest corner of Sixty-eighth Street and Avenue A, reported sold to the Presbyterian Hospital, was sold through Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, and it is understood that the price was $100,000.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Fair weather prevailed during Friday in practically all sections east of the Mississippi River, with the exception of light snow flurries on the great lakes.

Disturbances of considerable energy are developing in the West, and snow is falling in the Rocky Mountain districts and adjoining sections, and rain in the West Gulf region and States lying to the north.

The temperature has risen in nearly all districts east of the Rockies, and the readings are considerably above the seasonal normal in the Western and Middle West.

Fair weather will continue in the Atlantic States during Saturday, except for rain in Florida, but the western disturbance will push rapidly eastward, and cause general precipitation in the Western and Middle States, except in the Far Northwest Saturday and Sunday, probably reaching Middle Atlantic sections by or during Sunday night.

The temperature will rise generally in the States east of the Mississippi, while colder weather will gradually overspread the trans-mississippi region by Saturday night and Sunday, and the Eastern States on Sunday.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate variable; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate southerly; South Atlantic Coast, moderate southeast, increasing.

Steamships departing Saturday for European ports will have moderate southerly winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair and warmer Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and unsettled by night; moderate variable winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and warmer Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer, followed by rain at night; south to southeast winds, increasing Sunday.

Northern New England—Fair Saturday and probably Sunday; moderate variable winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1911.	1912.		1911.	1912.
3 A. M.	24	22	4 P. M.	29	36
6 A. M.	20	22	6 P. M.	30	36
9 A. M.	20	24	9 P. M.	29	34
12 M.	24	30	12 P. M.	29	34

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 28; for the corresponding date last year it was 24; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 32.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 22; at 8 P. M. it was 35. Maximum temperature, 36 degrees at 3 P. M.; minimum, 21 degrees at 7 A. M. Humidity, 54 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 57 per cent. at 8 P. M.

CHANGES OF NAME.

BENJAMIN KOSOFSKY, a bookkeeper of 50 East Ninety-ninth Street, to BENJAMIN KOSSOFF; has been known as Kossoff for a number of years. City Court Judge Donnelly.

ORIE JOSEPH GHIRARDELLI, owner of a Welsbach light business at 70 Bowery and living at 529 East 118th Street, to ORIE JOSEPH GERARD; was given the name of Gerard when at school and has been known by that name since. City Court Judge Schmuck.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A meeting of the Principals' Club, of which William A. Boylan is the President, will be held at the Hotel Astor on the evening of March 1.

The Men Principals' Association of Manhattan and the Bronx will hold its next meeting on March 16. The subject for discussion will be, "What Qualifications Should the Teachers of Boys' Classes Possess Which Are Not Equally Required of the Teachers of Girls' Classes?" Principal C. Warren Hawkins of Public School 11, the Bronx, will conduct the discussion.

City Superintendent Maxwell is in receipt of a letter from Alfred Hopkins, an architect of 11 East Twenty-fourth Street, in praise of the public school system. Mr. Hopkins says that he recently advertised for an office boy and got 150 answers, well expressed and well written. The boys referred him to their teachers, "with a confidence that was very gratifying." The letter ends as follows:

I believe that I am one of the very few individuals upon this planet who has no thought of teaching the teachers how to teach. I hear various criticisms of the methods in the public schools, and your methods may be all wrong for all I know, but I want to go on record here in assuring you that your boys are distinctly all right.

The Board of Superintendents, at its meeting yesterday, completed its list of between 600 and 700 teachers whose names will be submitted to the Board of Education at its meeting next Wednesday for appointment in the elementary schools.

City Superintendent Maxwell and Associate City Superintendent Edson will leave this city to-morrow night for St. Louis, where they will attend a meeting of an educational association. They will probably be gone a week. Their expenses are paid by the Board of Education. Dr. Maxwell will name one of his Associate Superintendents to represent him at next Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Education.

The Eastern District High School of Brooklyn will hold a nominating convention on Monday for officers of the general organization of the school. The election will be held on March 1.

At the meeting of the Men Principals' Association of Brooklyn at the Hotel Clarendon, in that borough, this evening, Chief Justice Isaac F. Russell of the Court of Special Sessions will speak on the subject of "Juvenile Delinquency." City Superintendent Maxwell will also speak.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has denied the request of the Controller that a non-competitive examination for promotion to second-grade clerk be given to Samuel L. Kraft, a first-grade clerk. The regular promotion examination for second-grade clerk was held on Jan. 29, and Mr. Kraft was not eligible on that date, as he had not completed the requisite two years' service in the first grade.

The commission has approved the increase in salary of Karl K. Williams, topographical draughtsman, from $1,500 to $1,650 a year. It has disapproved the proposed increase of salary of Charles N. Powell, assistant engineer in the office of the President of the Borough of Queens, from $2,250 a year to $4,000 a year.

The commission has granted the request of the Department of Health that the list resulting from the examination for promotion from laboratory assistant to bacteriological diagnostician be divided so as to provide one list for the diagnosis laboratory and another for the research laboratory.

The commission has disapproved the action of the Acting President of the Borough of Queens in increasing the salary of William T. Stevenson, messenger in the Topographical Bureau, from $1,050 a year to a basis of $4.50 a day.

The commission has denied the request of the Tenement House Commissioner that James A. Enright, a second-grade clerk, be permitted to take a special promotion examination to third-grade clerk, in view of the fact that he was ill at the time of the regular examination.

The commission has granted the following requests:

Employment by the Fire Commissioner of Ernest A. Fuller of 1,043 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, as assistant electrical engineer in the Fire Alarm Telegraph Bureau at $3,000 a year.

Employment by the Fire Commissioner of Arthur E. Cunningham as automobile engineman in the Fire Alarm Telegraph Bureau at $1,200 a year.

Employment by the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas, and Electricity of Joseph F. Hanrahan of 572 Park Avenue, as Inspector of Light and Power at $1,200 a year.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on March 20 at the New York Custom House for vacancies in the position of chemist in forest products in the Forest Service, for duty at Madison, Wis., and elsewhere at salaries ranging from $1,600 to $2,500 a year. The minimum salary is usually paid at entrance, and only in exceptional cases of unusual qualifications, including a large amount of valuable experience, will a higher entrance salary than $1,600 be paid. Men only will be admitted to this examination. The subjects will be as follows: Organic chemistry, chemistry employed in industries utilizing forest products, thesis or publication of not less than 1,000 words on some subject bearing upon the work of the position, and training, experience, and fitness. An educational training equivalent to that required for the degree of Bachelor of Science or chemical engineer from a reputable college or university, and at least three years' experience in reseach or industrial chemical work is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. It is desired to obtain as applicants persons who have a special knowledge of the chemistry of wood distillation, pulp manufacture, tannins, and gums derived from wood and wood preservation. Applicants must have reached their twentieth but not their fiftieth birthday on the date of the examination. The forest products laboratory deals with economic and technical problems concerning the utilization of the products of the forests of the United States. The work is conducted largely by experimental and research methods, and consits principally of investigations of the mechanical and physical properties of wood, processes for the preservation of wood against decay, and other destructive agents, practical problems of the pulp and paper industry, the wood distillation industry, other industries utilizing wood by chemical means, and the naval stores industry. The technical force of the laboratory consists chiefly of men who have had an engineering or a chemical training. The present staff consists of about thirty men, receiving salaries ranging from $1,200 to $2,500. Besides the laboratory at Madison, offices are maintained at Washington, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, and Portland, Ore. Laboratories for testing the mechanical properties of timber are operated at Boulder, Col., and Seattle, Wash., and a laboratory for the study of the manufacture of paper pulp by the mechanical process is conducted at Wausau, Wis.

THE UNITED SERVICE.

FORECLOSURE SALE.

STANDARD CORDAGE COMPANY.
SALE IN FORECLOSURE OF FIRST MORTGAGE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Supreme Judicial Court. Suffolk County, In Equity.—No. 15,870.

The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, Plaintiff, v. Standard Cordage Company; Clarence H. Kelsey, as Receiver of Standard Cordage Company; The Trust Company of America, as Trustee; and John Connor and Patrick L. O'Connor, co-partners, doing business under the firm name of P. L. Connor & Company, Defendants.

In the above entitled cause the plaintiff has been adjudged entitled to a present foreclosure of a first mortgage dated April 1, 1906, executed and delivered to it by Standard Cordage Company to secure an issue of first mortgage bonds amounting in the aggregate to $2,805,373.10.

By the authority, and pursuant to the terms, of a decree entered in said cause on the 6th day of June, 1911, and the amendments or modifications thereof, the undersigned, appointed Special Master therein, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder as an entirety all the properties covered by said mortgage, of whatever nature or description, lying or being within Commonwealth of Massachusetts. (Such sale will not include the properties covered by said mortgage and lying or being in the State of New York or the State of New Jersey.)

Such sale will be made at the office of the Sewall & Day Mill, so-called, 358 Western Avenue, in the City of Boston (Brighton District), in said Commonwealth, on THURSDAY, MARCH TWENTY-FIRST, 1912, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The properties to be sold include:

1.—A parcel of land together with the buildings, equipment and machinery thereon (with the exception noted below) situate in the Brighton District of said Boston and bounded in part by Western Avenue, Everett Street and Lincoln Street. This parcel is frequently known as the Sewall & Day Mill and has been estimated to contain 761,655 square feet of land.

2.—A vacant parcel of land, opposite the parcel above mentioned, extending from Western Avenue toward the Charles River. This parcel has been estimated to contain 59,599 square feet of land.

3.—A parcel of land, together with the buildings, equipment and machinery thereon, (with the exception noted below), situate in the Roxbury District of said Boston and bounded in part by Norfolk Avenue, Gerard Street and Kemble Street. This parcel is frequently known as the Pearson Mill and has been estimated to contain 114,919 square feet of land.

No equipment or machinery on any of said parcels will be included in the sale which, according to the terms of the first report of the Special Master herein filed June 5, 1911, is the property of the Cannabis Manufacturing Company or the property of the defendant Kelsey, as Receiver.

The real estate taxes in 1911 upon the properties to be sold were based upon an assessment which was in excess of four hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($450,000).

The above description of the properties to be sold is in general terms and is explanatory only. For a full description of the properties covered by said mortgage reference is hereby made to the said mortgage as recorded in the Registry of Deeds for Suffolk County, Book 6,139, page 449.

Said decree entered June 6, 1911, as amended or modified, includes the following provisions:

"15.—That no bid shall be received from any person who shall not, prior to the opening of the sale, have deposited with the Special Master the sum of $5,000 in cash or by certified check upon some bank or trust company approved by the Special Master. The deposits of the unsuccessful bidders shall be returned to them at the conclusion of the sale. The deposit of the purchaser shall be applied to the payment of the purchase price if the sale is confirmed; otherwise it shall be returned to him. If the sale is confirmed and the purchaser fails to complete the payment of the purchase price, or to do any other act required to be done under the terms of this decree, or any further decree of this Court, the said deposit of $5,000 shall be forfeited by the purchaser and such sum shall be disposed of as this Court may direct.

"16.—That no bid for such properties hereby directed to be sold of less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) shall be received.

"20.—That the said properties shall be sold subject to the lien of all unpaid taxes or assessments, assessed or to be assessed.

"The purchaser shall, at or before the delivery of said deed or deeds, deliver to the plaintiff a bond with sureties conditioned to save the plaintiff harmless from all liabilities, incurred by it while acting pursuant to the terms of said mortgage with respect to the properties hereby directed to be sold, and which liabilities are not discharged out of the proceeds of the sale or paid by the purchaser at or before the delivery of said deed or deeds. The terms and the sureties shall be subject to the approval of the Special Master, if the purchaser and the plaintiff cannot agree thereupon.

"22.—That within twenty-one days after such sale is confirmed the purchaser shall pay the balance of the purchase price in cash to the Special Master or shall deposit with such person as the Court shall designate at least 75 per cent. of the outstanding bonds and coupons. The purchaser shall forthwith be let into, and shall take possession of the properties hereby directed to be sold. . . . . ."

Further particulars may be had upon inquiry from the solicitors for the plaintiff.

SUBWAY SMOKERS FILL POLICE NETS

Hundreds Haled to Court and Fined for Taking "Last Puffs" Under Ground.

FOLLY, SAY MAGISTRATES

Wasted Police Energy, Corrigan and Butts Declare, with a Crime Wave Swooping Down on Us.

The officials of the Health Department have decided that the smokers of New York will have to stop carrying their lighted cigars, cigarettes, or pipes down into the Subway—a habit which they have repeatedly tried to stamp out in vain.

To the end that their decision shall be impressed forever upon the minds of all whom it may concern, Health Squad policemen in large numbers dropped silently into the various stations on the stroke of 12 when Thursday came to an end and Friday began, and there took up a vigilant and fruitful watch of twenty-four hours that proved vastly irritating to the army of smokers.

Before nightfall the list of smokers summoned probably ran into the hundreds, although the actual figures cannot be known until to-day, when the Health Squad men turn in their books and the offenders themselves troop sheepishly to the various courts.

Dr. Walter Bensel, Sanitary Superintendent, who does not smoke himself, grew tired of seeing and smelling the butts and stubs despite the red and black lettered signs which look down from the station walls. The activity of the Health Department has been increased of late in this respect, and yesterday marked the beginning of a series of concentrated efforts to wipe out the nuisance. When midnight came last night and the Health Squad men withdrew from their bases of operation, it was by no means a sign of truce, for Dr. Bensel has decided that until further notice the department will devote one day in every seven to just such prosecution of the man who smokes out of bounds. The days for this special activity will be chosen secretly and at random, so that a smoker can never feel quite comfortable now when he clings to his cigar after leaving the street level.

Some only grinned and quietly pocketed the summonses which mean the loss of time involved in a trip to court, and in all probability a dollar fine. Some were highly indignant, and a few abusive. The Magistrates received the offenders in moods as varied. Chief Magistrate McAdoo, in the Tombs Court, gave voice to his approval of the business-like scheme, but it impressed Magistrate Butts differently.

Thinks Prosecutions Untimely.

Magistrate Butts had five offenders before him in the Morrisania Court, and after fining the men a dollar each, he pressed a few questions upon Patrolman Hickey, who had served the summonses in the 149th Street Station in the early morning. When he learned that Hickey had been sent there for a tour of eight hours' duty, the Magistrate gave vent to extreme disapproval.

"This is amazing," he said. "It is an outrage. Robbing and murdering are going on every day in this city in our midst. No wonder our citizens are making complaints because of the police management of the situation. I am surprised that they should concentrate their efforts on such things as smoking in the Subway when thievery of every kind is going on. A crime wave is sweeping over this city, and respectable citizens are afraid to go out of their homes after 10 o'clock at night for fear of being held up and robbed or assaulted. I don't care who this hits. It's bad police management. I speak for the good citizens of the Bronx."

At the Department of Health it was pointed out that the men assigned to yesterday's work were the men regularly detailed to help in the work of that department, none of the seventy-three men there under Lieut. Quinn being available for capturing taxicab robbers or in other ways destroying the business stability of highwaymen. The fifty-two men who were put on the trail of the Subway smokers were members of the regular Health Squad, stationed at the department building in upper Sixth Avenue. Some were of the opinion yesterday that, under those circumstances, Commissioner Waldo would do well to withdraw some of the Health Department force and give the men more serious work. Magistrate McAdoo had this to say:

"The carrying of lighted butts and the expectorating at Subway entrances must be stopped. I have had actually to pick my way some mornings on coming out of the Subway stations because of this disgusting habit. The stench emanating from some of the pipes and dead nickel-a-box cigars which it has been my misfortune to sit next to in the Subway has been enough to make me wish that the Tobacco Trust had been legislated out of existence.

"In the Bronx Subway I have sat next to pipes of every description, and the odor from the sickly sweet nargilehs of the Orient to the big-bowled hookahs they bring over from Dusseldorf, and which, after they have been sufficiently impregnated with the nicotine of a thousand and one lunch hours, give forth such a rancid, noisome odor as to make one think an asafoetida bomb had been exploded some place in the car. I shall deal more harshly with the next offenders brought before me."

Magistrate Corrigan was one of those moved to caustic comment by the attack upon the underground smoker.

"It is obviously foolish," he said, "to waste the time of policemen and detectives on such petty and trivial matters at a time when the city is in the midst of such hold-ups and crime as are being daily perpetrated.

"The time has come when the taxpayers' money should be used to better advantage than paying for men to hang around Subways, molesting people who have no intention of doing a wrong.

"As a matter of fact, the police have no right whatever to serve these men with subpoenas. If they are guilty of a misdemeanor, the only course of action the officers have is to make an arrest. They have no jurisdiction or right to serve persons with subpoenas unless they are positive of their identification, and know them to be the persons whose names appear on the subpoenas. Obviously, it is mere guess work on the part of the serving officer, when he merely accosts a man in the Subway, asks him his name, and then hands him a 'John Doe' subpoena."

How the Smokers Took It.

The Health Squad men, all in plain clothes, so that they took offenders unawares, were provided with summons books, an arrangement of blanks like checkbooks. A man seen carrying or puffing at a cigar would be taxed with his offense, compelled to identify himself, and then the policeman would politely give him his choice between going immediately before a Magistrate or accepting service of a summons requiring his appearance next morning. Most of those caught yesterday chose the latter course. The summonses served prior to 8 o'clock yesterday morning were 43 in number, and of these 36 were convicted, 5 discharged, and 2 allowed to go over. The total fines in these cases amounted to $40.

On Brooklyn Bridge, two printers' devils who were nabbed as they took lingering puffs at their cigarettes were so wrought up by the activity of the policeman that they decided to stay around and see that others were served as they were, that the rich man's finest leaf, if lighted, should be penalized as well as the little home-made cigarette of the impecunious. Their energy in pointing out offenders led to great results from that station. One negro who was caught with a glowing cigarette between his lips suffered the latter to part in a smile as he announced, "One cigarette—one summons," and after accepting service he serenely finished his smoke. Hereafter the Health Squad men will be instructed that each subsequent puff is a fresh offense.

The ordinance invoked for yesterday's crusade is Section 187 of the Sanitary Code, which says:

> Smoking or carrying any lighted cigar, cigarette, or pipe in or upon any stairway, platform, station, or car of any railway maintained, operated, or running underneath the ground surface is hereby prohibited.

The arrests in 1911 under this section were 127, of which 100 ended in fines averaging between $1 and $2. The arrests in 1912, up to 8 o'clock yesterday morning, were 226. In these cases there were 195 fines. The men who did duty in the Subway yesterday were instructed to watch also for men who expectorated, and many of these were carried off to court, but the emphasis of the day was the anti-smoking slogan, and the offenders against Section 187 are far more numerous.

CHURCH WORK IN SCHOOLS

Urged by R. Fulton Cutting to Improve the Public Morals.

Speaking before the New York School of Philanthropy on the subject "The Church and the Public School," yesterday, R. Fulton Cutting, President of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, declared that the Church "seems to regard public education as a manufactory of intellectual individuals rather than as an institution for cultivating moral individuality." He urged that the churches take an active interest in the supervision and control of the moral education of the country's youth in the public schools. He said:

"Organized co-operation between the Church and public school teachers will materially increase the influence and importance of each in the community in forming a moral sense in the plastic minds of the community's youth. Everywhere, through school committees, the pastor and his people should get in close touch with teachers, principals, and district Superintendents of the public schools, to study modern methods of education, sanitation in the schools, the adaptation of the curriculum to meet the needs of the community, and work for the introduction of manual training, elementary agriculture, and domestic science. At present machine methods of education with no regard for individual capacities or defects of children are responsible for much of the crime in the country.

"There are 19,000,000 children in the public schools of this country, receiving no direct religious education. For five hours a day they are in touch with their teachers and under the teachers' influence. Once a week, less than 1 per cent. of these children go to Sunday schools, which attempt to make up for the lack of moral education in the public schools; but too often the methods of pedagogy used in these Sunday schools are archaic and obsolete, the practical methods of teaching in the public schools being there unknown. The Church exhausts itself in efforts to reclaim the youth whom it has neglected."

President Edmund J. James of the University of Illinois, who is returning home after a trip to Europe, was called upon for an impromptu talk after Mr. Cutting's address. He, too, spoke in favor of a nearer lay interest in the public school system.

KILLED IN ELEVATOR SHAFTS.

Girl Stenographer Plunges Down 16 Stories—Two Men Found Dead.

Tenants of 59 Pearl Street, startled by shrieks coming from the elevator shaft shortly after noon yesterday, found the body of Jeanne Sackheim, a stenographer, lying on the top of the elevator. It is supposed that the girl fell from the sixteenth floor where she was employed. She had left the office of A. Di Gristina, an importer of lemons, a few moments before her body was found. Every bone was broken, and Coroner Winterbottom said that she must have been killed instantly.

It is supposed that Miss Sackheim, who lived with her parents at 219 Audubon Avenue, found the door of the elevator shaft open and opening it still further to glance down for a glimpse of the car, lost her balance.

Louis Wolfson of 447 Broadway went to the freight elevator on the third floor of the building, where his jewelry offices are situated, yesterday, and found J. T. Latinerd, the negro elevator operator, hanging dead in the shaft, his neck caught between the floor and the top of the car door. It is supposed that Latinerd leaned out and was struck by the top of the door in the shaft.

Frank Filsinger, a truckman, working in the basement of 9 Desbrosses Street shortly before noon yesterday, found at the bottom of the elevator shaft the body of Michael Lacey, a laborer, of 685 East Ninth Street. A surgeon from the Hudson Street Hospital said the man had been dead for forty-eight hours. It is supposed that he fell from the first floor or died on Wednesday night while at work in the base of the shaft.

MRS. BATTEN DESTITUTE.

Former Wife of Rothschild Unable to Pay Bill at Chicago Hotel.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Practically a prisoner in a suite at the Blackstone Hotel here, Mrs. Theresa K. Batten, once the wife of David Rothschild, a New York banker, who died in Sing Sing Prison, is penniless and friendless.

Mrs. Batten, whose second husband is suing for divorce in Reno, Nev., on charges of cruelty and drunkenness, came to the Blackstone Feb. 18. She had engaged by telegraph an expensive suite, and at once summoned a physician and a nurse. Both were in constant attendance upon her until Thursday, when without giving any reason, they told the hotel management that other arrangements would have to be made.

Soon after her arrival Mrs. Batten informed the newspapers that she was the widow of Rothschild and announced that she recently had come into possession of $500,000 left by her first husband. This amount, she said, she would turn over to the creditors of the wrecked bank.

That the story was due to a disordered mind is the belief of the management of the hotel, who investigated when it became apparent she would be unable to pay the large bill she owed here. They learned that she is the daughter of Louis Kessell of New York and a sister of Dr. Louis Kessell. Both were notified of the woman's plight, but neither paid any attention to the telegrams sent by Mrs. Batten and the hotel management. This Mrs. Batten declared was due to the fact that her people strenuously objected to her marriage to Batten, who is not of her religion.

The hotel management probably will send Mrs. Batten to a charitable institution to-morrow.

BUTTER MEN TRY TO STOP INQUIRY

Supreme Court Restraining Order to be Served on Magistrate Murphy.

STATE INVESTIGATION ON

Commission Appointed by Gov. Dix Holds Its First Hearing—Railroad Men Testify.

Franklin Taylor, counsel for the New York Mercantile Exchange, obtained an order from Supreme Court Justice Vernon Davis yesterday requiring Magistrate Daniel F. Murphy to show cause why a writ of prohibition should not be issued preventing the continuance of the investigation which Magistrate Murphy is conducting in the Criminal Court Building to find out whether or not the Mercantile Exchange has been artificially raising the prices of butter, eggs, and cheese.

The writ is returnable next Monday. Assistant District Attorney De Ford will accept service of the writ for Magistrate Murphy and will argue against issuing it. Mr. Taylor's idea in obtaining the order is part of a general plan to force Magistrate Murphy to allow him to appear formally for his client at the present preliminary investigation.

F. G. Henry, Superintendent of the New York Mercantile Exchange, was the only witness called in the investigation yesterday. He admitted that the 285 members of the Exchange constituted practically all the wholesale dealers or jobbers in butter, eggs, and cheese in this county. According to his testimony, the Exchange employs a statistician to visit all the railroad piers each day and compile a statement of all the amounts of butter, eggs, and cheese received, so that the hereabouts of the supply on hand can be determined.

The consumption of eggs in this city has fallen off, for some unexplained reason, the witness testified, whereas the consumption of butter has increased.

The New York State Food Investigating Commission, which was recently appointed by Gov. Dix, held the first of its public hearigs yesterday at its offices, 202 Franklin Street. The commission is composed of William Church Osborn, Chairman; Calvin Husen, the newly appointed State Commissioner of Agriculture, and Ezra Tuttle of Eastport.

Chairman Osborn opened the proceedings by stating the purposes of the investigation.

"The commission has been formed to see that foodstuffs which are sold in this State are pure and wholesome," said Mr. Osborn. "We will also investigate the way foodstuffs are transported from point to point between the producer and the consumer, to see if the former could not receive more for his product and the latter pay less for it."

Local railroad company Superintendents were called to testify at yesterday's hearing. They were asked to describe the way the railroad companies handled potatoes, eggs, butter, and all other incoming foodstuffs in the city railroad yards here.

"What do your companies do to prevent a glut in the market and to keep the foodstuffs from coming in faster than they can be sold?" Chairman Osborn asked each railroad Superintendent.

The Superintendents replied that they used the "embargo" plan, telegraphing to their agents not to receive any more of the particular kind of foodstuff of which there was a surplus until the surplus in the yards had been cleared away. Tach Superintendent was asked to furnish the commission with a table of the statistics of all the foodstuffs handled in his company's local freight yards during 1911. The hearing will be continued next Thursday at 11 o'clock.

WHO OWNS THIS BLACK BAG?

Lies Unclaimed In Broadway Till Boy Takes It to Police Station.

The police of the Greenwich Street station are holding a black leather valise that was taken there late yesterday afternoon by Samuel Mosbery, 16 years old, an errand boy employed by Charles Reilly & Co., of 87 John Street. The boy told Lieut. Foody that he found the bag at the south east corner of Broadway and Wall Street. He said he saw the valise on the Broadway sidewalk and watched it for about twenty minutes, and as no one claimed it he thought he would take it to the station.

Wall Street and Broadway is in the Old Slip station district, but as the bag was heavy Lieut. Foody decided to keep the bag at the Greenwich Street station, and notified Police Headquarters.

The bag is securely locked and resembles the kind of bag lawyers' clerks and bank messengers use.

3,600 SILK WEAVERS STRIKE.

Paterson Operatives Demand the New Union Scale of Wages.

PATERSON, N. J., Feb. 23.—About 3,600 weavers employed in the broad silk mills of this city failed to go to work this morning. The strike was caused by some of the smaller mills failing to pay the new union scale of wages. The scale has been adopted by all of the larger mills.

After the Executive Committee of the Weavers' Union went into executive session to receive representatives of the mill owners the Dexter-Lambert Company, employing 150 operatives, sent word that it would grant the scale, but would prefer to deal with its own employes directly, instead of through the union committee. A reply was sent that this can probably be arranged.

The strikers demand a minimum wage of $18 a week. They gave the police some trouble this afternoon and three or four of them were arrested.

BURROWES Red Cedar WINDOW-SEAT CHEST

No Money Down!

44-in. long
21-in. wide
21-in. deep

$22 On Easy Payments

You will find this the most thoroughly satisfactory piece of furniture you ever put into your home. Not only is it ideal for the safe storing of all your perishable furs and fabrics, but it is strikingly handsome and serviceable. It is made of mountain-grown, aromatic Tennessee Red Cedar (the only moth-proof kind), retaining all the wonderful natural graining of the wood, and tastefully decorated with heavy studded bands of oxidized bronze. Note the dimensions above; it is large enough to save all storage bills for furs, clothing, etc.

Burrowes Red Cedar Chests are built to last. They are solid and substantial. They are better value—cost less for what you get—than any other Chests sold. Your children's children will derive as much solid satisfaction from the chest you buy to-day as you will yourself.

A Burrowes Chest for Every Taste

	Length	Width	Height
Utility Chest	44 in.	21 in.	18 in.	$20.

GOWNING MIDDLE-AGED AND ELDERLY WOMEN

The lack of interest generally shown in this field has induced Mrs. Lee, for many years fashion writer and expert adviser to The Evening Telegram, to make a specialty of catering to those who wish to be fashionably yet comfortably gowned.

Mrs. Lee will apportion fixed sums, design to suit individual needs; also execute orders for gowns, all with a probable saving of time, money and disappointment. Address a soft, pliable, unstretchable fabric imported exclusively for use in these corsets. This material is singularly adapted for the production of the supple, undulating lines demanded by present fashions.

THE NEW LILY OF FRANCE CORSETS

The cut, texture and boning of these distinctive corsets are entirely different from corsets of ordinary make. An absolute glove fit for hips, bust and waist, yet providing flexibility and absolute freedom in breathing and movement. The elasticity of this new fabric insures shapeliness of the corset while eliminating all discomforting pressure.

Prices $5 to $35

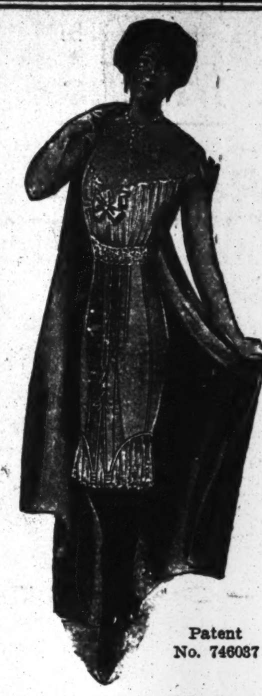
BOOKLET B MAILED ON REQUEST



Patent
No. 746087

This very unique model shows a hip confiner, built high enough to protect the waist line. In this way the very fashionable effect of being uncorseted is obtained, while the flesh below the waist line is held in a firm but supple casement.

Price.................. $8.00

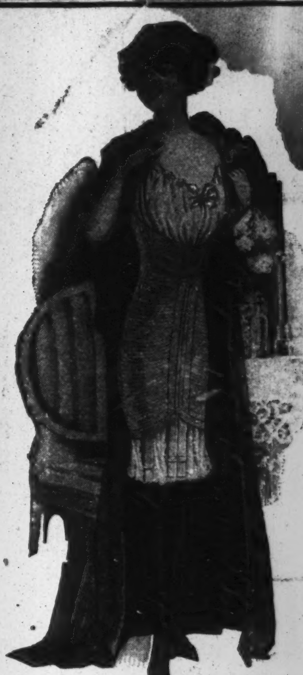
New York, January 31st, 1912.
The Le Papillon Corset Company, 21 West 38th Street, New York City:

Gentlemen: I congratulate you on the beauty and perfect fit of your corset.

It conforms to the figure beautifully, and is most pliable, giving entire satisfaction.

Truly yours,
Fritzie von Büsing.



This model is made of rubber webbing. Its flexibility insures one of perfect ease and comfort. It is worn by many professional dancers and artists, where graceful pose and movements cannot be confined. The bust line is low and the only boning is at the front and back.

Price............... $25.00 up
